PLAYS, PICTURES AND MUSIC

"Passing Show of 1917." With the substantial popular lorsement of having attained the ngest Broadway run of any of the even score of memorable spectacular extravaganzas that preceded its launching at that widely known home of progressive theatrical innovation, the New York Winter Garden's annual revue of revelry music, mirth and color. "The Passing Show of 1917," direct and intact even to minor details, from a seven months' sojourn in Manhattan, will arrive at the Royal Alexandra Theatre Monday evening next for its regular Toronto engagement of one week including popular matiness on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. The really noteworthy cast of "The Passing Show of 1917" includes DeWolf Hopper, Irene Franklin and Burton Green.

The Glad Giel.

"Pollyanna," the glad-hearted comedy of optimism and good cheer, comes to the new Frincess Theatre for one week, starting Monday night with usual matinee, the midweek performance being offered at popular prices. The inquiries that have reached the theatre during the past few weeks are significant of a widespread and unusual interest in this production. "Polyanna," the glad girl, who in, the Eleanor H. Porter stories, has made hundreds of thousands of people grateful for the acquaintance, is now coming in a new guise provided by that expert writer of popular comedies, Catherine Chisholm Cushing.

"Pollyanna" has not found a single reviewer who has failed to characterize it as a novel and human play, full of poetry, humor, romance and delightful surprises; one that nobody can sit thru without being the better, wiser and cleaner of heart. In the virtually all-star cast assembled by Klaw and Erlanger and George C. Tyler, are Patricia Collinge, Oswald Yorke, Beatrice Morgan, Joseph Jefferson, Maade Granger, Stephen Davis, Helen Weathersby, Glenn Hunter, Maud Hamford, Harry Barfoot and Selma Hall.

"The Brat" Coming to Grand.

"Les Miserables" at Strand.
For the whole of next week there will be presented at the Strand Theatre the photoplay version of the most magnificent and masterly work of fiction that has ever been penned. This is "Les Miserables." Victor Hugo's masterpiece, and no higher praise can be awarded to the photoplay than to say that in its own sphere it is not unworthy to take a place similar to that which the book occupies in the ranks of fictional works.
