The fire originated in the carriage factory of D. A. Grant & Co., at the south end of Meduxnakeag bridge. In an incredibly short time after the alarm was given, the firemen were on the scene and did excellent werk, but the factory was already enveloped in flames, and it was apparent to all that nething could save it from complete destruc-tion, while the fire was rapidly spreading te adjoining buildings.

The barn and ell of Geo. F. Smith's house was the first to catch, and before anything could be done they were completely destreyed. The main part of the house, which was solid brick, was saved. Mr. Smith kept a grocery store in the lower part of the building, and had considerable stock stered in his shed, which was all lest. His house-held furniture was badly damaged.

The Norwegian Wood-Pulp Industry.

The Bulletin du Musee Commercial says

the year 1893 was a very favorable one in Norway for manufacturers of wood-pulp, the prices having on the average been feur kroner (4s 53d) higher for wet pulp, and eight kroner (8s 103d) higher for dry than they were in the preceding year. Purchasers hastened to place their orders, and at the commencement of the year the quanti-ties seld amounted to 130,000 tens. The demand having again increased, the wood-pulp syndicate realised that the reduction of the preduction to the extent of 33½ per cent., which was primarily fixed upon, was tee great, and at a meeting, which was held in May, the maximum reduction was fixed at 23½ per cent., but in spite of this prices continued to rise. Towards the end of the year small quantities which were available were sold at 55 krener (£3 ls. 1½d.) and 100 krener (£5 lls. 1½d.) per ten respectively for pulp wet and dry.

For the current year the greater part of the production is already sold at remunerative prices. The improvement which has manifested itself in the Norwegian wood pulp industry has led to the very considerable extension of the factories already existing and to the construction of new works in Sweden and Norway. The home consumption has remained almost stationary; in Eng. land the consumption has increased, and also in France. As regards Germany, this country imported in 1893 10,000 tons of Norwegian weed pulp more than in 1892, but this increase was in in 1892, but this increase was in great measure due to the dryness of the sea-Alex Regers is having his residence at the Hill improved by a ceat of paint, the work being dene by Jehn Duncan of Hopewell Cape.
