THE HURON SIGNAL, FRIDAY, NOV. 4, 1881.

THE HURON SIGNAL, FRIDAY NOV. 11, 1881.

That Lass o' Lowrie's

A STORY OF THE LANCASHIRE COAL MINES.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

"It ud be aw I'd ax," said Sammy. "I'd be main well satisfied, yo' mebbe sure; but yo' know theer's so mony lookin' out for a job o' that koind, an' I ha' na mony friends amonng th' quality. I nivver wur smooth-tongued enow. True enough that. Among the coun try gentry, Sammy Craddock was regarded as a disrespectful, if not a dangerous, old fellow. A man who made satirical observations upon fhe ways and manners of his social superiors. could not be much better than a heretic. And since his associates made an oracle of him, he was all the more dangerous. He revered neither Lords nor Commons, and was not to be awed by the most imposing institutions. He did not take his hat off when the gentry rode by, and it was well known that he had jeered at several of the most important individuals in county office. Consequently, discreet persons who did not believe in the morals of "the masses" shook their heads at him, figuratively speaking, and predicted that the end of his career would be unfortunate. So it was not very likely that he would receive much patronage in the hour of his downfall

Sammy Craddock was in an uncomfortable frame of mind when he left his companions and turned homeward. It deed I am glad to have been fortunate see nobody and to hear nothing of the was a lbad look-out for himself, and a bad one for "th' owd lass." His sym-from home, and I could not wait for his pathy for the good woman was not of a sentimental order, but it was sympathy too late. I wanted to speak to you nevertheless. He had been a good husband, if not an effusive one. "Th' owd lass" had known her only rival in the Crown and his boon companions; and upon the whole, neither had interfered with her comfort, though it was her habit and her pleasure to be loud in her condemnation and disparagement of connubial life complete without a grievpolitics over his pipe and beer was her indulge,-there are Sunday-schools, and standard resource.

lying down in the depths of despair, but when he entered the house, he found her up and dressed, seated by the window in the sun, a bunch of bright flowers before her.

"Well now " he exclaimed "Tha nivver says ! What's takken thee ? I with some coldness. So the country he had preached with uncommon fire thowt tha wur bedrid fur the rest o' thy davs.

"Howd thy tongue," she answered with a proper touch of wifely irritaton friendship for the daughter of a dissi. Christ: "It is finished at his levity. "I've had a bid o' com- pated collier, her intimate acquaintance If it was chance that led to them topany an' it's chirked me up summat. That little lass o' th' owd pason has been her interest in the unhappy mothers of chance, and surely he had never preached quent visitors); sometimes, passing noment. "Oh, indeed, I must go myself," she said at last. "It is unconventional, but up on his forehead, and looked at her. there is no other way." And she bent over and touched the pony again and own accord an' managt it i' hasf an delay. She drove her three miles at a pretty it's a habit I've getten-but I be, an' no steady trot, and at the end of the third, mistake." -at the very gates of the Haviland

Park, in fact, -fortune came to her resthrough the gates, approached her. Seeing her, he raised his hat courteously; nivver seed nowt loike it i' my loife.

she recognised Mr. Haviland. She bent forward a little eagerly, feel- takkin th' matter i' hond th' minit she ng the colour rise to her face. It was somewhat trying to find herself said it when I seed her amongst th' lads sad. obliged by conscience to stop a gentle- theer, an' I say it again. An' hoo is na

"Mr. Haviland," she said. "If you thowto' fillin her pocket wi' tracks by have a moment to spare-

He drew rein by her phaeton, remov- to dee i' th' Union after aw, owd lass, an' ing his hat again. He had heard a great happen we con save a bit to gi' thee a ance among the county families. He 'moind to stay to th' top a bit longer." had heard her spoken of as a rather singular young lady who had the appearance of a child, and the views of feminine reconstructor of society. He had grey pony, and so, though he had never opening of the morning service at St.

seen her before, he recognised her at Michael's, Joan Lowrie entered, and "Miss Barholm ?" he said, with deferamong the free seats. The church mem-ence. "Yes," answered Anice. "And in- their pews. On her part, she seemed to enough to meet you here. Papa is away rustlings of the genteel garments stirred she was trying to use her needle. by the momentary excitement caused by return because I was afraid I should be her appearance.

about the lodge-kceper's place, Mr. Hav iland .' He had been rather of the opinion gregation. One from among the old that Miss Barholm must be a terrible men and women in the free seats, looking up at him with questioning in its young woman, with a tendency to model cottages and night schools.

