The gun to be experimented with on this occasion is the largest specimen of steel ordinance yet made. largest specimen of steel ordinance yet made. It weighs 72 tons, with a caliber of 40 centimeters, or 153 inches. The length of the grun is 32 feet 8 inches, and that of the bore 28 feet 6 inches. The English 80 ton gun last a conference was held, in a hotel in St. has a caliber of 16 inches, a total length of 27 feet, and a bore 24 feet long. The superior length of bore in the Krupp gun is thus apparent, being 21½ calibers, as against 18 settlers, at which the scheme was discussed. Suggestions were made by practical men which the Krupp gun is composed is steel throughout. The core of the gun consists of Edward Jack Esq., and others, as to the class a tube running its entire length, as in the Woolwich gun, but open at the rear, the loading being at the breech instead of the prepared to set aside a tract of land, near in two portions, the joint being secured in powder, the projectile being a chilled iron shell of 1,660 pounds, with a bursting charge 1,640 feet per second, corresponding to a energy of very nearly 31,000 foot tons.

An enterprising reporter of the Uitenhage Times has interviewed a bloodthirsty Zulu, who told him the following remarkable and amusing story:—
Some years since a missionary went to King Cetwayo's kraal with a view of converting him and his people to Christianity. He stayed there a few days, and the King agreed to hear him on the following Sunday. The Junday arrived, and the King gathered his
