

The Untiring Energy

of the WOLF is proverbial. Practically no energy is required where SUNLIGHT SOAP is employed. SUNLIGHT SOAP is energy itself. The Wolf is the enemy of mankind; is the enemy of all dirt. It is the friend of the housewife, and is made for her profit. To the housewife it means less labour, less dirt, more leisure, and time and money saved. SUNLIGHT SOAP does away with needless rubbing and scrubbing, and so preserves the clothes.

Sunlight Soap

GIVE IT A TRIAL.

"Quo Vadis."

No amusement spectacle that has yet been devised for the pleasure of the people of this day and age can approach in massive grandeur, dramatic intensity and impressive beauty George Klehe's remarkable photo-drama "Quo Vadis" which has created such a sensation at the Astor Theatre in New York City, in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and a dozen other important amusement centers and is announced for a week's engagement in this city commencing Monday night at the Casino Theatre with matinee Saturday.

Reviewing this photo-drama marvel, Adolph Klauber, the distinguished critic of the New York Times said: "Fresh evidence of the wonders of the picture was supplied at the Astor Theatre yesterday afternoon. A series to illustrate Sienkiewicz's "Quo Vadis" was shown for the first time. Denzil Frohman contends that the public will not grow weary of the moving pictures, but of inferior specimens of their kind. The combination of outlay and skill never produced anything so fine as the pictures shown yesterday.

With a good memory of several productions of the Polish writer's novel in dramatic form it is quite possible to say that none of them seemed to reconstruct the period of the play with the same completeness that these views do.

"Massive pillars stand in front of the house of Vinitius and through the open doors of Petronius' corridors the spectators glimpse a garden rich in foliage and the white ornamentation of marble figures. The orgies of the court in Nero's palace proceed with a degree of naturalness which would never have been possible on the stage. The crowd in front of the palace as Rome burns; the Emperor hearing with astonishment their imprecations, and the sight of Petronius turning their attentions once more to Caesar, these episodes were accomplished with a vivid flash of reality impossible to the dramatic stage.

"It was, of course, the burning of Rome which most fully revealed the capacity of the pictures to indicate spectacles. Through streets swept by smoke and flames rushed pink strikers people. Houses tottered and crumbled about them as the flames advanced relentlessly.

With striking reality is the burning of the city represented, and the later views of charred and ruined buildings added their effectiveness to the scenes.

"It was perhaps the most striking novelty of these pictures that the backgrounds never seemed to have been created for the special purposes of these various views. The action seemed on the other hand to be taking place in just the spots it would naturally have happened.

This sense of reality was, of course, secured by the trouble exercised in imparting a look of solidity to the scenes. Some of the out of door pictures, especially those showing the Christians at their devotions, sometimes in moonlight and at others bathed in the morning sunlight, were uncommon in their photographic quality.

Evening performances to commence $1.15 excepting Tuesday and Thursday when the curtains will be held till 9.15 to accommodate those working in stores. Matinee 2.30 on Saturday. Reserved Seats on Sale for whole week at Atlantic Book Store, Thursday.

Priest Celebrates Important Event. Nervous Dyspepsia, Gas or Indigestion

Starting this morning at 9 o'clock with a solemn high mass, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of Rev. Father Edward Galway, of St. Joseph's Cathedral, was celebrated at the Cathedral. All the priests in the vicinity who have been closely associated with Rev. Fr. Galway during his fourteen years of service in this community, were present.

Those officiating at mass were: Rev. Edward Galway, celebrant; Rev. P. H. McDermod, of Clarksburg; deacon; Rev. Chrysostran, O. M. Cap. sub-deacon; Rev. O. H. Moye, master of ceremonies.

The following were present in the sanctuary: Rev. Joseph Wittman, of Bellefleur; Rev. Robert E. O'Keane, of McMechen; Rev. Edward E. Weber, Rev. P. J. Brown, Rev. Joseph Mortorano and Rev. William Hall, of Benwood.

Rev. A. H. Moye delivered an excellent sermon, which was a touching tribute to the splendid work of Rev. Galway during the past fourteen years. At the conclusion of the sermon a handsome gold chalice was presented to the honored priest by a representative of the Holy Name Society, of which Rev. Galway is director. The silver jubilee was terminated with a sterling address by Rev. Galway, who took advantage of the opportunity to express his heartfelt thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the occasion and those present. The service closed with "Te Deum."

Regimental Marches.

Rev. Edward Galway, whose 25 years of priesthood occasioned the celebration of the silver jubilee, was born in St. John's, Nfld. His early education was gained in North America, but he completed his studies abroad, notably in Paris. For several years he taught in the ecclesiastical seminary at Dublin, Ireland. From Ireland he came to this country and was assigned to a chair in the Duquesne university at Pittsburgh. Before coming to Wheeling he presided over St. Ann's church at Milvale. Rev. Galway has always been prominent in Catholic circles and besides being a director in the Holy Name Society is also director of St. Vincent de Paul's Society.

The two societies of which Rev. Galway is director, will unite in extending him an elaborate banquet at the Carroll Club this evening. Final arrangements have been made for the affair and reservations have been made for a large number of guests. A programme of unusual features has been prepared. Prominent members of the societies will deliver short addresses.—Wheeling Daily News, Oct. 28.

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well you did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late then to say: "If I had only, etc., etc." That "if" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it? Is it not more the duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurance with Percival Johnson's agency—the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

Women Lawyers

Is the duty of the woman lawyer coming? Not yet; though perhaps sooner than many people think. In fact, a resolution was brought forward recently at the annual meeting of the Bar to the effect that anyone able to pass the required tests should be admitted to the profession, irrespective of sex.

True, this resolution was defeated by five or six hundred votes to fifty; but despite this, its supporters are still optimistic, and bent on hastening forward the time when the British Courts of Law will be brightened by the presence of many charming bewigged and begowned Portias.

As Miss Lind-Af-Hageby proved in a law suit some months ago, a woman—of course, when trained—is fully as competent to conduct legal cases as any man. That this is so, many bar-masters admit; and they have formed a committee, with Lord Robert Cecil at the head, to carry on propaganda work which they hope will strengthen the hands of Lord Wolmer, who proposes to introduce in the House of Commons next year a Bill in the interests of would-be Portias.

Women lawyers, of course, are extremely successful in other countries notably in France.

Light exercise after the morning bath is an excellent tonic and body beautifier.
The hands of fainting persons are sometimes rubbed with salt to help the circulation.
Salt sprinkled over a carpet after it is swept, will brighten the colors and kill germs.
To save time and cream when whipping it, whip it in a pitcher instead of a bowl.
A pinch of salt in the water will help to keep cut flowers fresh.
The clothes wringer will last twice as long if the pressure screw at the top is loosened.
To give potatoes a flavor, add half a teaspoonful of sugar, as well as salt, when boiling.
To remove dirty marks from light-colored cloth, try using a piece of India rubber eraser.