Young ladies who go out of the ordin very hour, or for ever left at rest the both. She would not have felther ary groove are not apt to be attractive to the average English mind. There are holm pew, alight with appeal and trust. ance, and Sammy's tendency to talk conventional charities in which they may He stood in sore need of the aid for which he asked in his silent opening rheumatic old women, and flannel night-When he went out, he had left her caps, and Dorcas societies, and such prayer.

things to which people are used, and prone to under to the young parson's which are likely to alarm nobody. talents were moved to a novel compre-Among a class of discreet persons these are held to afford sufficient charitable hension of them this morning. The exercise for any well-regulated young more appreciative went home saying woman; and girls whose plans branch among themselves that the young man out in other directions are looked upon had power after all, and for once at least gentry, hearing of Miss Barholm and and pathos. His text was a brief oneher novel fancies, her teaching in a but three words-the three words Joan night-school with a young curate, her had read beneath the picture of the dead the corner of the road, and paused there "and I think you will be good friends, momous epoch, when a man's attitudes thoughtfully. The shallowness and Mr. Craddock. are studied and unnatural. In these "Owd Sammy" pushed his spectacles "An' tha went at th' business o' thy been.

turned the corner without any further hour !" he said. "Well, I'm dom'd;cross the hedge, Anice ?" her mother axin your pardin fur takkin th' liberty; sail. "Yes," Anice answered. "It was Joan Lowrie." He had not time to get over his grateful amazement and recover his natural told him what had occurred. Her voice pleasure. She looked really happy as A good-humored; middle-aged balance before she had said all she had was not quite steady, and she made the she tried the effect of one bit of colour gentleman on a brown horse came can- come to say, and was gone, leaving him relation as brief as possible. Derrick after another, holding the hat up. Joan tering down the avenue and, passing with "th' owd lass" and his admiration. sat looking out of the window without had never known her to show such in-"Well," said Sammy, "I mun say I moving.

CHAPTER XVIII.

A CONFESSION OF FAITH.

Some of his flock who were somewhat seeing him, she stopped her pony, for To think o' th' little wench ha'in' so after a few minutes had elapsed, "what this moment, that a blight lay upon her mich gumption, an' to think o' her now is to be done with Joan Lowrie ? struck it ! Why ! hoo's a rare un-I meet her eyes and find them almost

"What now ?" he said. "God knows man on the highway, and ask a favour of mich bigger nor six penn'orth o' copper For one, cannot see the end." neyther. An' I warrant hoo nivver

CHAPTER XIX. way o' comfort. Well, tha'st noan ha' RIBBONS.

The light in the cottage upon the Knoll Road burned late in these days, deal of Miss Barholm, from his acquaint- graidely funeral if tha'lt mak' up thy and when Derrick was delayed in the little town, he used to see it twinkle afar off, before he turned the bend of the road on his way home. He liked to

The Sunday following the curate's light, and as such he began to watch for heard of her little phaeton, too, and her vist to Lowrie's cottage, just before the it. He used to wonder what Joan was be doing, and he glanced in through the curtainless windows as he passed by. walking up the side aisle, took her place Then he discovered that when the light shone she was at work. Sometimes she was sitting at the wooden table with a bers turned to look at her as she passed book, sometimes she was labouring at some task with pen and ink, sometimes eves for those who find their sight beginning to fail :

"Sit in such a position as will allow the She had applied to Anice for instruct ion in this last effort. It was not loug light to fall obliquely over the shoulder before Anice found that she was intent upon the page or sewing. Do not use

The curate, taking his stand in the upon acquiring the womanly arts her the eyes for such purposes by any artifi- BISCUITS AND pulpit that morning, saw after the first life had put it out of her power to cial light. Avoid the special use of the moment only two faces among his conlearn.

