portant bearing not only on the Behring not. Sea settlement but on all the pending questions which have been sources of international complications between the United States and Canada, namely, the passage of alien laborers to and from Canada, the North Atlantic fisheries question, the presence of many Americans in the Klondike territory belonging to Canada and in the mining regions of British Columbia, the fisheries trouble along the Great Lakes, the bonding privilege granted Canadians, the controversy over rights in the Fraser River, British Columbia, and in the Puget Sound, and also the question of a reciprocity arrangement between the United States and Canada. There is direct and definite information that Sir Wilfridomes prepared to take up all these questions, and, if possible, include them in one general settlement, whereby the constant friction they have engendered may be overcome. On some of these subjects he will confer with President McKinley, and on at least one of them, that relating to alien laborers crossing the border, the will suggest such mutant modification of present restrictions as, in his opinion, will be of material advantage to the thousands of Americans now in the Klondike and British Columbia mining countries, and at the same time will be of advantage to Canada along the eastern border.

On the matter of reciprocity the general purpose of the negotiations will be to give the United States the benefit of the minimum clause of the present Canadian law in exchange for the 20 per cent, reduction allowed under the Dingley law. The desire of Sir Wilfrid and his associates will be to confine the arrangement to a few important articles, allowing time to develop its usefulness and extend its scope. On the part of Canada, the articles likely to be proposed for reciprocity are: Fish, coal, lumber and barley. On the part of the United States the articles likely to ignure in the negotiations are coal, coal oil, corn, railway and electrical supplies, machinery of all kinds, agricultural implements, native woods, watches, clocks, cotton and certain forms of iron and steel. The Canadian law permits a one-eighth reduction of duties this year, and one-fourth reduction next year, to such countries as give advantage to Canada. At present British goods get this reduction, while American goods conot.

To Canada, and that fully 10,000 American contract laborers are working in the mines of British Columbia. The United States immigration laws, it is asserted, are administered with harshness along the Canadian border and are a daily source of irritation. Sir Wilfrid therefore suggests that the causes of irritation be removed on both sides, and it is understood that he is prepared to offer a repeal of Canadian restrictions in the Klondike and other regions if the administration of the American law is made more lenient.

The Border Immigration Question.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his associates will urge strongly that the border immigration question be settled, and on this point will confer with the President. Under the Premier's direction the Cual dian Parliament passed an alien immigration law last spring, by which American contractors and American labor were invited.

Hay, at his late residence, 43 St. George-street, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Truly, "in the must of life we are in death."

Major Hay had been alling somewhat since Saturday, but nothing serious was anticipated. About 4 o'clock he complained of not feeling well, and decided to go to bed, instead of visiting a friend, as he had arranged. Shortly afterwards a blood vessel burst, and in less than an hour the end had come. The cause of death was apoplexy.

The funeral, which will be private, takes place to-morrow at 3 p.m.,
Major Hay's sudden death was the talk of the town last night. The deceased was so widely known that, as the news of his tragic end was whispered about, it created a decided sensation. On the street, at me theatres, at the leading hotels, groups of men gathered to discuss the startling announcement. For Major Hay was a generar favorite.

John Dunlop Hay was the second son of the late Robert Hay, M.P. for Center Toronto. He was born in Toronto 42 years ago. He was also mentential and college. After leaving college he joined his father in the lumber business in New Lowell, where are remained some

Mr. Rolls of York Mills, who attempted to block the York County in constructing the bridge, has got into trouble with the the bridge, has got into trouble with the authorities now. The story is that when Ald. Govanlock (the contractor) and his men tore down the barricade wnich Rolls erected, the latter charged in with a pitch-fork. Ald. Gowanlock, who has taken lessons at Toronto City Hall, promptly got his graft on the pitchfork and got it away from Rolls. Be that as it may, it did not deter James Balsam, one of the workmen, from swearing out an information before Squire Wingfield against Mr. Rolls, charging him with assaulting him with a pitch-fork. The case will come up to-day or tomorrow.

The engraving represents the Queen as having lost a good deal of that facial rotundity and expression which is noticeable in the Jubilee stamps, the nose and chin inclining to be pointed, and the eye hardly discernible. The crown is absent altogether and in its place is a tiara, which has the seeming appearance of sliding off the far side of her head. In the four corners are maple leaves taken from specimens gathered on Parliament Hill at Ottawa and surrounding the stamp is a border. The engraving is coarser than that found in previous issues, and the lettering is very commonplace. In accordance with the regulation of the Universal Postal Union requiring uniformity of color in regard unit to certain stamps, the 1 cent stamp is printed in green and the 5 cent stamp in deep blue. Those posted in the General Postofice yesterday were from a sheet marked "Ottawa No. 1," and are probably the first in Canada to go through the mails,

The Prisoner Can Give No Reason for the Deed.

HE EATS AND SLEEPS WELL

Says He Had No Thought of Killing His Brother and Sisters.

Suddenly and After He Had Killed the Eldest He Could Not Resist the Desire to Kill All-Not Much Excitement and No Talk of Lynching-Prisoner Shows Signs of Remorse-Decided Change in which he admits he knows awaits him. cational facilities are entirely lacking, and where existence itself is but a burden. Knowing nothing but the nost. degrading poverty from childhood, he can scarcely be said to be even civilized.

Joliette, Que., Nov. 8 .- (Special)-Fom Nulty, the self-confessed murderer of his three sisters and little brother at Rawdon, still lies in the cells here, where he was brought on Saturday. Nulty today appears to be quite unconcerned over his terrible crime and the fate.

The man eats and sleeps well.

A Terrible Impulse. A Terrible Impulse.

When seen in the cell this morning he talked quite freely of the terrible crime to which he confessed. He said he did not know why he had committed the deed. Although his sisters and he did frequently quarrel, he said the thought of killing them had never occurred to him. The terrible impulsed came over him suddenly, and after he had killed the eldest, he could not resist the desire to kill all.

No Talk of Lynching. There is comparatively little excitement in Joliette over the presence of the murderer here, and there is no talk anywhere of lynching. People do not lynch murderers of the Nulty type. Had the victims of the Rawdon murder met their deaths, as was at first thought, at the hands of some passing tramp, who first hands of some passing tramp, who first ravished and then murdered his victims, the murderer, when caught, might, indeed, feel the fear of mob violence. But it is not so much indignation that a aroused in the case of Nulty as disgust.

This afternoon Tom began to show the first real signs of remorse that he has manifested since his arrest. When he came forward to the door of the cage

The Toronto Camera Club, which belongs to the International Lantern Slide Interchange, last night held an open meeting, open to the friends invited by members. There were present a very large number of interested spectators, who witnessed with pleasure, which they oftentimes testified by applause, the slides mades by the Buffalo and Rockford Camera Clubs, which are also members of the interchange. Some of these were very fine, notably some views of Niagara and surroundings. Historic border scenes had, of course, in their letter press description, the Yankee bias, but this was forgiven the writer because of the excellence of the views presented. The committee appointed to choose the Toronto 100 slides for this year's interchange have completed their work and the club will have no reason to be ashamed of its members' work for this season. The club is now nearly at its full membership of 175.
