

Proceedings at the Legislative Council

MONDAY, April 24, (continued.)

MR. BISHOP said that whilst the Bill was being considered, he felt the House should be kept advised of the progress of the Bill. He said he had no objection to the Bill being passed, but he felt it was necessary to have the Bill passed in the House of Assembly.

HON. DR. CAMPBELL enquired if the Hon. Mr. Morine could name another Government guaranteed hotel.

HON. MR. MORINE mentioned a hotel which was built in St. John's, N. B., and paid for by the citizens themselves because it was felt to be of local advantage. This, he considered, was more than a guarantee. Other examples akin to that were also mentioned. How many of the hotels built by the C.P.R. or the C.N.R. paid?

Few, he thought directly. They did indirectly, however, for they formed an important part of a big policy. Without them the country could not be developed. People must see a country before they invest their money in it. These hotels formed part of a system. Reference had been made by Mr. Bishop to the unfairness to other people. Hon. Mr. Morine did not believe it was unfair. If he were twenty years younger he would not be afraid to undertake, in face of this new proposition, to run the Cochrane. It would not injure those hotels, for it would not take away the class of people that stayed at them. Rather would rivalry do them good, it would make them more anxious to add to their clients and they would become more beneficial and successful than they are at present. With regard to the section re license, the Hon. Mr. Morine had been particular in seeing that the Alcoholic Liquors Act was not interfered with or violated in any way whatever.

HON. MR. ANDERSON was glad to give his support to a measure which gave labor and was reasonably protected by legislation. The sum of $2,000,000 had been given for roads, $1,000,000 for repairing the Dock, and the present Bill asked for $700,000 for an hotel. This represented an expenditure of $3,700,000. He hoped that when he should give an historical review of the country that the House would grant the indulgence due to that important subject. He supported the second reading of the Bill.

HON. MR. MILLEY said that the Hotel proposition was apparently a part of the Tourist Traffic Bill which had been passed, and as such should receive all the support possible. As a business proposition he considered it excellent. The amount guaranteed will come back in revenue and other ways. The Hon. Leader of the Government had said that it was proposed to have a hall where private theatricals, concerts, etc., could take place. In addition, Mr. Milley hoped that provision would also be made for a good dining hall which would accommodate from 150 to 200 people. When the Bill came to the Committee stage, he would like an explanation on some sections. He gave his hearty support. HON. MR. ELLIS agreed with the previous speaker and said that after deciding on the Tourist Policy, it showed poor judgment not to support the Bill before the House. For the past 25 or 30 years an hotel of the sort proposed had been receiving attention. Mr. McKay had tried to raise the capital to build an hotel, but had received no encouragement and the thing fell through. Mr. Ellis regarded the Hotel Bill the first fruits of the Tourist Bill, and thought that probably if that Bill had not passed, the offer concerning the hotel would not have been made. It was all right to speak about economy of public funds, but any man could see that the risk in this case was taken by those who had offered to put the hotel up. The money invested would be repaid to the country and the city directly in the way of added business, etc. He stated that Mr. Gray, the Engineer examining the Dock, had been asked why it was that ships had not come here for docking purposes. He answered that there was no captain of a ship on the Atlantic who did not know the condition of the Dock. It was the same with regard to hotel accommodation. The people who would come here knew our limitations in this respect. He did not think the other hotels would be depreciated. It had already been pointed out that they had not the facilities that were required. It was wise for the Government to insist on a fireproof hotel. This would prove a further attraction. He mentioned a case of an hotel which had been burnt and had not been rebuilt. A fireproof building would be a guarantee of continuity. It would be substantial and give satisfaction in every way. Hon. Mr. Ellis supported the Tourist Policy and gave his full support to the Bill before the House as being part of that policy.

HON. MR. STEER said he was pleased, indeed surprised, that the Government so specially secured what must be looked upon as a favourable contract. The Council of the Board of Trade made reference in its annual report time and again to Tourist Traffic, and the need for an hotel in St. John's, but no other results had been brought about. In the introductory of the report of the Council of the Board of Trade, it was pointed out that in the opinion of the Council the building of hotels and tourist traffic had to go hand in hand if the latter was to be encouraged. That provision was made for the encouragement of hotel building was the right course was pointed out by the Leader of the Government when he said that St. John's was not the only city that had to help along such work. With reference to the large outlay spoken of by Hon. Dr. Campbell, as required for advertising propaganda, he would like to say that a Committee of the Board of Trade had this matter in hand and were offering their services freely and that the cost in this respect would not amount to a great deal.

HON. MR. MCNAMARA wished to support the Bill as he considered the erection of a first class hotel inseparable from the tourist policy. The first question a visitor asks is what kind of hotel accommodation have you. The fact that the Government made such a favourable bargain is evidence that the builders have faith in the enterprise. With regard to the present hotels being affected he held that they would benefit by the overflow of trade as the result of the new erection and the increased traffic. So far as advertising was concerned he felt that any money expended in this way would be well spent. A method of advertising, however, should be advocated. We were long enough advertising Newfoundland with the iceberg picture postcard. This class of advertising probably looked nice, but it gave a chilly feeling and he always thought that a law should be passed prohibiting such advertising going broadcast. Newfoundland had the scenery, sport and climate. And the only thing necessary to induce tourist traffic, he thought, was modern hotels.

HON. MR. MORINE said as regards advertising, the Company proposes having a broadcasting station, and that Newfoundland would be well advertised in this way, as we would be the first "on the air" every day.

The Bill was read a second time, and ordered to be committed to tomorrow.

HON. THE PRESIDENT read a message from the House of Assembly, asking for the return of the Bills entitled, "Of the Survey of Foreign Going and Labrador Vessels," and "An Act Respecting the Encouragement of Shipbuilding." This request was concurred in and the Bills were ordered returned accordingly.

The House then adjourned until Monday next at 3 o'clock p.m.

Household Notes

Before placing trout in boiling water, wrap loosely in a piece of cheesecloth.

Use white sauce as a foundation for lobster croquettes, and season with lemon juice.

Bake cheese omelet in a buttered baking dish lined with crumbs, and season with paprika.

For a sandwich spread, mix chopped sweet pickle with cream cheese and Bar-le-duc jelly.

When poaching eggs, put a little vinegar in the water to keep the whites from spreading.

Serve scrambled eggs in a border of finely chopped spinach, and garnish with strips of pimiento.

Serve eggs in battered ramekins lined with seasoned, creamed celery. Top with buttered crumbs.

Serve boiled asparagus tips on toast with hard-boiled eggs, sliced, and mock Hollandaise sauce.

Small new potatoes are nice boiled and served with melted butter, paprika, and minced parsley.

Let carp remain in salt water for several hours after it is cleaned, and it will lose its muddy flavor.

Try baking boiled rice with chopped green pepper, cooked bacon, beaten eggs, and a little milk.

Grate a little orange rind and squeeze some orange juice into candied sweet potatoes before cooking.

Mix diced oranges with quartered marshmallows, whipped cream, and sugar, and chill before serving.

Some people like liver rolled in cornmeal, fried in bacon fat, and served with coffee-flavored gravy.

Fill the cavities of canned peaches or pears with grated cheese mixed with mayonnaise, seasoning, and chili sauce.

To save back strain and unnecessary fatigue, it is important that your kitchen sink and table be the right height.
