ALD. W. A. WILSON HAS SECRET PLAN FOR FIXING STANLEY ST.

Many Citizens Tell of Dam- Imparted This To No. 2 Committee-Will Not Tell Details.

Ald. W. A. Wilson, chairman of No. 2 committee, is in possession of a secret plan to "fix up" the famous Staniey street car tracks on this recently-paved thoroughfare. At least, that is the information that he imparted to members of the above body in session Tuesday night.

"I interviewed Manager C. B. King of the London Street Rallway today, and he informed me that split rails at the west end of Stanley street are to be replaced right away," he informed the committee.

Tuesday was girevance night for members of No. 2 committee of the city council, several deputations appearing to complain of conditions throughout the city. The majority of these complaints were resultant from the flood following the recent heavy storms and in a few instances, the committee will investigate conditions personally today.

W. R. Meredith, appearing on behalf of Miss Hemsworth, 30 Ridout street, stated that the River Thames was washing away her property, and that another for immediate relief, stating that at this point.

"You spend enough civic funds in London West," he stated, "and this should be treated in the same way." He asserted that his client could step from her back door into the river and that the condition there is dangerous. The matter was referred to the city council and city solicitor for an opinion from the latter on possible immediate action. "He matter on possible immediate action, and the condition that the pavement on the Pipe Line road had so raised the road from his property that it is in danger of permanent ruin.

"My land was buried to make an improvement for the general public," he declared. "The pavement alone costs more than the blooming property, It would pay me to deed my lots to the committee admitted that the deputation has a legitimate grievance, which the members will investigate in person today.

The Francis Hankin Company will install the London West sewage meter for $1,975. City Engineer Brazier, whose tender for city paving was the only one submitted, was awarded the contract, and he will carry on the work for the remainder of the season's program, if the city council confirms the commit-area, with the result that stagnant water remains under the houses for weeks. He urged construction of a storm sewer.

'I don't think there is another place like it in the city of London.' commented Chairman W. A. Wilson, who has investigated the complaint. The deputation expressed willingness to pay for the sewer if construction were authorized. City Engineer Brazier was instructed to prepare estimates on a sewer on Brydges street, with a view to eliminating the menace.
