

CHAPTER II
BENEFITS UNDER THE LEGISLATION
OF CANADA

ARTICLE 14

Benefits under the Old Age Security Act

1. If a person is eligible for a pension or allowance under the Old Age Security Act solely through the application of the totalizing provisions of Chapter I, the competent institution of Canada shall calculate the amount of the pension or allowance payable to that person in accordance with the provisions of that Act governing the payment of a partial pension or allowance, exclusively on the basis of the periods of residence in Canada which may be considered under that Act.
2. Paragraph 1 shall also apply to a person outside Canada who would be eligible for a full pension in Canada but who has not resided in Canada for the minimum period required by the Old Age Security Act for the payment of a pension outside Canada.
3. Canada shall pay an Old Age Security pension to a person who is outside Canada only if that person's periods of residence, when totalized as provided in Chapter I, are at least equal to the minimum period of residence in Canada required by the Old Age Security Act for the payment of a pension outside Canada.

ARTICLE 15

Benefits under the Canada Pension Plan

If a person is eligible for a benefit solely through the application of the totalizing provisions of Chapter I, the competent institution of Canada shall calculate the amount of benefit payable to that person in the following manner:

1. the earnings-related portion of the benefits shall be determined in conformity with the provisions of the Canada Pension Plan, exclusively on the basis of the pensionable earnings under that Plan;