eyes in the morning before breakfast. Rest them a half a minute while reading "I'd loike to learn to sew a bit," she had said, and the confession seemed or sewing, or looking at small objects, deep eyes, as if its owner had brought to awkward and reluctant. "I want to and by looking at things at a distance, or him a solemn problem to be solved this learn to do a bit o' woman's work. I'm up to the sky ; relief is immediately felt tired o' bein' neyther th' one thing nor by so doing.

other, turned toward him from the Bar- th' other. Seems loike I've allus been "Never pick any collected matter from doin' men's ways, an' I am na content." the eye-lashes or the corner of the eyes Two or three times Derrick saw her with the finger-nails ; rather moist it passing to and fro before the window, with the saliva and rub it away with the hushing the child in her arms, and once ball of the finger. Frequently pass the he even heard her singing to it in a low, ball of the finger over the closed eyelids and evidently rarely used voice. Up to towards the nose ; this carries off any exthe time that Joan first sang to the cess of water into the nose itself by means child she had never sung in her life. of the little canal which leads into the She caught herself one day half chanting nostril from each inner corner of the eye. a lullaby she had heard Anice sing. "Keep the feet always dry and warm. so as to draw any excess of blood from The sound of her own voice was so novel to her, that she paused all at once the other end of the body. Use eye in her walk across the room, prompted glasses at first carried in the vest pocket attached to a guard, for they are instantby a queer impulse to listen.

"It moight ha' been somebody else," ly adjusted to the eye with very little she said. "I wonder what made me do trouble ; whereas, if common spectacles it. It wur a queer thing." are used, such a process is required to Sometimes Derrick met Joan entering get them ready that to save trouble the with ragged boys and fighting terriers, day, it was a strange and fortunate the Rectory (at which both were fre- eyes are often strained to answer a pur- th

"Must say it's the nicest thing I ever used for the teeth and breath," says simplicity of the girl bafflled her contineveryone having tried "TEABERRY," new toilet gem. Get a 5c sample. days Derrick was as much at ease at the ually. She herself, who was prompted Rectory as an only son might have in action by deep motive and strong feeling, found it hard to realize that SEEGMILLER "I thought some one spoke to you there could be a surface with no depth

-AND-

CANNED

LUNCH TONGUE.

POTTED

HAM

S. SEEGMILLER,

ENGLISH BRAWN

CHICKEN.

Her momentary embarrassment hav- Chilled Plow below ing died out, Liz had quite forgotten herself in the interest of her task. She She sat down opposite Fergus, and was full of self-satisfaction and trivial AGRICULTURAL WORKS.

Having purchased the Goderich Foundry, I am fitting the premises for the manufacture of CHILLED PLOWS and AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS on a large scale. Mill Work, General Repairing and Jobbing will be con-tinued. All work guaranteed. Mr. D. Runciman is the only man authorized to collect payments and give receipt terest in anything before. One would "Mr. Derrick," said Anice at last, never have fancied, seeing the girl at life, that she could only look back with be used himself with a start to neet her eyes and find them almost She was neither looking backward nor themselves accordingly. She was neither looking backward nor forward now,-all her simple energies were concentrated in her work. How was it ? Joan asked herself. Had she forgotten-could she forget the past and be ready for petty vanities and follies ? To Joan, Liz's history had been a tragedy-a tragedy which must be tragic to its end. There was something startlingly CORN BEEF. out of keeping in the present mood of this pretty seventeen-year-old girl sitting eager and delighted over her lapful of ribbons ! Not that Joan begrudged

How to Preserve Failing Eye-Sight-

RESH

FRESH The Magazine of Pharmacy gives the following rules for the treatment of the SALMON AND LOBSTER.

BEEF.

A FINE ASSORTMENT OF

Christie Brown & Co's

CAKES, TEAS,

SUGARS AND Pure Spices.

TRY THEM. Chas. A. Nairn.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS LIVERPOOL, LONDONDERRY, GLAS-

leave Toronto by the Office Goderich.

