A VERY FINE COURSE. R. Spencer Jones of Brockville, Canadian representative of Central Lyceum Bureau, Rochester, was at the Garner yesterday. Mr. Jones has for years been a purveyor of high class entertainments in Canada and has conducted the course of nearly all the big musical stars who have visited Canada in recent years. At present he is placing a series of musical and lecture courses in the cities of Canada and is meeting with marked success. To a Planet reporter Mr. Jones said, that, although he was unable to sell Mr. Cairns, of the Grand Opera House, any talent as the latter's Lyceum course was already made up, he was sure that in no other town in Canada was so expensive a course being put on so cheaply. In Ottawa the management charge $2 for a season ticket and in nearly all the other towns the price runs from $1.25 to $1.50 for the course of five entertainments. Courses have been placed during the past week by Mr. Jones in London, Guelph, Brantford, St. Thomas and Glenora.

THEY WANT TO GET IN EARLIER. To The Planet.—The management of the L. E. & D. R. have so far endeavored to meet the convenience of the cottagers at the Eau that they will give three stops on the morning and evening trains along the Eau every day. This morning, for instance, we were held half an hour in the yard while some shunting was being done. Surely the passengers could have been landed first and this shunting done afterwards. Business men want to get to work as close to nine o'clock as possible; ten is altogether too late. As for the Blenheim delay every day, it appears strange that two trains, one having only nine or ten miles to run from Ridgeway, and the other only seven miles from the Eau, cannot connect any closer than 15 or 20 minutes. If you will kindly call the attention of the Lake Erie officials to this inconvenience you will greatly oblige—

DEAD ON THE FLOOR

Lifeless Body of a Chatham Chinaman so Found in Windsor.

The first death in Windsor's Chinese colony occurred some time Thursday night. The lifeless body of Yung Sam, who was working in Sam Lee's laundry on Goyeau street, was found by his employer yesterday morning. Lee at once notified Chief Willis and Undertaker Janies, and the body was removed to the latter's rooms on Sandwich street east. Dr. Bell, coroner, was sent for and it took him and the police several hours to learn anything about the cause of death, and it was finally decided that no inquest was necessary. Death was due to heart failure.

A member of the colony telegraphed to the father of the deceased, who lives in Chatham, and he arrived in Windsor yesterday afternoon. He said that his son had lived with him in Chatham for some time, but had come to Windsor in good health a few days ago, having secured work in Lee's laundry.

Lee, in whose place Sam died, told Chief Willis that the deceased had worked in the laundry until 9 o'clock Thursday night and had had eaten his supper and retired to a bedroom. Lee slept in another room and when he went to called Sam yesterday morning he found him lying on the floor dead. He had not heard any cry for help during the night or any noise in the room. Yung Sam was 31 years old and at one time owned the laundry on Goyeau street, but sold it to Lee and removed to Chatham with his father. He was a professed Christian and while in Windsor attended services in the Presbyterian Church. His father said that his remains would be buried in Windsor or Chatham.

I will race the Shamrock in British waters next season to gain practical knowledge and experience for a new challenger."
