THE G. T. R. MAGNATES.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, the new president of the Grand Trunk Railway, has accepted the invitation of the Toronto Board of Trade to dinner on Saturday. The party consists of Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, Messrs. Joseph Frick, vice-president; G. Allen, A. W. Smithers and H. Oppenheide, directors; L. J. Seagrave, general manager; James Stevenson, superintendent; C. Hanover, chief engineer; H. Wallace, mechanical superintendent.

A Montreal telegram says: Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson proceeds west today on the Grand Trunk investigation.

"Bill Arn" is one of the most entertaining writers in the Southern press of this country, and he has recently been impressing upon the youth of America the desirability of life insurance. He says:

"Life insurance is the best savings bank in the world for a young man. He gets it so cheap. Now, here I am, old and poor, and am carrying only $2,000 on my life, and it costs me $175 a year, and it is a hard struggle to meet the premiums. I began only five years ago. Too late! Too late! But I must hold on until I whip the fight. I'll whip it sure if I hold on, for old Father Time is backing me. If I had begun at 21 or 25 the premiums would have been about $40, and the dividends would have been paid on that long before this. I heard a man say the other day that he paid on $10,000 for twenty years, and now has a paid-up policy and draws dividends on it just like it was stock in a bank. I wish I had done that when I was a young man. Wouldn't it be glorious if I had such a document for my wife and the girls?"

The Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company issues policies to young men at such low rates that a $5,000 policy costs only $85 a year, and the dividends thereon have made it a paid-up policy for $6,000 at the expiry of twenty years. After that period cash dividends are paid every five years, and the policy increases in cash value from year to year. Ask A. N. Udy, office in C. P. R. building, corner Dundas and Richmond streets, to show you one of these policies. 82c ywt.

THE ENGINEER EXPLAINS.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser":
I have heard a great many unjust and uncalled for reports and remarks about the owners of a certain lot on Richmond street having had a sewer connection made on Sunday to said lot. Permit me, through your courtesy, to flatly contradict such reports and statements. The owners of the lot had not the slightest intimation or knowledge that the work was going to be done on Sunday. And allow me to inform these people that before ordering the work to be done on Sunday, I asked the foreman, if he commenced at 12 p. m. on Sunday would he be able to get it finished in time for street car traffic in the morning, and he said it could not be done in that time. I then asked him if he objected to working on Sunday, and he said he did not, as he considered it a work of necessity. And I further told him not to ask any of the men to work if they considered they were doing wrong. The work had to be done on Sunday or stop the street cars and all other traffic on Monday in that block. I took the entire responsibility of having it done on Sunday, and if there is any censure to be cast on any one, it should be cast on me, as the owners were in entire ignorance of it. "Fiat justitia ruat cælum." Yours truly, A. O. GRAYDON, City Engineer. London, Aug. 28.

LETTER FROM REV. WALTER RIGSBY.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser":
A resolution of condolence from the Cigarette-makers' Union of this city, caused by the lamentable death by drowning of Richard Warwick and his brother, contains the following statement: "Whereas it has pleased our Almighty Father to remove from our midst our comrade and brother by death, etc."

I would be very sorry to add one pang to the suffering endured by the friends of the deceased, or detract from the intended sympathy thus expressed. But making every allowance for the formality of the expression, I cannot but think the death had more to do with the said disaster than the Almighty, and if the sympathy with the bereaved widow, who has lost her chief support, is deep and genuine, let the brotherhood enter an action for damages against those who sold liquor to the poor unfortunate and were accessories to their death.

I should like to help in such an undertaking, but I doubt not, he well pleasing to Him who is the "husband of the widow."

The grain consisted of 350 bushels of wheat, 110 bushels of barley and 1,664 of oats. The hours of work were from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. Is not this a record breaker? So far as heard from the grain crops in Westminster this year are beyond the average.

—The Guelph Herald says in its report of the Foresters' demonstration there: The national dancing by the Misses Lillian and Beatrice Shand, of London, was a marked feature of the afternoon's programme. Their dancing captivated the onlookers, and with grace and lightness of step they executed the most difficult feats, and loud applause was given them. The Shand sisters are undoubtedly the best Highland dancers in the west.

—At a meeting of the picnic committee of the Canadian Order Woodmen of the World, held Tuesday evening, a pleasant surprise awaited two members of the committee. It had been previously arranged that the committee should sell the most tickets should be presented with a Woodman pin. But the totals showed that two members sold the most—rather, that there was a tie for first place. To overcome this it was decided to treat both the same. Mr. Jas. McCormick, in a short speech presented the winners, Sova, J. H. Saunders and J. H. Farrell, they having sold 134 each. The recipients replied in a hearty strain. An adjournment was then made to a restaurant where a spread was provided. After disposing of the many good things provided, an hour was spent in speeches and songs. Among the members of the committee were: J. H. Saunders, Chas. Doe, Jas. McCormick, J. H. Farrell, Robt. Thomas, T. Colman, D. J. Patterson, A. Tume, M. Hoehn and K. McBride.

