A Christian Scientist found his young son doubled up with pain as a result of too frequent trips to the apple orchard, where many choice green apples were to be had. "What's the matter, Bobbie?" he asked. "I ate too many apples," said Bobbie. "And oh, how my stomach hurts!" "Your stomach doesn't ache," said his father. "You just think it does." "Well, you may think so," said Bobbie. "But I know. I've got inside information."

ble, of New Liskeard, Mr. Dobie was predeceased by his sister several years ago. He was a member of the Presbyterian church.

The death occurred at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. A. McLean, Moss, on Thursday, January 18th, of Miss Annie Laurie Quick, in her 84th year. Deceased was of a bright and cheerful disposition and will be sadly missed by those who knew her. The funeral was held on Saturday, January 20th, conducted by Rev. D. Robertson, of Kilmartin, assisted by Rev. A. S. Whitehall, of Glencoe. Interment was made in Kilmartin cemetery. The pallbearers were Duncan H. McLaughlin, D. C. McTavish, George McCallum, D. A. McLachlan, Dugald M. Second and Albert Walker.

The Transcript wants all the local news fit to print, and we want it at the earliest possible minute. Some may not think that the editor's week begins on Thursday morning and ends Wednesday night, the following week. In other words, as soon as one paper goes to press work begins on the next one. The linotype—typesetting machine—operators must be kept busy every day in order to set the type necessary to fill the paper, so this is why we want the news as early as possible. One reason why people are disappointed every week because certain articles do not appear—they are not sent in sufficiently early. The paper is full when copy arrives. Send us fresh, red hot news, by letter or telephone. One cent brings the unsealed news letter to the Transcript office. Don't be modest about sending us the news yourself, and be sure to sign your name for the editor's private information.

WHAT TO TAKE

Take The Transcript.
Take comfort—if you can.
Take the girl you love to be your wife.

Take care of your health. It is the most valuable thing you have.
Take a hint when it is intended for you. Don't wait to be knocked down.
Take flattery as an insult, and an honest compliment as something to be grateful for.

Take pains to be careful and conscientious in business. It will bring you success.
Take offence only at things worth being offended at. It is sure evidence of a small mind to notice trifles.

Take hold of any work that comes to your hand, rather than be idle. Luck always waits on the busy man.
Take time to be polite and kind always. Rudeness never pays; the poor may think so, but he is wrong.

Take trouble like a man. Don't go whining about when it comes, but shut your mouth and stand up under it resolutely.

Take a trip now and then, and try to see something outside of the town you live in. Travel is one of the greatest of educators.

Take pains to do your work well. The conspicuous worker is the one who gets to the front—and the one that never needs be idle.

Take the time you make this day a model for all the days to come, and then copy after it. Live this day so that it will bring you no regrets.

Take time, young man, to go out with your sister. If she is a good girl she is much more desirable company for you than the other girl who flirts with you so desperately.

Take the sunshine into your life as something to be grateful for; do not darken it with shadows of your own making. Trouble will come soon enough without your coming it.

Take your wife and children with you when you go to be amused. That is not a proper amusement for you that you cannot take your wife to—and you know it.

Take as much care of your money as you can, if your means are limited; but don't try to save your smiles or kind words. The more liberal you are with these, the more you will have.

Take a walk—several of them. It is healthful to walk.

Take time, young woman, to be kind to your brother—and go out with him when he wishes you to do so. He is one of your best friends. He will protect you always. Take time to be good to him.

Take pains to hear both sides of a story before you come to a decision. Jumping at a conclusion one time and another has filled the world with enemies and deluged it in blood.

Take heart, if you are cast down. Your luck will change ere the year is out. What though the clouds do cover you now, the sun will shine by and by. No life is made up altogether of shadows, and God never yet wholly deserted a resolute man or a brave woman. Fight on and victory will come at last.

INTERMEDIATE HOCKEY

Two games were played in the intermediate group series on Tuesday evening, Glencoe at Sarnia losing by 3 goals to 1, and Watford at Strathroy losing by 10 goals to 6.
A battle royal is expected at Glencoe on Friday night when Sarnia is scheduled to come over to play the return match with the locals. Sarnia is determined to win this game, and Glencoe is just as determined they shall not. Don't miss this event.

G. H. S. NOTES

A meeting of the literary society was held on Friday afternoon, January 19th. The president, James McNabb, spoke a few words, followed by a piano-duet by Elva Sutton and Anna McRae. The secretary's report was given. Little Elven George delighted everyone with two solos. The main feature of the program was an address by Rev. D. G. Paton on "Romance" which was very interesting as well as instructive to the pupils. At the close of his address Mr. Paton presented for the school museum a piece of amber which was shown out of Mt. Vesuvius. Ruth King rendered an instrumental and the Oracle was then read. Fred McRae gave a reading, and a voice of James Mac extended to Mr. Paton. The meeting closed with the national anthem.

S. S. No. 5 LITERARY

An interesting and well-attended meeting of S. S. No. 5 literary was held in the school on January 19th. Clara Trevelin occupied the chair for the evening. Besides a splendid musical program, a debate, "Resolved that we pay more by indirect than by direct taxation," the first of the Ekfrid schedule, was handled by representatives from the South Ekfrid club and this society, the honors going to No. 5. The next meeting will be held on Thursday evening, January 25th, when representatives from No. 7, Ekfrid, will be present to debate against members of this society.

It does not require courage, faith and enterprise to catch the vision of the larger business that comes through persistent and adequate publicity.
