CURRENT TRADE CONDITIONS.

ONTARIO.

The most noticeable features of general market conditions are the strength of prices and the marked degree of hopefulness as to the outlook for spring business. There does not seem to be an unfavorable indication. Architects throughout the province have a large volume of work in their hands, with instructions to proceed with building operations as soon as possible in the spring. This branch of industry promises to consume fully as much lumber as during the past year, when a very satisfactory trade was done. In the face of the present price of lumber and other materials, the bright outlook for building is regarded with significance.

There is not the slightest indication of a break in lumber prices. Manufacturers report that the number of buyers visiting their mills is increasing almost daily, and that they show a willingness to contract for stock at current prices. A few manufacturers are accepting $18 for log-run pine, while others are holding for $20. There is very little dry stock to be obtained. It is not uncommon to learn of manufacturers who cut as much as 20,000,000 feet the past season having less than 1,000,000 feet of unsold stock in their yards.

Everyone in the hardwood trade is looking for an advance in prices. They point out that the appreciation in hardwoods has not been in proportion to that in pine, and that it is each year becoming the more difficult to secure hardwood logs. For mill-run birch from $17 to $18 at the mill is being asked. Dealers are endeavoring to purchase hardwood logs so as to ensure a supply of lumber.

QUEBEC AND NEW BRUNSWICK.

The statement of the wintering stocks at Quebec has been issued and shows a decrease in many items as compared with one year ago. Although the supply of waney pine was 1,830,120 cubic feet, or 400,000 cubic feet more than one year ago, the stock carried over is 100,000