DEATH OF MRS. ANDREW DENHOLM.

JUN.
On Tuesday afternoon, Christina McDonald, wife of Andrew Denholm, the editor of the Blenheim News, died in the prime of life. A good woman has gone to her reward, for she had during many years lived the highest type of Christian character. She exemplified in every contact with, and in the discharge of every duty to her relatives and acquaintances, all the grace given to those who make a constant endeavor to walk in the footsteps of Christ. Those loved her best who knew her best.

For a long time she had been troubled with an internal tumor, which at length became so developed that skillful physicians decided its removal necessary. The operation was performed on Aug. 6, by Dr. Sanford, assisted by Drs. Mitchell and Hanks, and Miss Milne, a nurse with special experience in such cases. She progressed well until about the 12th day afterward, when other complications set in, but hope of her recovery was not lost until a few hours before her death. She was born near St. Marys, 37 years ago, but removed with her family to Stratford seven years since. In October 1892, she was married and assumed the charge of five orphan children, to whom she endeared herself at once. She became the mother of one son who is yet too young to know the extent of his loss.

MONKS SELL BEER.

And Catholic Temperance Societies Object—Satioli Reserves Decision.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The protest against the manufacture and sale of beer by the Benedictines of St. Vincent's Abbey, of Beiry, Pa., is still under consideration by Archbishop Satioli. A second protest has been received here, this time coming from a temperance society of Buffalo, of which Rev. Father Zercher is president. Mgr. Satioli has sent a letter to the Benedictines referring to the complaints. They have forwarded a response saying there was no scandal connected with the sale of the beer, which they stated, was done merely to cover the cost of manufacture for their own consumption and the expense of the internal revenue tax. The total amount manufactured, it was stated, was in the neighborhood of four barrels a week, which they regarded as an insignificant output. The Benedictines announce, however, their readiness to see what can be done in the matter to quiet the criticisms. A second letter has just reached the archbishop in which the Benedictines refer to a pamphlet circulated in Pennsylvania criticising their production of beer, and reiterate their attitude already outlined. Mgr. Satioli has not so far formulated any definite opinion in regard to the matter.

DOCTORS AGREE

That Alcohol is a Curse to the Human Family—Convention of the Canadian Medical Association.

Kingston, Aug. 29.—The 28th convention of the Canadian Medical Association is in session here. President Bayard, in his address denounced alcohol, holding that the Government should establish inebriate asylums, as they profited by the traffic. Sir James Grant likewise assailed alcohol as a curse, and also held that excessive education was damaging to the race.

Dr. E. E. Mackenzie declared for physical training, and Dr. Sayre, New York, said a nation depended on its physical condition, and this should be systematically improved. The committee appointed to look into the matter of inter-provincial registration submit that it is essential that there should be a uniform standard of matriculation and medical education for the whole Dominion, and that there should be a uniform method of examinations.

LOAFERS IN PARKS.

The parks are a pretty poor substitute for the country after all. Last week a girl who had just returned from rustic scenes, her heart full of delightful recollections and longings for more, hid her to the park, and after walking far in search of a nook that should suggest rural delights, seated herself beneath a tree and opened her book. In less than ten minutes a blonde young man had cavorted up to her and asked her to go for a sail. He said he was alone in the world, had all sorts of money, and he admired her very much. Considering that she had never set eyes on him before, this was rather too much for the girl who had precipitately, ran into a wire fence and finally plumped down in the remains of a family luncheon—mostly eggs and custard pie. Any one who talks to that girl of the delights of the park and its intimate relation to the country has a goodly contract on hand in convincing her.

Seriously, the genus loafer is one of the principal objections to the parks. He is ubiquitous, and a fear and a dread to the girl who ventures forth alone. True, there is ever the park policeman, but he is often remotely far and the average woman shrinks innately from making a scene. Oh, the parks are beautiful things; we couldn't do without them. To watch the children at hide-and-seek, the youths at tennis and ball, the mothers and families playing innocent games together, is a pleasure, indeed, but no one can be so unsuspecting as to suppose any park an Eden into which evil and temptation may not enter to lure the weak and the unwary. The parks are the lungs of a great city, no doubt, but even the best of lungs are liable sometimes to tubercular growths, and need a prompt physician and heroic treatment. —[Eve Brodlique in Chicago Times-Herald.]

The location is a very central one and very convenient to the street railway, and a thorough course of instruction will be given in English, mathematics, the modern languages, especially French and German. Careful instruction and attention will also be given to those younger pupils, who may be still in the more rudimentary branches.
