

their own countries through the use of their own resources and traditions; and

- to enable young people to understand and accept the interdependence of people and nations.

The achievement of these objectives is based on the motivation and determination each young person has in putting to good use the experience he or she has gained.

Canadian Crossroads International

Objectives

Canadian Crossroads International (CCI) is a volunteer non-profit international development and educational organization, working since 1958 to:

- build a spirit of friendship and co-operation between Canadians and the people of Third World countries;

- sensitize Canadians to the values of Third World cultures and the causes and consequences of under-development; and
- stimulate public support for international development.
