ALFRED MARKHAM,

THE SEMI-WEEKLY SUN

ST. JOHN, N. B., NOVEMBER 2, 1901.

NEW YORK CLERGY ON NEW YORK GOVERNMENT.

Last week the London Times gave a description of New York as a city given over to violence and lawlessness where robbery was common and wer unpunished, and where vice of name kinds had the right of way, and the protection of the authorities This account was telegraphed acros the water and made New York angry In reply to violent protests the Times has supported its account of New York by quotations from New York

If the London Times feels the need of further support it will find help in the New York sermons of last Sun day. Here for example are a few extracts from the discourse of Rev. Dr. Parklurst in the Madison Square Presbyterian church:

cannot understand how it is that tha t cannot understand how it is that that that fool bishop of all inevitable abomination who rules this municipal diocese from his prelatical castle abroad can even breathe the atmosphere of Wantage, the two in which great Alfred was born, without feeling his soul scorched by the very memories that still linger there from the old days. I refer to our tewn being dominated by a man notoriously a vulgar, unimprisoned reprobate.

It is pitiful; it is enough to make heaven put on mourning and hell take a vacation. The town disgraced; womanhood openly hought and sold; children damed from babyhood up; the city, the distributing centre of Bibles and evangelization, a stench in the nostrils of unredeemed heathen; and yet must one of us today but what is atraid we are going to have two more years of it.

They have stolen our money, they have stolen our rights, and that is bad enough, but they have stolen our consciences. The stolen our rights, and that is bad enough, but they have stolen our consciences. The city is dirty, but, what is a million times worse, we are dirty, alimed all over by the trail of the serpent. We, by our long constant with what is bad and what is unmensionably bad, have learned to think about it call without being stung and inflamed by it. It is the same way, I believe that God feels about the Jebusites and the Amorites hat for so long have been defiling this city with their lying and their thieving and their elaborately organized system of deficultion is not amenable to the orinciples of arighteousness. It is not subject to the law not amenable to the principles of ess. It is not subject to the law either, indeed, can be. It is sunk tate where honesty, cleanliness and ess have no meaning to it. It is and brutalized to the point

The for it to experience and too distant for the aver to reach.

The Bainsford at St. George Episapal church said:

No man, no matter how good he himself may be, can swing Tammany Hall to the saide of righteousness. From top to bottom it is built on a barbaric idea of government. The day will come when such an organization will be regarded as an anachrondsm, and it will be looked back upon as no less barbaric than lynch law, that a city should allow itself to be ruled by men who were confessedly in the government of the city for what they could get out of it. Lynch law and Tammany ought to go down together, for intelligent men regard one as harbaric as the other. Tie them down together; throw them into the sea.

In the Hanson Methodist church a Brooklyn Rev. Charles Goodell, who is remembered as one of the anniversary preachers in the Centenary church of this city, said: There is one name in New York that is the synonym for vice and crime. It is supported by the wages of the prostitute and gains of the saloon and the gambling den. The fact is denied by no one. The leader boldly affirms that he is in his place for the sake of his pocket. His associates are, many of them, lawbreakers and jailbirds. The enly reason they are outside the walls of state prison is that they are inside the walls of today is not one of politics; it is one of morality and common decency.

More shocking than that sort of protection is the protection of the disorderly houses—in one of which a captain of police was found when a raid was made upon it. The most horrible fact to us is that this vice was going not only into the tenement houses but to the very gates of the schools, into the popches of the churches, to the very doors of the homes.

Our reputation abroad as a city governed by hoodlums, murderers, embezziers, thieves, cut throats, has been fully established. For four years we have been an offence and a stench in the nostrils of the other great cities of the world.

Shall government be administered for the protection and the promotion of vice and for manufacturing boys into criminals? Shall the Eighth Commandment be rewritten and made to read: "Thou shalt steal?" Evil women stealing from their victims, policemen stealing from off women, head officials stealing from sergeants, the contractors stealing from sergeants, the contractors, and Tammany levying tribute and stealing from all.

The London Times account of th condition and government of New York is complimentary compared with the language of these and other New York clergymen.

HE BREAKS OUT AGAIN. Mr. Tarte has been charged with some further acts of mal-administra-tion and his Patrie has accordingly broken out again in the same old way. Here is a sample from the leading article of Tuesday, printed in double eaded type under a two-column head: "At each by-election and on all occasions our adversaries show their anti-French tendencies. The chief tory organs, the Mail and News of Toronto, the Spectator of Hamilton the Sun of St. John, the Telegram of Winnipeg, the Star of Montreal, the Citizen of Ottawa, and all the rest have labored constantly by lying and outrage to stir up the evil passions of the English element against our nationality."

