

profusion of illustration. We may also observe, that, whilst we have paid careful attention to household utilities, it has been our extreme care to appeal also to the deeper emotions and higher faculties of the mind.

But with all we have done, have we exhausted the field of usefulness? Far from it. We feel the force of that old but true lesson of philosophy, that the more we discover the more we perceive remains to be discovered; and therefore do we hope, year by year, to add to our usefulness and importance; therefore do we assure our friends, that we do not purpose to live upon the reputation of the past, but shall open up new sources of intellectual recreation, and carve out new treasures from the mines of literary wealth by which we are surrounded. the very existence of most of which, and the extent and value of it all, remains popularly unknown. In the meantime—

Our thoughts will still be burning
With affection deep and strong;
To our household shrine still turning,
“Home, sweet home,” shall be our song.

In once more taking leave of our friends, we hope the approaching Christmas will come to them redolent with joy, and the advancing year bear on its wings greater blessings to them than its predecessor.

DE

Allegor
Comfor
Credul
Curate
Custom
Decisio
Doubt
Duplici
Exquisi
Extrava
Fashion
Importu
Incorrig
Infatuat
Inspirat
Irascible
Irrelevan
Infirmit
Joy . .
Latitude
Libel .
Misery .
Modesty
Opportun
Persuasio
Presumpt
Principle
Propriety
Progress
Reproach
Straightfor
Wonder Wrath .

CULTIV

A Pleasant
An Eastern
Bishop Hall
ship of a
Comforts an Conversion
Consolation
Dangers of Ill
Definitions
Despised Tr
Difficulty Ad
Doing what
Evil Speaking
Fear of not S
Foibles of W
Generosity
Good Nature
Grief
Hope the Sun
Heart .
Humility .
How to Pass t
Influence of L
Life . . .
Littles . . .
Maria Theresas
of . . .
Man's Heart .
Minds of Mode