EARLY CABLES.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 19. Turkish fears of submarines, Turkish fears of swiftly moving military airplanes landing with bombs, and generally, Turkish fears of aggression from without that will put Constantinople in danger, have tonight placed the whole Lausanne Conference in jeopardy. The United States is silent on the situation, but the Allied leaders say tonight that they have uttered the last word on the question of the liberty of the Straits. Tomorrow the Turks must say yes or no to the Allied project. The diplomats are endeavoring to convince the Ankara statesmen that the Straits project is essentially framed to meet conditions in times of peace, and that the Allies are not in any sinister manner seeking facilities for war, and especially against Turkey. They say they have only sought equality of air fleets passing through the Straits on peaceful errands. The Allies have emphasized that they cannot accept the Turkish request for suppression of submarines and military airplanes, especially they have been unable to accept the Ottoman suggestion that combined foreign fleets entering the Black Sea shall not exceed in strength the fleet of the strongest naval power of the Black Sea. "That would make the Black Sea forbidden ground," said the French expert tonight. An additional fear of the Turks, which the Allies must calm tomorrow, is that with which they surround the proposed international commission to supervise control of the Straits. The Turks claim the Commission will be inquisitorial in nature, that it may infringe Turkish sovereignty, and finally it may be used as a club by some powers to threaten Turkey. Hence their ambition to have a general guarantee pact signed at Lausanne that will assure neutrality of the Straits and prevent acts of hostility in Turkish territorial waters. The Turkish delegates tonight seemed unruffled and did not appear at all impressed at the ultimatum, talk with which the Lausanne atmosphere is charged. It is pointed out tonight that failure of the Straits negotiations would not necessarily imply failure on other vital matters of the Lausanne agenda, one of which is arranging peace between Greece and Turkey and between Turkey and the Allies

Paris-New York Flight Projected.

Substantial orders for metal propellers have been placed by the Air Ministry as a result of the performance of a British made metal propeller in the great duration record made by the French pilots Bossoutrot and Dronhin last month. When Bossoutrot landed after 34 hours 14 minutes 7 seconds in the air his first words were in praise of the British three-bladed Leitner-Watt metal propellers with which his machine, a Farman Goliath, was equipped. He ascribed the success of the flight to the absence of vibration and the perfect pitch of the propellers. Both pilots endured the strain of this continued flight with ease.

Next month a French attempt will be made on the world's highest record, again with the aid of metal propellers, and in the near future M. Farman proposes to send a Goliath machine, similarly equipped, on a direct passage from Paris to New York. The distance down in the duration test exceeded the mileage between the cities. By way of proving the condition of the propellers after the record flight they were used the next day on the Farman passenger service to Brussels and back, after which they were placed on exhibition in the Paris showroom of M. Lumiere, who is making similar propellers for France under licence from British inventor. Saving in Cost. If, as now appears possible, the metal propeller is generally adopted by the French and British air services, there will be a saving of cost to the taxpayer, for metal propellers do not deteriorate in stock, and being adjustable to the required pitch of different machines, fewer spares are needed. In mass production they will also show a saving over wooden propellers, being made from common steel and stamped out. Ultimately, it is hoped, the metal propeller will provide a new industry for the British metal trade. The inventor, Mr. Henry Leitner, an engineer, and cousin of Col. Amery, First Lord of the Admiralty, so far has secured a world monopoly in an invention essential to flight. Old Ladies' Comfort Boots for $4.00 the pair at SMALLWOOD'S Shoe Sale.—dec18,22