This, of course, is a malicious siander, but the following is worse: "In New Brunswick, Mr. Foster's organizers carried their blindness and temerity to the point of demanding that the campaign should be waged directly between the Protestants and Catholics, between English and French."

This, of course, is a prodigious and vicious falsehood, for the ministers who wrote or inspired it knew that Mr. Foster's party in New Brunswick nominated and supported both French and Irish Roman Catholics, and that Mr. Bergeron, Mr. Monk and Mr. Casgrain were all invited to speak in the campaign, while Mr. McInerney was one of the most prominent candidates.

After going on with these false and railing accusations, Mr. Tarte shows why he does it. The purpose is to create a prejudice in Quebec against the French speaking conservative leaders. Mr. Monk, Mr. Casgrain, Mr. Taillon and Mr. Bergeron are able and worthy men, greatly respected and trusted by those who know them, and enjoy a large measure of personal popularity. They stand to gain by the oad record of Mr. Tarte and his friends and by the split in the liberal party at Montreal. It is, therefore, necessary to cover up that issue by inflaming the French speaking people against leading French conservatives. So. Mr. Tarte's Patrie goes on : "Since 1896, the chief French conservatives have allowed us to be besmirched by the English speaking sectarians, by the enemies of our race and faith, without making a protest. They let it go on, they close their eyes and ears and permit "their intolerant allies to take every "possible advantage of their cam"paign of prejudice. Mr. Monk, like "the rest, has been allowed to con-"tinue this infamous pro ainst the French race to which he claims to be "Claims to belong."

To make the appeal to passion more effective, it was of course necessary for Mr. Tarte to drag in the Orange Heretofore Mr. Clarke Walace was always held up to execration in these tirades, but now he is dead. and Mr. Tarte must get along without him. He does his best, as the following extract from the same double eaded leader shows:

"In the Orange lodges they stimulate the hate of the fanatics against Mr. Laurier and his government by saying that the cabinet is directed and controlled by the French papists' and by the rebels Laurier And then comes the inevitable appeal to the "patriots" to league themselves against the exploiters of pre judice, "against this criminal all of victous elements, of hateful and intolerant spirits." The Sun reprints these inflammatory and slanderous appeals without comment of its own, as it has done with others from the same source. It does not lay the blame for them on the French people of Quebec, who are in no way responsible for them. The politicians who write and inspire these attacks are cold blooded, calculating hemers who do it without animos ty and without race feeling. They do for the purpose of diverting the attention of an impetuous and impulsive but generous people from the real public issues. They have the hope and expectation that the well-meaning readers will forget the offences of Mr. Tarte, and accept him as the ampion of the French people against he English foe which they are asked to believe is getting ready to destroy iem. Mr. Tarte will, no doubt, go on aying that the Sun is attacking the French people, though he will take good care not to quote anything from this paper in support of the false accusation. As a matter of fact, the worst foes that the French people of Canada have are certain scheming politicians who try to keep the race feeling alive in Quebec, in order that they may enrich themselves out of the positions which they obtain by it. It is not the first time that is not the first time that political adventurers in that much abused prov-ince have written impassioned addresses to the frusting French Canadians with one hand, while the other hand gathered in the rake-off.

The attempt of the pastor of St David's Church to discover why per ple stay away from church was seen tifically managed. Instead of specutating in the study he questioned people who go to church and who stay at home. The reasons are so many and so different that it is hard to meet the stay at the sta ple stay away from church was scie them all. But there are m churches, various types of pastors, and considerable variety of ritual and ervice. Most of the conditions called found in the St. John for may be found in the St. John churches, but not all of them in any hour of service the streets are es a still larger proportion of culation attend service, often walking or driving a long distance over bad roads to get there. Cynics may say that they are drawn by other motives than a desire for worship, but the cynic is always the worst possible udge of motives.

four editorial paragraphs, the valued Telegraph-Mr. C. J. Milligan, manager-sounds the note of triump over the fact that Mr. Gilliland se cured his re-election to the counci without fulfilling his promise to tell what he knew about the forged Rothe-say lists. As the forged list with its four hundred names was mailed and registered at St. John in the name of C. J. Milligan, it is perhaps not surprising that the Telegraph should rejoice over Mr. Gilliland's refusal to make a disclosure. But was it wise to give so much publicity to this feeling

