LONDON, Nov. 15.—The dominion premiers, who have been attending the Imperial Conference, made their final speeches last night. The occasion was a dinner given by the royal gallery of the House of Commons by the United Kingdom Premier, Mr. Baldwin, and the Dominion Premiers, Mr. King, Mr. Bruce, and Mr. Warren. The representatives had met on terms of perfect equality, and the conference was held in the spirit of the great advance in the relations of the dominions during the twenty-five years and asked what would have been the effect on his country had the Imperial Conference extended to the days of Lord North, George III., and Benjamin Franklin. The Premier expressed his confidence in the development of the Empire, and the Dominion Premiers expressed their confidence in the development of the Empire. Let's Go to The Royal Stores

I like shopping there, because everything is so conveniently arranged, so well thought out, and so cheery, that it is a delight to walk around the different departments, and they do everything possible to help you at every counter. Further, it means a big saving for us in the housekeeping money. I always find that their prices quality considered, are the lowest in the city, and that's a big consideration.
