A Superior Antiseptic Dressing for Wounds.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL., NOV. 27TH, 1894.

POND'S EXTRACT CO. :

Gentlemen:—I have been using Pond's Extract in my practice for twenty years and I frequently have the experience you mention in the Therapeutic Gazette of druggists insisting that they can put up as good as yours. Well, I don't believe it and I want you to send me a bottle so I can test it to my own satisfaction. I use it almost entirely as an antiseptic dressing in all kinds of wounds. I combine it as follows :

℞.—Pond's Extract	℥iv.
Glycerine	℥ii.
Acid carbolic	git. xii. Misc.

Sig.—Use it with absorbent cotton on any wound that you can get at and it makes the cleanest, most soothing and most effective cicatrisant I ever used, and I have had a great deal of railroad surgery and in the army and mining camps. I think it far superior to Listerine or any antiseptic known. You get the antiseptic effect from the Pond's Extract and Carbolic Acid and the affinity glycerine has for water relieves all inflammation, suppuration and pain. After saturating absorbent cotton with the mixture and carefully applying to the wound you exclude the air entirely and almost hermetically seal the wound. Get some of your medical friends to try this. Pond's Extract is very good in second stage of gonorrhœa as an injection.

Respectfully,
F. G. FLOURNOY, M.D.
