

The Evening Times Star

VOL. XIII. No. 15

ST. JOHN N. B., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1916

TWELVE PAGES—ONE CENT

More St. John Men Are Killed

Gunner Wm. Mister Gives His Life; Samuel J. Small of Milford Killed; L. Corp. Anderson Was Native of This City

William Mister, for many years a resident of St. John, has given his life in the defense of the motherland which he loved so well. When war was declared he immediately gave up his work here and sailed for England where he enlisted in an artillery unit. In a letter from his father, who resides in England, to Timothy Callaghan of Little River, the news of his death is conveyed and his bereaved father speaks with pride of his references to his son in a communication from the office who informed him of the death of his son in France on July 24. For many years Gunner Mister had been employed in Lee's brickyard at Little River, and had many friends who will bear of his death with sincere regret. He was forty-one years old.

LETTER FROM SON WHO NOW IS NO MORE

Mrs. Helen Breen of 688 Main street, has just received a letter from her son, Pte. Albert Breen, dated September 30, just two days before he made the supreme sacrifice. The contents of the letter of the soldier in battle caused grief to

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

William Henderson of this city, who is reported in the official casualty list this morning as killed in action, had made an enviable reputation as a soldier. He enlisted in a local infantry battalion and had received various promotions until, at the time of his death, he was acting company sergeant-major. For his gallant conduct in a charge on the enemy's trenches he had been recommended for the D.C.M. Before putting on the uniform he had been employed in the Dominion Express Company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. D. Stewart, North Sydney; two brothers, Roy, who was wounded recently at the front, and James of this city, and one sister, Miss Irene, at home.

REASSURING IS BALKAN NEWS, SAYS LONDON

Formidable Russian Reinforcements Proving Effective

ROUMANIANS ON OFFENSIVE

Enemy Reported Generally Repulsed But Ferdinands Troops Repulsed in One Conflict—A Serbian Victory

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

London, Oct. 19.—Today's news from Rumania is regarded by the British commentators as reassuring. With the help of Russia, which is credited with sending formidable reinforcements to the frontiers, the offensive has been vigorously renewed by the Rumanians. Austro-German attacks in the passes have been generally repulsed and Bucharest reports speak of the pursuit of the Teutonic allies, particularly in the Predal region, where the crucial struggle of the present moment is proceeding every day.

French Make Further Gain; Heavy Rainfall Says British Report

Paris, Oct. 19.—South of the River Somme, between Blaches and La Malcoetterie, the French made further progress last night. This was announced officially today. All the gains achieved yesterday were held in the face of several counter-attacks.

London, Oct. 19.—"Rains fell heavily during the night," says today's British official report from the French front. "Raiding parties entered enemy trenches near Loos and South of Arras. Otherwise there is nothing to report."

U-53 Was Reported Sunk; Story is Denied

New York, Oct. 19.—A news agency dispatch from Norfolk, Va., today says that the German submarine, probably the U-53, has been sunk in the North Atlantic, according to a signal from a British cruiser to the British steamer North Pacific, taking on bunker coal here today.

The North Pacific is Monday night from New Orleans, did not report until early today that the cruiser had signalled. The message read: "German submarine sunk west of Nantuxet." Officers of the North Pacific said the cruiser was lying off the coast.

A London cable a few days ago said a sudden reduction in insurance rates on transatlantic shipping by Lloyd's had aroused speculation as to whether the U-53 had been sunk, or had returned to a German port, it being believed that the submarine was ordered because Lloyd's had received "inside" information.

Another St. John Soldier Has Won Distinction

Another important departure along the lines of recruiting is being planned by some of the civilians who have been active in the work.

Their plan is the formation of a militia province branch of the National Service League, which is already organized in Ontario and the west, and which is to be organized in the province of Quebec.

Edison Has Strike at Orange on His Hands

New York, Oct. 19.—Bank of England rates unchanged at 6 p. c.

It is reliably reported that a holding company is planned to take over Union Pacific investments and pay 2 per cent. or 4 per cent. to Union Pacific stockholders.

King Constantine issues orders that anti-air demonstrations in Athens must be discontinued.

Wilson gets big reception from German on his journey through New York state.

Eight hundred employees of Edison company at Orange, N. J., strike following discharge of a workman.

Betting odds on presidential election tighten as more Wilson money appears.

Hughes at Grand Rapids replies to Wilson's charge of "invisible government" and pledges himself to protect American business men abroad.

Twelve industrialists of 37 active railroads.

Wall St. Journal—"The feeling is that Hughes is rapidly gaining ground and will continue to gain from now to election day."

Traveler for Fire Extinguishers is Burned to Death

Stutson, Que., Oct. 19.—Fire which destroyed the dwelling house of Adelaide Lacroix, near this place, also caused the death of David Knowlton, traveler for fire extinguishers, who put up at the Lacroix house for the night.

Trouble in Athens

London, Oct. 19.—Fifteen arrests were made by French marines in the streets of Athens on Tuesday night after they were hired in one of the principal thoroughfares. The arrests were made in the course of a bayonet charge which dispersed the demonstrators. Greek troops witnessed the occurrence without interfering.

See Another Year Of Terrific Warfare

FLOUR HIGHEST IN CHICAGO IN TWENTY YEARS

Bakers Say Bread Must Be Still Dearer Unless Something Lower Price of Flour

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The public is confronted with another increase in the price of bread, if wheat continues to advance, according to predictions of prominent bakers. A ten-cent jump in the price of wheat in the last two days sent flour up seventy-five cents a barrel, which caused the big bakers to announce that, in addition to recent increases in the price of bread, they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

View of British On The Western Front

A MATTER OF CALCULATION

Germany Believed Determined To Make Every Village on West Front a Fortress and Meanwhile Fight for Decision in Rumania

—Win "Only By Hard Fighting," Says British Chief of Staff in London

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.

London, Oct. 19.—The British front in France, October 19, is a matter of calculation. Before the grand offensive started, a high authority informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the German lines would not be broken this summer and that slow operations wearing down the Germans would be the only way to win. With the approach of winter conditions, the British are now faced with a decision as to whether to force a decisive victory for our arms is a matter of calculation.