General Buller is now having his innings. Soldiers who served under him are coming to the front to express their confidence in him in this time of adversity. In the end the campaign in Natal and the spatchcocked message will not hurt his reputation. But it is a pity that the General who kept so cool in a summer campaign in Africa should have got so heated and hysterical in England. Mr. Haszard, former law partner and once designated succe Sir Louis Davies, claims that he has been cheated out of his nomination by bad votes. It may be so. Mr. Martin who was a conservative candidate in Queens last November, was cheated out of his election by a false count. It is to be expected that experts who learn to play these tricks on the enemy will play them on each other when the case seems to require Premier Farquharson is the government candidate in West Queens, P. E. Island. But he is not going into the Island. But he is true and field as a candidate for a private member's seat. His convention has solved that Mr. Farquharson must be made a minister like the other local remiers. This places him in comreti-tion with Mr. Emmerson, who has also been premier, to say nothing of ex-Premier Greenway or of Mr. Parent, who is a premier how.

It is gathered from the discussion that the recent intervention of Lord Minto in the matter of titles for Candians is the first occasion on which the wish of the Laurier government in the matter of honors was not carried out. The story that knighthood was forced upon Sir Wilfrid by a tyrannical sovereign is now explode The premier evidently recommended

THE COTTON MILLS.

Strong Company Incorporated-Fires Have Been Started-Large Offer for Goods.

James F. Robertson, James Man chester, Geo. W. Jones, W. H. Thorne and A. H. Hanington are seeking incorporation as the Cornwall and York Cotton Mills Co., Ltd., to purchase and operate the cotton mills lately owned and operated by Wm. Parks & Son, Ltd., of this city. The capital stock is $500,000 in five thousand shares of $100 In conversation with a reporter

James F. Robertson said:

"We have, as stated, applied for incorporation and are now prepared to receive subscriptions for stock. It is our intention to issue $300,000 worth at par and the company have no doubt but that it will be rapidly taken up. The capital stock of the company has been placed at $500,000; but the balance will be left in the treasury. Applica-tions will be received by Mr. Hanington and myself and the stock will h allotted in the order in which the aplications are received. I do not wish nyone to take shares in this business investment, and as an industry which will, without doubt, prove of great benefit to St. John. We do not feel ike going ahead with this business until we feel sure of the support of the com-munity. Already an offer has been received from a reliable firm to take three thousand bales of goods every month, and this will be sufficient to keep both of the mills running night and day. The goods will be taken at the market prices ruling at the time of making the bontracts.

"Fires have been started in the mill to keep the buildings in good condition and a number of watchmen a charge. We have found the hundred panes of glass he broken, doubtless by boys, are being replaced. Inside things no damage has been don over six cellent condition. It is our, to engage as far as pos oves of the mill and we will engage just as many as were formerly employed. The mills will not be re-openemployed. The mills will not be re-open ed for some little time yet, as prepara one. And after all a large proportion of the people find some reason to go to church, for there are many places time, as formerly."

BIG FIRE

In Linton & Sinclair's Crockeryware That Started Out to Frighten Tur-Establishment.

A MANAGEN AND STATE

Did About Two Thousand Dollars Damage | Had to Return to Toulon After Two Days -How It Originated,

Fire in Linton & Sinclair's crockery establishment on Dock street yester day afternoon did damage to the extent of over two thousand dollars. Shortly after three o'clock a young man ran into the store with the alarm that smoke was issuing from a win-dow on the second floor. Before the department arrived smoke was pouring from all the windows on the see ond floor. In a brief time several streams of water were being used to the best advantage in the building, and in a few minutes more the department apparatus was working at its best. The fire was found to be in but second floor, and the water supply being good only No. 3 engine was used. A couple of streams from that steam pump, with the gravitation power supplied by other hydrants, soon put an end to all danger, but not before a big amount of damage had been done. The fire being on the second floor, the water ran through in volumes to the street floor, and as a result numerous valuable fancy sets divis were damaged if not entirely de-

The fire probably originated from defective electric light wire. A few minutes before being discovered Mr. Linton passed through the room where the fire broke out. He was then on his way to the office, the electric elevator refusing to work. Mr. Linton thought the elevator fuse had blown out, and telephoned the electric light company to that effect. He had hardly got through telephoning before a boy ran in from the street saying smoke was issuing from the second story windows.

The floor in which the fire was confined contained considerable valuable goods that had been sold and were ready for shipment. The fire ran rapidly from package to package, and in but a few minutes well over one thousand dollars' worth of stock had een destroyed.

Linton & Sinclair had their stock nsured for $6,700, $4,700 being with the Phoenix of Hartford, F. G. H. Knowlton, and $2,000 with William White in

The building, the property of the Lawrence estate, is insured in T. B. & H. B. Robinson's office, $3,000 in the Iliance and $1,000 in the Norwich and

The loss on stock is estimated at $1,200; building, $300.
