"WHERE THE PEOPLE INVITE AND LIFE IS DELIGHT"

More and more people are regarding as important the elevations at which the places they select for summer vacations lie above the level of the sea. Everybody knows, to a slight extent at least, that a certain rejuvenation is effected when after a long day in office or factory, the worker returns to his home at an elevation greater than that at which the workshop is located.

The same principle applies in connection with summer vacations, and the Muskoka region brings rest and freedom from fatigue, largely because its general altitude is considerably greater than is Toronto's.

The Toronto Union Station, according to standard figures, is 254 feet above the level of the sea. Beaverton station is 751 feet, Cambridge station is 740 feet, Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching waters average 718 feet, the Severn river is approximately 725 feet, Sparrow Lake station is 712 feet, Lake Muskoka at the rails is 753 feet, Bala Park is 776 and Lake Joseph station, established at a little elevation above the waters of Lake Joseph, is 800 feet.

The stations that are shown here are those of the Canadian National Railways' main line to Vancouver, traversing the heart of the Muskoka region.

Interesting additional information, and which is available in printed form at any office of the Canadian National Railways, is that pertaining to the names, facilities and rates of the multitude of summer hotels and boarding houses in the Muskoka territory.

Those thinking of Muskoka in connection with summer vacation, should get a copy of this list now to effectively guard against being too late when the final time for decision arrives.

SYMPATHIZERS FINED.

Ten of Frank McCullough's sympathizers, who caused a demonstration around the jail Thursday night, were each fined $50 and costs by Magistrate Cohen in the police court yesterday morning. The magistrate warned those in court before him that the police would not tolerate such sympathetic gatherings.

PLAYS' PICTURES AND MUSIC.

"Hush" by Robins Players.

Seats are now selling for the sixth week of the summer engagement at the Royal Alexandra of Edward H. Robins, which will commence Monday evening, when this enterprising manager will offer Miss Estelle Winwood, supported by the Robins Players, who will present for the first time on any Canadian stage the English comedy "Hush." This play is a decided novelty, but unlike novelty comedies which have been seen of recent years, is not confined to one locality, but is based on a custom that is universal, that of continually reminding people, no matter what their age is, to be on their guard. "Hush!" don't do that, or don't say this, in fact don't do anything that will give Mrs. So-and-So an opportunity to spread scandal.

In the production Miss Winwood again will play her original part, while the other members of the Robins Players have been cast to gain every point and laugh in the piece. The production is being built from the original blue prints which Miss Winwood brought with her when she came to America, and from which the New York production was also built. The matinees will be as usual on Wednesday and Saturday.

"Mickey" Coming to Grand.

No pictured drama of the year has attracted the attention of theatregoers to the extent that "Mickey" has. During the two weeks' showing at the Grand Opera House it was impossible to accommodate the public, and at the request of movie fans and others it has been arranged to have this remarkable film play presented another week, commencing with a matinee Monday afternoon. "Mickey" is conceded to be a picture out of the ordinary. There is everything that goes to make a successful photoplay in its natural construction—a well-connected and interesting plot, an abundance of wholesome and natural comedy, a romance that is charming with its western mining atmosphere, thrilling in its big climaxes and exciting thru its stirring race scene. Mabel Normand, who portrays the role of "Mickey," the orphan mountain girl, has never had a character in which she is seen to better advantage, and the talented little screen star takes the spectator into her heart from the opening scene of the first episode. She brings tears to the eyes at one moment and the next has her audience roaring with laughter. During the engagement at the Grand a matinee will be given every day.

At Loew's Next Week.

"Cheating Cheaters," with Clara Kimball Young and her own company at Loew's Theatre and Winter Garden next week, is a screen adaptation of the famous stage success of the same name, and concerns the adventures of a clever girl who knows how to mix love and business without any serious consequences to either. Arturo Bernardi, the man of fifty personalities, who heads the vaudeville with his marvelous power of quick change, combines brilliant acting in his sketch, in which he presents seven characters. To prove that there is no fake in his business, he shows the audience how it is accomplished by means of a patent transparent scene thru which every movement and change of dress can be witnessed. Gray and Graham have an original skit called "On Board a Transport," and Patrick and Otto are a pair of tramp comedians, in original talk and clever parodies. Burke Bros. and Kendall, in a novel juggling oddity, "The Demonstrators"; Hip Raymond, the Hippodrome Clown, in fifteen minutes of fun; LeVoy and West, singers and dancers; Loew's British-Canadian Weekly, and the "Mutt and Jeff" animated cartoons complete a bumper bill.

The Hippodrome Show.

