

and can't al-
General's, and himself; but I
s own father.
n't let off the
ed to be about
ugh it aint al-
home truths
y feller, too,
no soul could
I ever see'd.
t for my old
ave it for 5s.,
Always ax a
en blue-nose
tly. I never think. But nder sore. I t seem to me

that fasion,
ec. If I am,
m as easy as
and I think
this older, or
soon, I re-

SLICK,

re is to take
ith me next
d the coast,
s, afore we
n, afore he
next hitch,
only used
n almighty
ed himself
here; you
at's a good
y depend.

CONTENTS.

	Page
SLICK'S LETTER	v
CHAPTER I.
THE TROTTING HORSE	1
CHAPTER II.
THE CLOCKMAKER	1
CHAPTER III.
THE SILENT GIRLS	7
CHAPTER IV.
CONVERSATIONS AT THE RIVER PHILIP	9
CHAPTER V.
JUSTICE PETTIFOG	12
CHAPTER VI.
ANECDOTES	14
CHAPTER VII.
GO AHEAD	17
CHAPTER VIII.
THE PREACHER THAT WANDERED FROM HIS TEXT	20
CHAPTER IX.
YANKEE EATING AND HORSE FEEDING	24
CHAPTER X.
THE ROAD TO A WOMAN'S HEART -THE BROKEN HEART	27
CHAPTER XI.
CUMBERLAND OYSTERS PRODUCE MELANCHOLY FOREBODINGS	31
CHAPTER XII.
THE AMERICAN EAGLE	35
CHAPTER XIII.
THE CLOCKMAKER'S OPINION OF HALIFAX	40
CHAPTER XIV.
SAYINGS AND DOINGS IN CUMBERLAND	45
CHAPTER XV.
THE DANCING MASTER ABROAD	48
CHAPTER XVI.
MR SLICK'S OPINION OF THE BRITISH	52