

Bigotry, Ignorance, Jealousy and Prejudice

(Written for The Register.)

Even in this age of enlightenment, progress and civilization, the four-headed monsters of bigotry, ignorance, jealousy and prejudice, seem to rise up from time to time, as if it were aroused from a long slumber...

Last week a certain minister whose name is Mr. Troop, preached a very objectionable sermon, one that was an insult to every Catholic in the world over, and to certain Protestants as well...

"Latterly there has been brought before a whole wide world of interested readers a marvellous manifestation of what may be termed perhaps the mightiest religious system the world has ever known in connection with the sufferings and death of the late Pope and the election and consecration of his successor...

I wonder would the rector of St. Martin's like to be a Pope of the Anglican Church? I think from the tone of his sermon that he is extremely jealous, because he has not received some high honors in his church, I think it is to be made a motto to try to get that honor, he would probably succeed.

"He gives away to things which he is inclined to. By telling lies though he has no mind to."

I hope that when your mutual friend's time will come to leave this world that he will win a tribute of loyal affection from a congregation that he will have taught honesty, justice, righteousness and charity towards their neighbors and all things pertaining to a good life.

"When the Papists are ousted won't the rangers whoop. As they dance a pow-wow around Minister Troop."

Let me recite an instance how bigotry got its reward a few years ago in Toronto. In one of the large Congregational churches, a minister who was wild by name and wild by nature, had charge of the congregation.

"And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew, How one small head could carry all he knew."

Yes, Mr. Troop, the Roman Catholic religion, is the "mighty religious system the world has ever known" or ever will know.

A Holiday in Donegal

(Communicated to The Register)

A delightful and unconventional holiday may be enjoyed in Donegal. I would begin at Ballyshannon, and sitting down there, I would read William Allingham, whose poetry was steeped in the place.

I will rise and go now, and go to Inishowen. And a small cabin build there of clay and wattles made. Nine bean-rows will I have there, and live alone in the bee-loud glade.

Then I would go on to Donegal town of the Four Masters, and see the Abbey looking out to sea, and approached by a long, lonely eerie way, where they are supposed to be buried.

But a recapitulation of the things to be seen would be a rosary of some of the grandest coast and mountain scenery in Europe. You will find a straight, handsome, austere beauty of a tablecloth and growing boulders beggary explicit or implicit, and they will send you on your way with a speech and a smile that will bless you for long in your memory.

When I was there one had to drive over nearly the length and breadth of the county; but Mr. Balfour's right railway was in the making, so much of that is now altered. I keep a happy memory of the drive in the long car from Donegal to Killybegs, and the driver "Willie," and how he sped us on our way and welcomed us back at the sunshine rest on the coast, wherever he be, and heaven knows America has not swallowed him!

The hotels, most usually over a shop or a post office, are clean, if not showy. I shall never forget a little inn at the head of Gweedore, and its delightful hospitality, and its lovely, barefooted handmaidens, and its inimitable prices.

Behold the reward of all his years of inculcating bigotry. The scene changed, and he was paid back in his own coin. Remember, Mr. Troop, that there was another minister (Anglican) who tried to gain notoriety by coming in contact with Father Tynan, the Paulist, and Father Doherty, the Jesuit, but failed so ignominiously, that he was declared a heretic, and accepted a call across the ocean.

"The hypocrite's sneer, and the hypocrite's leer, Superstition the real worth of a nation. And true men are slaves to the rascal knaves Whom artifice leads to a station."

Like the blind man mentioned in the Gospel, the minister of St. Martin's Church should often pray "that he might see," that the scales might fall from his eyes, that his mind may be illumined, and that the shades of ignorance, darkness, error, hypocrisy, fraud, deceit and lying, may be expelled.

There is nothing so attractive to noble souls as a noble soul.

Metcalf Village en Fete

(Communicated to The Register)

The thriving village of Metcalf was the central point for pleasure seekers on Tuesday, the 11th inst., when the Rev. Father Prudhomme's picnic, for the benefit of his church there, took place.

The competition in this was so keen, and of such a high order as to render it a difficult matter for the judges to determine which of the really excellent in the art. Their attainments in the line, coupled with their modest and attractive appearance upon the stage excited the admiration of all.

Just prior to the programme of the day being concluded, the Rev. Father Prudhomme, acting as chairman, called the audience to order, and stated that they were honored with the presence on the occasion of Col. J. P. MacMillan, who would kindly be regretted that Dr. Wallace, the member of the county in the Commons, though on the grounds the most of the day, was obliged to take his departure before this stage was reached.

God is first of all and supremely a Father, loving all His children with a love the intensity of which we can never hope to fathom. Like a true and loving Father He will sometimes coax sometimes threaten and sometimes even scourge those whom He most loves.

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN and be sure that when you ask for Perry Davis' Painkiller you get just that and nothing else. Use it promptly to cure cramps, diarrhoea and all other bowel complaints in summer.