World

GOW. SHORTEST SEA ROUTE. Cabin. Intermediate and Steerage Tickets LOWEST RATES.

Steerage 1'- engers are booked to London, Cardifl, Bristol, Queenstown, Derry, Belfast, Galway nd Glargow, at same rates as to erpool. SAILINGS rROM QUEBEC: MORAVIAN ... SARMATIAN . 27th August. 3rd Sept'r. 10th 17th 24th 1st Oct'br. ARMATIAN 137 The last train connecting at Quebec with the Allan Mail Steamer will leave Toronto ery Friday at 7:02 a. m.

fore closin read a sole was loudly The eve Town Hall At the ho was 'crowd throughout.

TEAC

201

The Semi-a

On Thui

the North

held its se

ham. The and the in

The execu

ments in th

the meeting son, Esq., ously and v

cers were their work

the meeting introductor

assigned to During t

following

"Introduc

H. Musgro

Mr. Came

address, re

er's Associ

A. H. Ma who had be to deliver a subject "St cially upor start; 2d, a

nity of labo and 5th.

tary terms.

singers and with the N

J. Turnb

subject, "I liminary re portance of f the teacl

with the su length to monarch, a plaining th the same is tion of t

The extrac

fort no mai

were given son, which

as their sin

man, Mr. (

The speake throughout one hour it seat was gi Shaw mov by Rev. M > tail, and discussion difficult wo ilar constr considerati hour and a very instru After Mi thematical of the sessi report from delegate to briefly disc up there. ed the te readings. West B.

The half the Central insts., at w

were prese was the pr

Mr. Ross

in a mann passed. I manner,

him by th

taken up dealt with

to all prese and B. F

Infinitive

McKinne

style. A teachers of regular at of vulgar f

short met

illustrated

Smith re

Lucknow,

ed the mo

termediat

Agricultur Mr. Frood

ed the r

taught in

He was fo

dealt with

to a class essays we

D. Thom

ny" and the session

Miss Jess

Alexande

were good ing of spe "The Dec

a style se

elocutioni

lections o

preciated. W. Ross

Hall, ent

not atten

ing that t

not often attraction

enhanced

about eig

interestin

ranged th held at P

WINGH

Duncan I while wor

Mr. Ri

ceed the

ial contro

successor

"No. 1 object to slandered

lishing de nets, and

sort of r

TOWR-U

factory.

Power.

wice favo

Routine lent Pupil

settin wi' me. "That's it, is it ?"

"Aye, an' I tell yo' Sammy, she's a noice little wench. Why, she's getten th' ways o' a woman, stead o' a lass.she's getten a face as pretty as her ways, haps even politics, and a tendency to ad- garden near the holly hedge, she heard good-night and gone out on the stair- eyes feel tired, the very moment you are ed.

"I mak' no doubt on it," he answered. better for young persons to leave these first time they had speken to each other. "I mak' no doubt on 'it. It wur her, matters alone, and do as others do who "I ha' na a minnit to stay," she said tha knows, as settlet th' foight betwixt are guided wholly by their elders." th' lads an' th' dog. I'm wonderin' why It was an agreeable surprise to Mr. to say to yo. she has na been here afore.

knitting, "that's th' queer part o it. him with a pair of the largest and clear- sical-power for a time appeared subdued, Whatten yo' think th' little thing said, est eyes he had ever seen, while she told And yet she looked steady and resolwhen I axt her why ? She says, 'It did him about Sammy Craddock.' na seem loike I was needed exactly, an' I did na know as vo'd care to ha' a stranger coom wi'out being axt.' Just as if she had been nowt but a neebor's lass, and would na tak' th' liberty."

"That's noan th' owd parson's way." said Sammy.

