The l'ublic Library Board met on Friday night and closed the year's business, preparatory to submitting thes report required by the Government. The statement shows an income of $165, wine expenditures $1.21 less; 158 new books purchased, making a total of 455, and a total membership of 124. Considering the short existence, the institute has had, the showing is considered most creditable to the officers.

Last night Contractor Connors signed two additional agreements, which were accepted by a committee of strikers, which was fully authorized to settle the trouble. He agreed to withdraw all men now employed by him as grain shovelers, and to submit the names of his old men, who worked prior to April 3, 1859, to a committee of five, composed of two members each from the old and new locals, with President Keefe of the Longshoremen's Association, as chairman, who shall decide upon the eligibility of such members to become members of the new local. The men are to resume work to-morrow morning. In the meantime it is expected that the freight handlers and other sympathy strikers will return to work.

It might also be remarked that Mr. Hicks formerly of the Humber, has erected a Munro Park a water merry-go-round. The pond has been dug in the grounds, and the water is carried into it by means of a canal constructed for the purpose. This will tickle the hearts of the youngsters.

The Ostrich Farm.
Then, again, the ostriches, which are the pioneer birds of Mr. Lundy's ostrich farm, which is to be established near Toronto, will be placed behind a guard-wire fence at Munro Park to-day. The ostriches will be left at Munro Park by Mr. Lundy until he has located his farm outside the city limits. This will certainly prove an attractive feature for visitors to-day.
