Poultry and Eggs

Poultry breeders are now booking orders for hatching eggs so that during the shipping season they will be able to devote their whole attention to the business of packing and shipping. During the three months ending February 28, 1918, the value of the poultry classified advertising in The Guide was greater than that in any other farm paper in this territory. In classified advertising we believe that nothing succeeds like success. Read what our advertisers think of The Guide as a medium for disposing of their surplus stock.

Buffalo Head, Sask.
March 22, 1917.

I am thankful to inform you that the small ad. you inserted for me in your paper on March 7th brought more business than I could fill orders for. I sold 36 turkeys and returned cash for 18 gobblers to date, and orders are still coming for gobblers.

GEO. HASKELL.

Wawanesa, Man.
March 14, 1918.

My advertisement in your paper last year was entirely satisfactory. The Grain Growers' Guide is the best medium for farmer and advertiser. I intend sending you copy for same the end of this month.
