Raw Furs.

The fur market at Montreal is reported as follows by the Herald of that place: "The arrivals continue to increase and the general tone of the market is satisfactory with the exception of beaver, which is still ruling too high in the country and the margin of profit anticipated by dealers is not realized, if, indeed, losses are not being made. All other lines are firm at last week's quotations. The following prices are for average prime skins. Extra size or quality are worth more; damaged or unprime skins are proportionately lower: Beaver, per pound, $4 to $4.50; bear, per skin, $10 to $15; bear, cub, $5 to $8; fisher, $3.50 to $5; fox, red, $1 to $1.25; fox, cross, $2.50 to $5; lynx, $1.50 to $2.50; marten, 75c to 90c; mink, $1.50 to $1.75; muskrat, 12c to 15c; otter, $8 to $10; raccoon, 50c to 60c; skunk, 50c to $1.

Immigration to the United States.

As nearly as can be ascertained 15,546,757 immigrants came to the United States between the foundation of the government in 1789 and the end of the fiscal year 1899, June 30, last. It is estimated that 250,000 arrived prior to 1820. From 1820 to 1855, inclusive, the alien passengers arriving numbered 4,212,624 of whom 98 per cent., or 4,128,372, are supposed to have been immigrants. Records have been kept of immigrants apart from other passengers since 1856, and the reported total is 11,169,385. Of late years, however, no count has been made of immigrants from British North America and Mexico, and as many more than were formerly reported came in through or from Canada, the aggregate for the century has doubtless been a good deal in excess of the 15,500,000 and upward shown by the official returns. The years of heaviest immigration were those from 1880 to 1881, and the largest single year 1891, with a total of 669,431.—Bradstreet's.

THE COMMERCIAL has probably the most varied exchange list of any journal published in the West. As it is the only journal of the kind in Western Canada, it is sought for in exchange by publications not only throughout Canada and the United States, but from Great Britain, the British Colonies, and many foreign countries. Many publications in foreign languages reach this office, and the address upon these is sometimes amusing. The most common mistake is to make the address: "Winnipeg, U.S.A." Even British exchanges come addressed in this way. Sometimes Ontario is worked in, such as: "Winnipeg, Manitoba, Ontario." But they reach their destination just the same.