"Th' owd parson !" testily; "I ha' no

CHAPTER XVII. THE MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

The morning following, Anice's father one, spend their days in the public- up my moind." being called away by business, left Rig- house, and their nights in my preserves, She paused an instant, her lips trem- her. If she felt pain, it was not the gan for a few days' absence, and it was and leave their wives and children to bled.

not until after he had gone, that the attend to my gates. This Craddock is "I dunnot want to say much about it derness. She was capable of making story of Mr. Haviland's lodge-keeper evidently the very man for me; I am not now," she said. "I ha' not getten th' any effort for the ultimate good of the came to her ears. Mr. Haviland was a a model landowner, but I like to combine words. But I thowt as yo'd loike to man she could have loved with the Member of Parliament, a rich man with charity with subservience to my own in- know. I believe i' th' Book; I believe whole strength of her nature. a large"estate, and his lodge-keeper had terest occasionally. I have heard of the i' the Cross; I believe i' Him 'as deed on When she entered her room that just left him to join a fortunate son in old fellow. Something of a demagogue, it ! That's what I coom to say." America, Miss Barholm heard this isn't he ? But that will not frighten me. The woman turned without another surprise by a scene which met her eyes. from one of her village friends when she I will allow him to get the better of me word and went away. was out with the phaeton and the in political discussion, if he will leave Anice did not remain in the garden. some circumstances would have meant grey pony, and she at once thought of my pheasants alone."

very thing for him. The duties were Anice, if you will let me send him to too, trembled, and her pulse beat rapid- peculiar significance. Liz was sitting light, the lodge was a pretty and com- you."

vided for. But of course there were Miss Barholmfor him ? She touched up the grey pony present. Indeed, you do not know how she only counted as chance-work. with her whip, and drove away from the grateful I feel."

knew Mr. Haviland only by sight; his drove back to his house and told him, ion, leaning back in a chair before a faded thing."

estate was three miles from the village, without delay. her father was away, and there was '''If you will go to-morrow morning, head. His friendly intercourse with the She came and stood leaning against how you what a regular dollar-size really no time to be lost. She drove to Mr. Haviland will see you." she ended: family had extended beyond the cere- the fireplace, and looked down at Liz wortie will do their heads as the very mildest possible Joan in vain; she had gone before the that he advanced at all in her friend- flapped against the closed eyes with the expression of dissent. They suspected rest of the congregation. strong-mindedness and "reform"-per- But in the evening, being out in the vance irregular notions concerning the her name spoken, and glancing over the case, Joan stepped hurriedly back into conscious of an effort to read or sew, lay Sammy scratched his head and reflect-ballot. "At any rate," said they, "it leafy barrier, saw Joan standing on the the room and stood at the door as if aside the book or needle, and take a walk does not look well, and it is very much side path just as she had seen her the waiting.

without any prelude, "but I ha' summat

Haviland to see ,sitting in her modest Her manner was quiet, and her face "Well now !" taking up a stitch in her phacton, a quiet girl who looked up at wore a softened pallor. Even her phyved.

> "I want the place very much for him, "I wur at church this mornin," she you see," she ended. "But of course I began again almost immediately. do not wish to be unfair to any one who "I saw you," Anice answered.

may want it, and deserve it more. If "I wur nivver theer before. I went there is any one who really is in greater, to see for mysen. I ha' read the book need of it, I suppose I must give it up." yo' gi' me, an' theer's things in it herself held no germ of warmer feeling. "But I am glad to tell you, there is as I nivver heerd on. Mester Grace If she had the slightest doubt of this, patience wi' him. Th' little lass is as nobody," answered Hr. Haviland quite too-he coom to see me an' I axt him she would have relinquished nothing. ments are to business. different fro' him as chalk is fro' cheese." eagerly. "I can assure you, Miss Bar- questions. Theer wur things as I want- She had no exaggerated notions of selfhalm, that the half dozen men who have ed to know, and now it seems loike it immolation. She would not have given applied to me are, without a solitary ex- looks clearer. What wi'th' pictur', --it up to another woman what Heaven had ed supreme, and is at best but rough ception, unmitigated scamps - great begun wi'th' pictur' - and th' book, an' given to herself, any more than she and-ready compared to the neat strong burly fellows, who would, ten to what he said to-day i' church, I've made would have striven to win from another

