-Paul Kruger is now travelling in a coun try where he is appreciated, and where he may enjoy a greater degree of comfort than was possible when he was president of a country whose seat of government was being continually shifted. After all, his record nize him as they are doing. France is a country that has been prolific in the production of heroes, and Frenchmen of today know better than to place Oom Paul in that class. There was nothing heroic in his participation of the war; there was nothing heroic in his boast that he "would drive the nothing heroic in his flitting from the country that his own arbitrary act has lost forever to his people, leaving them to battle for their homes and their liberty. Cronje, Joubert and DeWet will go into history as generations as a traitor to the best interests of his country, and a stumbling block in the way of civilization.

—Mrs. J. L. Brown, a sister of Mrs. H. J. Andrews, of Middleton, and Edward Thorne, of Prince Albert, died in Boston last week

-Newfoundland people evidently do not appreciate Mr. Reid's efforts to develop their practical owner and governor of the ancient colony, but the result of the recent election was a direct blow at his monopoly of the great transportation services of the island.

The Yarmouth S. S. Co. are negotiating for the purchase of a steamer to take the place of the Monticello. They have in view a steel twin screw boat.

He has been looked upon as the Just how secure he is in his holdings has not transpired, but if he has public opinion strongly against him the government will, no doubt, find a way to abate his power. To the average outsider it really looked as if Newfoundland owed him much for the development that has taken place under the exercise of his great enterprise, a development that would not have obtained but for his courageous effort. However, the Newfoundlanders must be allowed to judge hand, taking a special course in medicine. exercise of his great enterprise, a developfor his courageous effort. However, the Newfoundlanders must be allowed to judge the case. If the Bond government arrogates to itself the credit for the development of the past few years, they should not entirely pauperize the humble instrument when he is unable to agree on the measure of punish ment to be meted out to the leaders of the cent insurrection. The United States, nishment than execution for Prince Tuan and the others, while Great Britain, Gerthing less than the death penalty useless. This lack of concert among the powers may may discern that the true cause of the disagreement is jealousy among the powers, and ase that knowledge to advantage in the adjustment of the peace propositions. It is a fact that there is a widespread discontent in China, and the powers, by unwise division now, may encourage a general uprising.

-Whatever may be the finding of the inquiry into the loss of the steamer Monticello, the disaster should lead to the exclusion of side-wheel passenger boats from the rough waters of the Bay of Fundy and the Atlantic coast. The Monticello had a good record, and weathered many a storm in the performance of the Bay and South Shore service, but that does not alter the fact that the side-wheeler is inferior to the screw boat in rough weather, and in the Nova Scotia staunchest craft be employed in passenger transportation.

American Imperialism. Washington, Nov. 23.—President Mo-Kinley expects that events or 'destiny' will make him the ruler over a part of China be-fore he retires from office on March 4, 1905. It will be strennously denied that McKinley imperialism is to be extended into China.

But the most potent influences behind the administration are working to modify this resolution, and some of the administration leaders; auticipate that events will so shape the McKinley policy that the President can explain to the people that he could not help himself, and that the land was forced upon him, and that he considered it his sacred dark in the cause of peace and humanity.

It will be strenuously denied that McKinley imperialism is to be extended into China. Secretary Hay declared in his note of July 3-that the administration had no plan or in tention to seize or occupy any part of China, and that 'the policy of the United States was to preserve China's territorial and administrative entity.'

But the most potent influences behind the administration are working to modify this at Black River, near St. John, last Wednesday. A seaman named Shiffon was drowned. The schooner was owned by Capt. St. B. Robbins, of Yarmouth, and commanded by Capt. Wm. Matteson, of Lunenburg.

—A most disastrous fire took place at Canning last Wednesday night, when the great barn of the R. W. Kinsman Company was burned with all its contents, including nearly one hundred and fifty tons of hay and $200 worth of farm machinery. The barn cost about $5,000. The stock was finely bred and included five animals purchased from the late Mr. Wm. Young. When the fire was discovered and the doors opened, the heat was so intense that it was impossible even to loosen the animals. The Hon. Dr. Borden is a heavy stockholder in the company. The origin of the fire is uptower. The stated that the insurance covers $19,000, but this will not meet half the loss, which is placed at fully $20,000.

expiain to the people that he could not neight himself, and that the land was forced upon him, and that be considered it his sacred duty, in the cause of peace and humanity, to accept a slice of China, set up a permanent military establishment there and govern't it for the glory of the of the United States and the salvancement of trade.

There has been no public declaration of this policy, and there will be none. The fact is known to but lew, but The World is informed by one who has hitherto always been right about Mr. McKinley's plans that many handred equare miles of Chinese territory, will in the course of events, inevitably he brought under the protection of the United States. They will be governed in colonial style. The United States will then take its full share of responsibility with England, Germany and Russia—the only three powers strong enough to exercise a controlling influence for opening the whole Orient to trade.

A plan of government for the Philippines is also rapidly taking definite form since the election. The permanent administration will be modelled upon the British plan in Ganada. There will be a governor-general appointed by the President. There will be a native house of representatives, and local self-government. But the governor-general will be supreme. He will have veto power over all legislation and important appointments. In other words, the governor-general will be supreme. He will have veto power over all legislation and important appointments.
