Atlantic City, and on their return will live in Ottawa.

The United Empire Loyalists' Association of Canada held a successful patriotic meeting in the Margaret Eaton Hall on Saturday evening. Miss Ethel Shepherd provided an excellent musical program, Col. Hamilton Merritt gave an address on "Reminiscences and Airplanes." Mr. W. N. P. Jarvis talked of the mechanical transport in France, and Lieut. F. O. Loft of the Canadian Forestry Corps, of his experiences. Refreshments were served by the ladies' committee and large contributions of soldiers' comforts, socks, and money were contributed. At the close of the meeting, tributed. At the close of the meeting, Mr. A. T. Bowlby, chairman, read a paper embodying a suggestion from

THE POTATO DRIVE.

This is really the opening of Canada's most popular gardening week. Those who have put off getting to work on their gardens usually bestir themselves by the 24th of May, and the holiday finds an army of diligent devotees of hoe and rake. The chief concern of this week for the war gardener should be His Majesty the Spud. In 1916 sixty-three million bushels of potatoes were grown in Canada. In 1917 seventy-nine millions were grown. In 1918 in Canada. In 1917 seventy-nine millions were grown. In 1918 every home cellar should become a "potato elevator" to release the wheat for the fighters and keep down the cost of living. Supposing your vacant lot is 36 feet wide. You might have 26 rows of potatoes. You have a wide variety to choose from. Perhaps the greatest favorites are Early Rose, Irish Cobbler, Mountain Green, Rochester, and Delaware.

Delaware.

Directions were given last week relative to the condition the soil should be in at the time of planting. Great care should be exercised in the initial preparations. The potato trenches should be perfectly straight and evenly spaced at about 27 inches apart. Use a line to get the measurements accurate. For an early potato this is the ideal distance,

A Smart White Skirt for the Twenty-Fourth May Be Chosen From These at $1.95 to $9.00

Ever since the time of our childhood, the "Twenty-fourth" has been looked upon as the turning point from Spring to Summer. And it's a fact that the day usually comes up to our expectations.

Of course we can't promise that it will be "fine and warm" on the coming holiday. We hope it may be; in any case, you'll want to be prepared for the enjoyment of a glorious day of sunshine. And an essential purchase will be that of a smart WHITE WASH SKIRT.

Beginning today, we'll make a special display of the most attractive new models that your fancy could picture. We describe a few of them, and suggest that you make your summer selections as soon as possible. There's a full range of prices now, and since each skirt is fresh from its maker's hands you'll get several "wears" out of any you choose before laundering will be

$1.95-Wash Skirts of White Repp, made on a very attractive model. with four buttons at the front closing, patch pockets with fancy flaps that are button-trimmed, the skirt gathered in the back, and supplied with a belt. At $2.50 - Wash Skirts of White Pique, each smartly made with gathered back, belt and inset pockets which button up in a novel manner.

At $3.50-Wash Skirts of Grey Percale or Beach Cloth, very practical models that are admirable for gardening, camping and so on. They'll give endless wear, and don't soil readily. Each has patch pockets and belt.

Lots of Flags for Decoration

You can't celebrate the "Twenty-fourth" properly without doing a bit of decorating. Wherefore, flags.

We have them in our Station-ery Section. A splendid variety, Silk Jacks and Canadian En-signs, from 75c to $1.50; and Bunting Flags, Jacks, Canadian Ensigns, Stars and Stripes, etc., all sizes, priced from $2.00 to $25.00.

Men's Madras Shirts a New Line at $2.50

At $4.95—Wash Skirts of White Fancy Cord, a striped fabric which has ga-bardine weave alternating with pique stripes. The model has the cleverest little vest girdle that fastens in front with two buttons.

At $8.50—Wash Skirts of White Co-bardine, one of the most attractive models we've seen, made with two box pleats in the back instead of gathers, the belt trimmed with em-broidered tab at the back, the inset pockets each supplied with embroidered

At $9.00—Wash Skirts of White Gabardine, a very beautiful model that buttons all the way down the front with big pearl buttons, the inset pockets having button-trimmed flaps.

The Most Exquisite New Silks for Dresses and Suits, the Prices $3.00 to $3.50 a Yard

Never has a new season dawned that has given greater promise of popularity for silks. And fortunately, the silk looms have risen to the emergency—the loveliest weaves that we've seen in years are ready for your choosing, these being particularly attractive:

New CHIFFON TAFFETAS, some lines showing exquisite striped and check combinations with Duchesse mousseline in the self color; others with pretty satin stripes and checks in a contrasting checks in black, and there are many other combinations as well. The width is 36 inches. The price per yard$3.00 to $6.00

The new "Cunard" blue shade is well represented in taffetas, Gros de Londres and failles, ideal suiting silks, widths 38" to 42". Prices$2.25 to $3.50 the unwary one, for, after edging its way into the hanging slit-like door, the edges of which turn inwards, the unwary one, having satiated itself with honey and loaded up all that can be conveniently carnied, finds egress rather more than difficult. Setting out the way she came in, is impossible for the poor bee; finally, her blind prowings discover a tiny passage at the top of the blossom, just barely wide enough to be squeezed thru. In getting out, the tight squeeze causes her to stumble against the poilen-bearing anthers of the flower and thus she carries away some of the poilen that is later deposited upon some other prant.

By such strange and blind methods does old Mother Nature carry on the work of cross-fertilization, without which many of our most cherished plants would die out.

The root of these plants is a fleshy thereous affair that is aumost red above, save that it is a smaller variety.

The slippers are of a lovely yellow, quaintly veined and often splotched with deeper hue that is almost red-brown.

Then we have that charming wee thing, the Snowy Orchis, usually the first orchids of the woods. From between the protection of the two dark green leaves, comes un a flower splike, and white, or sometimes deep blue, are three, four, and sometimes six, lovely orchid blossoms, pink and white, or sometimes deep blue, are three orchids are fairly common here in Ontario and fine specimens may be discovered about this city. is some cool moist spot, well sheltered from the severe rigors of winter. Close-set and hilly woods, low well-protected swamps and marshes and even th eshady moist underwoods of old bushes, may shelter an odd root or two. These plants do not spread in colonies, as do some of the other wild-flowers that we have studied.

Fortunate, indeed, is the wildflower lover who comes at last upon some one or other of the few specimens of wild orchids that are scattered here and there thru the woods and marshes. For they are by no means common, and it needs a keen eye, ever on the alert, and a nige remembrance of former haunts, before the blooming spots of the two lady's slippers are discovered. These wild orchids are peculiar in blossom structure, but the inflorescence formed is so beautiful, so quaint and so entirely out of the ordinary that the plants are readily recognized. Shaped like a blunt-toed and sloppy slipper, the flowers rise to a height of one or two feet above the ground, and diffuse a faint sweet fragrance that attracts the bees and other insects in great numbers.

Strange to say, however, the slipper, so easy of access, is quite a trap to HIGH IDEALS NEEDED
