ce Calhoun Scores in Story of Real Life. PATRONS PLEASED WITH THE CHARMING DECEIVER."

icity, clever acting and an insting story are all of which "The aming Deceiver" has to boast, and these are enough to make any are go over big. story is consistent, it is logical; easily occur in any New Engtown, and due credit should be Geo. L. Sargent, director, in type of characters and scenic nds he has used in making duction. Alice Calhoun, one of erest of the newer stars, won y score of new admirers when she flashed upon the screen at the kel last night. It was the first time she had been seen in an emotion-In this picture she assumes role of a young wife whose husnd is in jail. Her mother had preusly married against the wishes of parents and was disowned. At ning of the story the young is being evicted from a tenement in Montreal. She handles this me in an unusual manner and wins sympathy of the audience from the fash, although it seems like we than a coincidence that at the thological moment Edith should rere a letter that changes her des-This feature is well worth seeing.
