John F. Odell died at his residence, 185 Hamilton road, this morning of congestion of the brain. On Monday last he witnessed the Labor Day procession, going home, feeling unwell. A doctor was called immediately and up to his death he never regained consciousness from Monday night. A complication of kidney and heart failure also set in. Deceased had resided in London for many years. He formerly was in the employ of Edward Adams & Co., but for some fifteen years has kept a grocery store on the Hamilton road. He was of a quiet disposition and was known and beloved by many. His brother Philip left London about five years ago and is now living in West Superior, Wis. A widow and three children are left to mourn his loss. They will have the sympathy of many friends in their sad affliction. Mr. Odell was a respected member of London Council, Royal Arcanum. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon.

CORBETT'S LATEST FEAT.

Fought Six Rounds for Edison's Kinetoscope and Won $5,000-Every Move Reproduced by the Wonderinl Instrument.

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 7 .- Champion James J. Corbett fought a six-round battle with Pete Courtney, of Trenton, today at of Montreal College, successor to the late | Edison's laboratory in front of the kinetoscope. Corbett sparred with his man during the first five rounds, but in the sixth he landed several hard blows, one of which knocked Courtney out. The current was turned on the kinetoscope amid great excitement, and the fight began. In the first two rounds Courtney was badly punished, but stood it gamely.

In the third round a blow in the jaw felled him, but he rose in seven seconds. Then Corbett let up on him. Courtney came up fresh in the fourth, but was almost floored again. He landed a vicious one on Corbett's jaw. The champion then went at his man like a mad bull, knocking him all over the small ring and had him almost out as time was called. In the fifth Courtney got gay again and Corbett concluded to finish him and began Press stating that the pavement on Queen's his famous left hand punches. Courtney clinched and saved himself.

In the sixth Corbett felled his man twice in succession by blows on the body and jaw. Courtney tried to get up, but rolled over senseless. When he came to, Corbett shook hands with him and told him he put up a better fight than Mitchell. The champion received $5,000 and Courtney $500 for sacrificing himself.
