WANTED TO APOLOGIZE

"I see that the poor, old struggling Banner-News has broken out again relative to my humble self," said Ald. Edmondson, laughingly this morning. "Really, I'm only sorry that so few see the Banner-News to realize what an important individual it thinks I have become; although, honestly, I expect they'll be calling me up by phone to withdraw it all and apologize any minute. Last time they alluded to some remarks I had made in the Council, the poor publisher anxiously and excitedly called me up to know if he had better apologize through his paper. I really don't remember whether I had seen what he had published or not and didn't exactly know what he was driving at, but he was bothering away to know whether he'd better apologize. He said he'd seen the correct report in The Planet and found out that his paper was all wrong, and wanted to know what he'd better do about it. I told him it was all right and not to worry. I didn't suppose anyone had read the thing, anyway, and the people would all have it correct in The Planet." And the genial alderman left, laughing heartily at the recollection.

ONE SAMPLE

The criticisms of this great home journal and its position on various public matters which from time to time find space in the columns of its unfortunate and jealous contemporary are usually passed over in kindly indulgent silence. A particularly amusing outbreak, however, occurred yesterday relative to the Aberdeen bridge embroglio, when the contemporary in question undertook to hand out its bouquets and criticisms allegedly through Dr. Thornton and a "prominent citizen." In these the "report of The Planet" is challenged from start to finish, and the following statement (including the capitals) is alleged to have been made to that paper:

"What is more, the agreement calls for WIDENING the bridge or BUILDING A NEW ONE if the engineer deems fit. So The Planet's partial statement in this respect is worse than wrong."

As a matter of fact, as the public know, the WIDENING of the bridge was the one thing that the agreement did not call for. It is a matter of unimportance to The Planet, but the friendly suggestion may not be amiss that the reputation of gentlemen alleged to be giving these weighty interviews and expert opinions to our contemporary would not be permanently blasted if they took some little pains to ascertain the facts ere rushing into print.

KILLED BY G.T.R. FLYER

The Misses Inglehart of Palermo Meet Instantaneous Death.

The Two Ladies Had Crossed the Track Before the G. T. R. International Limited, But Their Horse Became Frightened and Backed Up on the 6th Line Level Crossing—One Badly Mangled, Other Slightly Marked.

Oakville, July 27.—As a result of a little recklessness and a frightened horse, a double fatality occurred here yesterday afternoon when the Misses Inglehart of Palermo were instantly killed by the International Limited of the G. T. R.

The accident occurred at the sixth line level crossing, a short distance west of the station. The ladies had been shopping in Oakville during the afternoon, and were on their way home. As they neared the crossing they were warned by a farm hand of the approach of the flyer. The view of the track, however, was obstructed by the station and by a number of cars on the siding.

They drove ahead and managed to cross the tracks in safety. Unfortunately the horse became frightened by the noise and excitement and, stopping backed up.

The locomotive struck the buggy and demolished it. One of the occupants was hurled about two rods; her sister not quite so far. One had her head badly mangled, the other was but little marked. The horse was not injured.

Dr. Lusk and Dr. Urquhart were summoned, but found that both women had met with instant death. The bodies were removed to the undertaker's mortuary. No inquest will be held.

The Misses Emma and Ella Inglehart were the only daughters of J. E. Inglehart of Dundas street, Palermo, one of the oldest and best known families in the County. They were only 20 years of age. Mrs. Inglehart died last fall.

Woman Hurled to Death.
Comber, July 27.—While returning from Lake St. Clair attending a church picnic, Mrs. Chris. Stevenson of Merens Township, was thrown from her buggy in crossing the G. T. R. tracks at Stoney Point. The unfortunate woman fell under the horse's feet, and her skull was fractured, death ensuing before the arrival of the physicians. The deceased was a middle-aged person, and leaves a husband and grown-up family.

Head Cut Off by Train.
Merriton, July 27.—James Mathison, lock-tender on the new canal, was found dead on the Grand Trunk bridge, just east of the station here. His head was completely severed from the body.

