

formal character. During the week before Christmas the Class gave a concert to their friends, and spent a pleasant social evening together with songs, games and refreshments. The school-room was lavishly decorated for the occasion.

The officers and members of the Bible Class and other parish organizations, are very grateful to Miss Kenrick for her kindness in lending them her piano for the season. This will be the greatest possible help to them in their various entertainments. The next of these will be a social which the young men will tender to the members of St. Agatha's Guild, the members of the Young Women's Bible Classes, and others of their lady friends.

As we go to press, a meeting has been called in order to organize a Young Men's Association, in which it is hoped that a large number of young men will co-operate with the members of the Bible Class in promoting a spirit of brotherhood and good fellowship, by means of debates, lectures, socials, and so forth. In connection with the Bible Class and Young Men's Association it is proposed to form a singing class and Glee Club.

During the Epiphany season, which this year includes the whole of the six Sundays, Rev. C. B. Kenrick will preach a course of sermons on Sunday evenings on "The Epiphanies of our Lord."

Confirmation Classes are now in course of formation, and by the time this reaches our readers will have begun their regular work.

RECTOR'S NEW YEAR'S LETTER.

My Dear Friends,—

I have no doubt you have all had a merry Christmas. I now beg to wish you, with all my heart, a very Happy New Year. In any case I would wish this, but personal kindness gives additional strength to wishes. And while you have at all times shown me great kindness, yet lately you have given me such a practical proof of your good-will that I have every cause to feel very grateful. I refer to the upstairs kitchen which has been lately provided at the Rectory. I had no idea beforehand how very greatly this would add to the comfort of myself and family. Now we wonder how we were able to do without it so long. The basement kitchen was so large, so old, so damp, the walls running with water at certain seasons, and the floor so worn and rotten that it was heart-breaking to live and work in it. It is a satisfaction to feel that now, at last, I am on a level with my people, who all, with but one exception, have upstairs kitchens, and that a permanent and necessary addition has been made to the value of the Church property. I may add that through the kindness of some outside friends I have been enabled to put into the kitchen a new range (the Home Comfort) and boiler, which will be permanent fixtures at the Rectory.

With all best wishes for the New Year.

I am gratefully and affectionately yours,
J. D. CAYLEY.
