

MACDONALD COLLEGE.

At Macdonald College there are three different and independent departments:-

- (1) School of Household Science;
- (2) School for Teachers;
- (3) School for Agriculture.

Of these, the first two fulfil the functions in a satisfactory manner if we consider the limitations in equipment, in buildings and in staff.

It is claimed by the Dean of the School for Teachers that an extra building is required in order to conduct a satisfactory School, which will serve as a model for the teachers; the facilities therefor in the existing building are quite inconmodious for this purpose.

The School for Agriculture, however, we believe falls far short of the original intention, as well as the original ambitions of its founder.

With respect to placing young graduates upon the farms, and indirectly helping the cause of agriculture in the Province, the School undoubtedly performs a certain function which is useful, though no doubt in a very limited way. While such graduates may in the aggregate improve the ideals