

	PAGE		PAGE
Thoughts on the commotions in Roisshire,	297	Modern refinement or a cha- racter of the times,	105
Hints to the patrons of the Bee,	297—2	Verses from a poem entitled a Morning Walk,	137
Experiments on gypsum, 300—2		The peacock and dove a fable	139
Timoleon's letter to the Edi- tor,	303—2	Verses on flattery,	175
On Weir's museum,	304—2	Martial, lib. v. epig. 10 imita- ted,	ib.
Observations on Spanish sheep, with a cut of a Spanish ram, 305		Martial, lib. xii. epig. 31. imitated,	176
Account of Don, a Merino ram, 307		The ninth elegy of Buchanan translated,	ib.
Grammatical disquisitions con- tinued,	311	Ovid's epistle to his wife, from Pontes, translated,	216
On revenue laws,	319	Verses to hope,	217
Wisdom and wealth an alle- gory,	323	The life of Martindale,	218
Hints in the prosperity of states,	325	An epigram,	ib.
Hints respecting the progress of manufactures,	331	Verses on patience,	246
A new and important disco- very,	335	— wrote by a lady in a deep decline to her child, an in- fant of nine months old, . .	247
To correspondents,	336	Lines wrote by Voltaire on his death-bed, supposed to be the last he ever wrote, . .	248
Historical chronicle at the end,		An ode to fancy,	286
		What is love?	287
		Martial, lib. ii. epig. 8. imi- tated,	288
		Martial, ditto, eplg. 4. ditto, . .	ib.
		The disappointment,	329
		Thomson to Miss Young, . . .	ib.
		Martial, lib. xii. epig. 21 imitated,	330
		Martial ditto, epig. 34 ditto, . .	ib.
		An epigram,	ib.

POETRY.

The lottery, a tale for the la- dies,	25
Martial, lib. viii. epig. 3 imi- tated,	65
Rondo by T. H. Butler, to the memory of Mrs. Sheridan, . .	60
Verses on the spring,	67
Sonnet,	105

ERRATA.

- PAGE 48 dele the three last lines of the page.
— 105 line 9 for thistle revive read thistles revive.
— 163 line 20 for state, de ar bought, read state. Dear bought.
— 242 last line for reflection read reflexion.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE BINDER.

Place the chronicle at the end before the index; and the contents next the title page. There are two signatures P. P.

PLATES.

HEAD of the earl of Buchan fronting p. 1.—The Pangolin p. 52.—View of St Bernard's well p. 136.—The armadillo p. 153.—Ruins of vitrified walls at Dun-o-deer p. 211.—Ground plan of the hill of ditto. p. 276
West and north views of ditto p. 276.—Spanish ram p. 305.