The spirit of Joan Lowrie's intense little; but taken in connection with her Sammy Craddock. The place was the "I will answer for the pheasants," said mood communicated itself to her. She, remembrance of past events, it had a ly. She thought of Paul Grace and upon the hearth, with some odds and fortable cottage, and Mr. Haviland was "I will see him to-morrow morning wished for his presence. She felt her- ends of bright-coloured ribbon on her known to be a generous master. If Sam" with pleasure" said Mr. Haviland, self drawn near to him again. She knee, and a little straw hat in her hand, bowels.

come, that his faithfulness had not been the scraps of ribbon for the purpose. other applicants, and who was to speak "Thank you, there is nothing else at without its reward. Her own labour When she heard Joan, she looked up

She found Fergus Derrick in the par- her head over her work again. woman had told her the news in a per-plexed frame of min.l. She herself Craddock heard the good news. Anice He was sitting in his favourite posit-almost deprecatingly. "It wur sich a of the Throat and Lungs-are requested ship.

"What is it ?" Anice asked. Joan started. She had looked flush- use of the eyes." ed and downcast, and when Anice addressed her, an expression of conscious self-betraval fell upon her.

"It is Mester Derrick," she answered, advice given by the thrifty Laird of Dumbiedykes on his deathbed to his son and in a moment she went out. and heir: "Plant trees, Jock-they'll Anice remained seated at the table. her hands clasped before her. "Perhaps," at last she said aloud, "perhaps this is what is to be done with her. And then-" her lids tremulous, sleeping, -"it will be a work for me to do. Derrick's friendship and affection for you least suspected in some cases, is a relic of ancient days when the bill-sticker and bell-man reign catching the public eye along with the pungent "leader" or the latest local woman what had been Heaven's gift to news. pain of a small envy, but of a great ten- doesn't advertise is like a fellow winking behind green spectacles—he may know what he is doing, but nobody else.

will cure the worst case of Dyspepsia. A single dose will relieve in a degree night, Joan Lowrie was moved to some that shows its wonderful curative powers, and its peculiar action upon the It was a simple thing, and under Stomach and Digestive Organs. It is a positive and absolute cure for Costive-ness and Constipation, acting in a remarkable way upon thesystem, carrying off impurities. As a Liver regulator its actions are most remarkable. and stimulates the Liver to action, it corrects the acids and A tew doses will surprise you my could get the situation, he was pro- "And if there is anything else I can do wanted to tell him that his harvest had She was trimming the hat, and using Sample bottles 10 ets and reddened somewhat; and then hung

For tickets and every information apply to fingers, not striking hard against the H. ARMSTRONG, Agent, Montreal Telegraph 1781-3m

ALL THE NEWS FOR A CENT. THE for an hour, or employ yourself in some Poronto Daily active exercise not requiring the close

THE ONLY ONE-CENT MORNING PAPER IN CANADA.

THREE DOLLARS A YEAR! TWENTY-FIVE CENTS A MONTH!! ONE CENT A COPY!!

all Less than Half the Cost of any othe Morning Paper YOU CAN MAKE MONEY by canvassing fo Agents and Canvassers want Send post-card for terms and

SAMPLE COPY FREE. WORLD PRINTING CO., No. 4108 0. King street east, Toronto

beautiful HEAD OF HAIR. This can only be obtained by using CINGALESE, which has proved itself to be the BEBT HAIR. RESTORER in the market. motes a healthy growth of the hair, renders oft and silky, strengthens its roots, and ents its falling out, and acts with rapidity

RESTORING GREY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL COLOR.

Try it befor .using any other. Sold by a ruggists. Priece 50 ets. a bottle. 1752.15-For Sale by J. WILSON, Druggist

Derrick marched into the Barholm | said.

"mave you taugut min ou to may

Free of Cost. All persons wishing to test the merits of a great remedy-one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs, Colds. to call at your drug store and get a trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for regulates the

It tones

They will act in a thousand waysthey will go where you can't go-they will say a good word for you in places

How to Make Money.

grow when ye're sleepin'

Most people are aware of the famous

What phosphates are to soil advertise-

Mural notification, while indispensable

In short, the business man

SEE TO IT ?- ZOPESA, (from. Brazil)