Falls to His Death.
Owen Sound, July 27.—William Minners, an unmarried man, whose home is in Kincardine, was killed by a fall from a permanent scaffold in the oiling works of the Grey & Bruce Cement Works. He was oiling the shafting, when in some manner he lost his footing and fell headlong to the cement floor, a distance of 16 feet.

In Changing Seats Boat Capsized.
Buffalo, July 27.—A double drowning accident on the Welland Canal, near Montrose, Ont., occurred Tuesday night. The victims were Miss Hattie Hayden and Ernest Doane, both residents of Niagara Falls, N.Y. They were in a boat with Gertrude Dick and Chas. Bloore. An attempt was made to exchange seats, the boat being capsized.

Dynamite Disfigures Children.
Tottenham, July 27.—By the exploding of a dynamite cartridge in the hands of two children of William Courtney, near here, a boy of seven years of age, had three fingers torn off his right hand, and the other, a child of ten years, had the flesh torn from his body and arm. Both children are badly disfigured about the face, but no fatal results are anticipated.

One Man Dead, Three Dying.
Tottenham, July 27.—By the falling of a timber work on the construction of the new C. P. R. road, about three miles south of here, six cars loaded with gravel fell some ten feet and buried beneath the debris four men, three of whom were extricated, badly and probably fatally injured, and the fourth instantly killed. The dead man is a Russian, 23 years of age, and unmarried. No cause can be assigned for the accident, the structure being apparently substantially built.

Boy Instantly Killed.
Brooklin, July 27.—The twelve-year-old son of William Corner was killed at his father's farm, about two miles west of here, yesterday forenoon. In the absence of his father and elder brother he had of his own option hitched a horse to a light wagon and started for a load of wood. Within a few rods of home the horse took fright, and ran away, throwing the boy violently to the ground and fracturing his skull. Death was instantaneous.

Bandaw Accident.
Deseronto, July 27.—Charles Marnihan, an English emigrant, who came to Canada with his wife about six months ago, and who has been employed by the Rathbun Co., met with a very serious accident, yesterday morning. He was working on the bandaw when his hand was caught, cutting off his first three fingers. He fell on the saw, cutting his arm at the elbow and again at the shoulder. Had his shoulder been cut a half inch further, an artery would have been severed.

FOR TRIAL

The Perpetrators of the Wheatley Whitecapping Apprehended by the Crown—Statement by Mr. Smith.

"After giving the matter the most careful consideration the Crown has decided to prosecute the parties guilty in the Dalmage affair. There are laws in this country to punish parties guilty of offences such as said Dalmage committed and the Crown is always ready to assist in the punishing the same. Mob law in any form in Kent County cannot and will not be tolerated."

The above statement was handed out to the press by Crown Attorney H. D. Smith this morning in reference of the Wheatley white-cap outbreak, reported previously in The Planet. As a result informations are being laid against all the parties implicated, under which they will come before Judge Houston in County court and the case will be thoroughly investigated.

TO RUN FOR FOUR MONTHS

across your bridge for construction purposes—the city had agreed to let us—surprised to hear they had not. If there is any fault on our part we want to know what it is. We offer to leave this bridge in as good condition as we find it and indemnify the city for any damage it may incur.

Mr. Gundy—The question is, "Can the Council, under the terms of the by-law, require the bridge to be WIDENED?" Up until recently the city had thought of widening the bridge, until Mr. Warburton had stated definitely that the company would rely upon their legal rights and would not rebuild or widen the present bridge. The company asks a privilege with one hand and by relying on their rights, hold out a law in the other. It is advisable to settle now the construction of the agreement and find out the answer to the question, "Can the city require this bridge to be widened?"

Mr. Lily—We invested our money—was not the money of others—on the strength of the agreement we had with the city. We are willing to abide by that agreement in its entirety. But we will not submit to you putting your own construction upon it by saying that the bridge was widened. Until we can comply with the agreement by strengthening or replacing this bridge we ask the favor of going across it for construction purposes. If we cannot obtain this favor we will take our medicine like men and say no more about it.

