Another recommendation is that automobiles be compelled to slow down to four miles an hour, which is practically "a walk," when approaching a street car that is standing still.

Major J. J. Craig's proposition to exclude automobiles from country highways certain days in the week was rejected by a majority of the commutmarine department.

The caucus is said to have broken up very much divided on the subject, and many of the Liberal members went home without securing pairs, not being willing to support the government in resisting the demand for the investigation.

LONDON, April 5.—Great Britain seems to be waking up to the fact that the other nations of the world are leaving her behind in the race for command of the air.

While the members of the house of commons were this afternoon drawing the attention of the government to the fact that Germany has built, or is building, a dozen dirigible airships, and urging the government to take up with energy the construction of a British air fleet, there was being held at the same time a meeting in the Mansion House, under the chairmanship of the Lord Mayor of London, in support of the same object. Among those present were Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, Prince Louis of Battenberg, Lord Curzon, Sir Hiram Maxim and Admiral Sir Percy Scott, all of whom heartily supported energetic action.

Admiral Scott advocated a "two power" standard in airships. as well as in Dreadnoughts, and he mentioned incidentally that the navy has designed a new gun, which, at a distance of 6000 feet. could be exceedingly destructive to airships.

Sir Andrew Fraser Tells Canadian Club Just What the Conditions in India Really

Sir Andrew Fraser's address at the Canadian Club luncheon yesterday was perhaps the finest of the series with which he has honored Toronto in the past week.

He is not big physically, so he smilingly climbed upon his chair and addressed the club from that emi-

Sir Andrew combatted the idea that unrest in India had any deep foundation, while he admitted that economic causes pinched the people in their stomachs. Their essential loyalty to the government he illustrated by several experiences, and his final narra-tion aroused a storm of excited ap-

The idea he had of the Indian unrest he desired to place before them by a picture of the last attempt made on his life. He had been going to take the chair at Overton Hall in Calcutta at a lecture to be given on university life in America by Prof. Burton of Chicago to university students and graduates. Reaching the hall he was preceded by his aide decamp, a man, tho a Highlander and an officer, shorter in stature than himself—Sir Andrew being about the size an officer, shorter in stature than him-self—Sir Andrew being about the size of "Bobs"—and accompanied by the Maharajah Dhiraj of Burdwan, the greatest of the great Zemindars of Bengal, a man 6 feet 2 in height and broad in proportion. Mr. Barber, the American secretary of the association, met them, and took them into the room, the lecturer not having arrived. the lecturer not having arrived owing to an accident to his carriage.

Just then the man on the chair came forward and thrust a revolver which he took from under his cloth into Sir Andrew's chest. Sir Andrew heard a click and looking down asked what he wanted. Just then a powerful arm was thrown across his chest from behind and he was lifted and swung round by the Maharajah Dhiraj so that round by the Maharajah Dhiraj so that the body of the "King among Kings" came between Sir Andrew and the revolver. Mr. Barber grabbed the revolver at the same time, and the trigger fell on the web of his thumb, preventing an explosion. The students around immediately threw down the assailant. It was found that every other chamber of the pistol exploded afterwards.

M. Simmonet, who took a prominent part in the recent postal strike, declared on behalf of the postal and televalues. We was not a country of great towns, but of village sand agricultural communities.
