TEACHER'S VIEWS HURT THE SCHOOL

DUE TO PROF. M'FAYDEN'S BOOK

The Annual Contribution of Cooke Church Withheld-Professor Stands by Statements.

Toronto, Jan. 15. — The views of Rev. Prof. John E. McFayden, of the chair of Old Testament Literature and Exegesis in Knox College, are the subject of much cogitation among various sections of the Presbyterian Church. Not long ago a prominent elder spoke out in public meeting and declared that if Knox College did not act he would take steps to wash his hands of The any complicity in the matter. The flank attack made by Cooke's Church at its applied received the cooke's Church at its annual meeting on Wednesday night, in declining this year to con-tinue its annual contribution to the funds of the college, because it engaged a professor holding the views of Prof. McFayden, is viewed by some as a rather petty movement. SCHWAB GIVES UP FIGHT

Feared Further Exposure in the

Schwab, the alleged wrecker of the United States Shipbuilding Company, threw up his hands in a hearing before United States Circuit Judge Kirkpot-riek in Newark Wednesday. His coun-sel, William D. Guthrie, broke away completely from the firm stand he had maintained. He admitted the insolvency of the shipbuilding company and withdrew his opposition to the appointment of a permanent receiver. Of the many sensational moves in this remarkable legal drama of high finance the complete surrender of the defendants, who may be incorporated under the name of Mr. Schwab, is the most startling.

Only one conclusion can be drawn from this notable change of front-Mr Schwab is willing to sacrifice everything rather that submit to the searching examination of Samuel Untermeyer

After engaging the best legal talent to be found before the New York bar and fighting with every legal technicality available in the intricacies of corporation law, the complete surrender of the defense and the consequent sacrifice of many millions of dollars shows beyond doubt that the Schwab and Morgan interests could not bear further exposure in what Receiver Smith hes characterized as the "most artistic swindle in the history of high

FUR SMUGGLING SCHEME EXPOSED

Concerned in the Case—Big Seizure in New York.

New York, Jan. 15. — The World this morning, says: Several prominent persons in New York have petitioned the authorities in Washington to permit them to pay duty upon lot of smuggled furs and retain pos-session of the goods. Government of-ficials have a store of costly furs and so far have declined to consider them as anything other than confiscated

Recently the arrest of a man Tupper Lake, in the Adirondacks, who was caught transferring furs from a local express car to a car on the New York Central, bound for this city, put the Government into possession of facts on which a large number of these furs were made here. A Montreal fur house had been selling furs to New Yorkers to be delivered, duties paid. The transactions were all made in Montreal, the furs being bought there by persons traveling. The purchasers were told that the house had a large trade in New York and made its deliveries here and that the prices askliveries here and that the prices ask-ed included all delivery charges. Special treasury agents went to the houses of many New Yorkers in the holiday season and seized furs that had been delivered without the formality of paying duty. The persons who

London, Jan. 15. - Another rather out Christian rites at his obsequies. Lord Stanley, of Alderley, was buried in a small plantation near Alderley Park, in Cheshire, his country seat, and Ridjag Effendi, Iman to the Turkish embassy in London, performed the Mohammedan burial rites beewten the hours of sunset and sunrise. The body was not encased in a coffin, but wrapped in a shroud, was placed directly in the ground, and an opening is left about the face of the dead, which reaches to the surface of the ground. Possibly this is a precaution which follows upon the habit of burying the dead almost immediately the breath has left the body. A great domed tomb is placed above the grave, and on it is carved a turban.