Gladys Brockwell, beautiful William Fox star, will head the bill at Shea's Hippodrome next week, in her newest sensational success, "Pitfalls of a Big City." In her new production Miss Brockwell is seen as a denizen of the underworld. Another added feature next week is the showing of the departure, details of the flight and arrival and reception of the daring Lieut. Harry Hawker and Flight-Commander Grieve, in their transatlantic flight. It is the first authentic picture of the heroic effort made by the famous Australian aviator. Tom Brown's Musical Revue is the banner musical offering of the season. The act features Miss Marion Clare, supported by an excellent company. Raymond Wiley, formerly of the Ziegfeld Follies, has a clever comedy sketch, while Edith Mearliess and Alfred Doria will present "Bits of Opera"; Ernest Dupille, "The Twentieth Century Comedian"; Harry and Harriet Seeback, in "In Gymnasium"; the Flying Fiddlers, novelty aerialists, and the Pathe News and Harold Lloyd comedy complete the bill.

At Star Theatre.

"The Charming Widows" will be in Toronto all next week at the Star Theatre. This is one of the best productions in burlesque land and should draw a capacity audience at every performance despite the warm weather. Manager Pierce is being congratulated for the splendid cooling system he has installed for the summer afternoons. The theatre is kept comfortable with cool refreshing air. That clever team of performers, Maud Rockwell and Joe Carr, are the shinning lights of the show. They are featured thruout and their singing and dancing is well deserving of special comment. Brad Sutton has arranged two funny burlesques for the comedians, Ed. Johnston and Mark Thompson.

Great Show at Regent.

It's a great show at the Regent Theatre next week and everybody will say so. It's different from the usual story. It's magnificent in scenes, in acting, in plot—in fact in everything that goes to make a mighty good story on the screen. H. B. Warner, the distinguished English actor, stars in "The Man Who Turned White." It's a story of desert bandits who raid a caravan; a beautiful woman kidnapped by the merciless outlaw chief. There are scenes in the oriental dance hall of the Arabian raiders at night, the white quarter of an Arabian hamlet, the foreign legion in pursuit of Sahara outlaws, a battle of three against fifty on the sands of the desert. Mr. Warner is supported by an excellent cast. Lieut. W. A. Stead, late of the Royal Air Force, will be the soloist, and there will be additional features of a very attractive nature.

At the Allen

"Eyes of the Soul," featuring Elsie Ferguson, has been the attraction at the Allen Theatre all this week. It is an adaptation of the story "Salt of the Earth," by George Weston, which appeared some time ago in The Saturday Evening Post. Miss Ferguson thoroly typifies the feminie spirit. She is ably seconded by the work of Wyndham Standing as the blind hero. "The Star Boarder," a Larry Semon comedy of the usual mirth-provoking character, and Allen's British Weekly, portraying all the interesting events from everywhere, complete this week's program.

For next week, Douglas Fairbanks is scheduled to appear in his latest and most expensive production, "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo."

Miss Evaleen O'Donoghue, soprano, who has proved to be so popular with Allen audiences all this week, is reappearing next week in an entirely new repertoire of pleasing songs.

"Sally's Blighted Career," a new Christie Comedy, Allen's British Weekly and "Raymond Overture," by the famous Allen Orchestra, make up the coming week's program. Last, but certainly not the least important announcement we have to make, is the ideal ventilation for which the Allen is noted.

There will be a special children's matinee this morning (Saturday) at 10.30 o'clock.

At the Strand.

The last performance of Charles Klein's sensational melodrama, "The Third Degree," at the Strand, will be given today, commencing at 11.30, 1.30, 3.30, 5.30, 7.30 and 9.30.

For the coming week the Strand will offer a novelty bound to be popular in the shape of a big double bill to run for the entire week. Number one attraction will be "Tempered Steel," the finest and most powerful of the special pictures starring the great Polish actress, Mme. Olga Petrova, and played by her own company. Number two attraction will be Viola Dana, the fastest rising star in pictures, in "False Evidence," a gripping story of romantic love and adventure. Comedies and travel pictures will round out a bill of two and a half hours of splendid entertainment.

William Farnum at Madison.

Everybody likes a William Farnum picture—good, clean and wholesome. And one of Farnum's best is the William Fox feature, "The Jungle Trail," which will be seen at the Madison Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next. Don't miss it.

"Billeted" at Alexandra.

Edward H. Robins, owner and manager of the Robins Players, has again stolen a march on all other managers of permanent theatrical companies, by securing the first playing rights to Margaret Anglin's latest and most successful comedy, "Billeted," which ran for the entire season in New York. "Billeted" will be the offering for the week of June 23, and Miss Winwood will be seen in the role made famous by Miss Anglin.

Hanlan's Point.

Hanlan's Point will today be visited by many thousands of pleasure-seekers, and for the rentertainment one of the finest military bands in the city has been engaged to give concerts this afternoon and evening, also Sunday afternoon and evenings. Every amusement device on the point will be in full operation all day and evening, including the deep water bathing pool, which has become the favorite spot of many. This will also be open all day Sunday. The cafeteria has proven one of the biggest innovations ever installed in a park. Choice foods are at all times ready, hot or cold, at city restaurant prices.

The Matthews-Blackwell Company, formerly the Park-Blackwell Company, is one of the oldest and most successful packing plants in the province.

The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
