SACHETS AND SACHET CRAFTINESS

Woman, a Flower Symphony-How She May Entangle in Laces and Ribbons, Drapery and Frills, the Latest Perfume Whims.

Ask the modern belle upon what she depends for fragrant subtleties, and he will answer without hesitation, "My sadhet bags." Every fold of lace, every silken frill, every gauzy drape and ribbon-run novelty has been trained to catch a pot-pourri of sweets so intermingled that to trace the leading odor is impossible.

It is the faint, delicate suggestion here for the moment and gone the next, that catches and holds the fancy. And what is the secret of this clinging perfume? Take a peep into the sachet-lover's boudoir and you will discover some of her odoriferous tricks.

There are pads and pads, wadded, perfumed and tufted, swinging against the closet walls; lift the curtain of the clothes-press, open the drawers of the bureau and chiffonier, or investigate any of the nooks holding the finery of this devotee to feminine sweetness, and you are greeted with blossom whiffs altogether alluring.

Tiny, scented affairs are tucked within the bandboxes, holding the latest headgear caprice, and handkerchief and glove boxes, lace-tray and veil-casket are one and all powdered with spicy sweets. Miniature sachets nestle in the stationary of her writing-desk, the downy pillows upon which she goes to dreamland, and even the divan quilt holds a suggestion of flowery fragrance. It is altogether pleasing to find floating from laces, gloves, fan and ribbons the fragrance of natural violets, roses or heliotrope. Our new Sachets for Christmas are here—the highest perfection attainable. They are delicate, fragrant and lasting. CATRNICROSS & LAWRENCE,
