

It is high time to exert some economic leverage. A "Small Rivers Fund" should be established, to consist of monies received as fines for environmental pollution, voluntary contributions by organizations and cooperatives, and donations from citizens and other sources. A fee should be set for the floating and rafting of timber, to be measured in cubic kilometres.

(Originally published under the heading "The Northern Dvina is Dangerously Ill").

Lesnaya promyshlennost'

May 30, 1989

Page 3 (Abridged)

