LONDON, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 1,

THE LIBERAL LEADERSHIP.

Hon. A. G. MacKay has taken the straightforward and manly course in refusing to permit the Liberal party to go into an election with a serious personal charge hanging over the head of its leader. Mr. MacKay boldly asserts that the case is one of blackmail, and that he will clear himself to the ed in the courts. His frank version of the facts was unreservedly accepted by the members of the Ontario Reform Association, They voted their confidence in him, and urged him to remain at his post, but Mr. MacKay magnaniplaced the interests of his party above all private considerations. There was no affectation in the resolution expressing the appreciation of his fellow-members of his brilliant services to his party, his zeal and devotion in a trying period in the fortunes of Liberalism. Mr. MacKay has been one of the most commanding intellects in the public service of the country. In House. On the platform he has few confined to his own followers.

The new Postmaster-General, Mr. Pelletier, frankly tells his constituents that the Nationalists will insist upon a navy referendum.

It was hoped that office and patron age would induce them to drop a polnatisfaction of everyone, if it is pressicy which will sow a new crop of strife and discord. Having set their compatriots by the ears in the attempt to rout Laurier in Quebec, they now ask that the whole country be plunged into a turmoil. There is only one alternative to the do-nothing policy of the Nationalists. That alternative is a Canadian navy. It is not a party issue at all. The Prime Minister of British Columbia, who is credited with some weight in Conservative councils, demands a Canadian squadron on the Pacific coast. At the Trafalgar Day celebration at Victoria on Oct. 21 last, he spoke in sheer parliamentary ability he ranked support of a resolution declaring that anyone on either side of the "the most valuable assistance which the dominions could give the Empire peers.