Ald. Edmondson—We wish to be sure that you will widen the bridge after construction purposes are achieved.

Mr. Lily—You wish to make a new agreement, while we refuse to change our rights and liabilities. The railway commission decides whether the bridge is satisfactory and will safeguard the city. The plans are before it now. I know the arrangement made after a letter given by Mr. Bell to the railway commission.

Mr. Gundy—The whole question is the interpretation of the agreement. We will do whatever the railway commission says is to be done. We understood that you had consented to letting us go across temporarily or the trouble would not have occurred.

Ald. Austin—You assumed you had the right to go across.

Mr. Lily—You were there and consented.

Ald. Austin—No!

Mr. Kipp—Yes, you did!

Mr. Bell—Mr. Mayor, you said of my letter, "This looks satisfactory." Surely that was justification for our going ahead?

Mr. Lily—Understand our position. We abide by the agreement and have had an expert bridge engineer prepare plans. We cannot say that we recommend. These plans are before the railway commission now and we will abide by what they say.

Mr. Bell—If you give us the privilege of crossing now, and are not satisfied with the plans when you get them, you are in a worse position than you were before.

Mr. Austin—Do the plans as prepared by the bridge expert contemplate a widened bridge?

Mr. Lily—I DO NOT THINK THEY DO.

Mr. Austin—We know, now, exactly where you are.

Mr. Bell—We have sent for the Engineer for the railway commission, to whose approval the work must be done. If he says the bridge must be widened it will be widened.

Mr. Lily—And, in the meantime, are you going to hold us up when we ask a favor of you? We agree to save you from every cent of expense or damage you may incur. We have treated you right and deserve the same treatment.

The Mayor—That is not so. The bridge frans disproves that.

Mr. Lily—You were there and did not object. You left your Engineer there and said that if the gist of the conversation was put in writing it would be all right.

The Mayor—I said of the letter, "This looks satisfactory."

Mr. Bell—By your conduct you gave us to understand it was all right.

At this juncture Mr. Lily and his colleagues left the meeting. The Council then went into session to decide what should be done. All were of the opinion that the whole question was—could the city in view of the agreement insist upon the widening of the bridge? No one seemed qualified to give an opinion upon this because that will, in all probability, be a question for the courts to decide.

Then there was a question of pure ethics—"It seems to me the company at a disadvantage; they ask a favor of us, that of crossing the bridge for construction purposes, will we grant it?" The more generous sentiments prevailed and it was decided to let the road cross temporarily, under the terms of an agreement presented by Mr. Bell, and if any trouble occurs at the expiration of the construction time—four months—meet it then.

The agreement, shortly, provides that the crossing is for construction purposes only and to continue for four months. The time may be extended by a permit from the Mayor. The company agrees to lay its tracks so as not to interfere with traffic or the structure of the bridge and will indemnify the city for any loss or damage the city may sustain. If they do not remove the tracks at the expiration of that period they will indemnify the city for taking them up.

WARNING TO LIQUOR MEN.

Hon. W. J. Hanna Speaks Right Out at Newmarket.

Newmarket, July 27.—Yesterday a monster picnic was held by North York Conservatives to celebrate the victory of T. Herbert Lennox at the last election. About 3,000 persons were present.

In addition to a program of sports, there were speeches by J. P. Dewdney, M. P. P., T. Herbert Lennox, M. P. P., and Hon. W. J. Hanna.

The first two speakers showed how Hon. J. P. Whitney had redeemed his pre-election promises, and Mr. Hanna's speech, which was a ringing exposition of the Government's short career, was rendered notable by the following utterance:

"The Government has cancelled the right of hotelkeepers to sell to boys under the age of 21, and he hoped the liquor men would support it."

"To the liquor men let me say: 'You'll be making a great mistake if you attempt to set the law at defiance.' We don't say this in any unfriendly feeling to the liquor men, but it is the interest of liquor men as well as ours to see that the law is observed."
