KAISER'S TALK OF DIVINE RIGHTS TO THE THRONE SENSATION OF GERMANY

ALSO TOOK SLAM AT WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—The speech delivered last night by Emperor William at the provincial banquet at Koenigsburg, in which he raiterated and emphasized his belief in the divine mandate by which he rules, referred to the Prussian crown as bestowed by God's stace and not by parliaments or people's assemblies, and laid a lance against the present movement for woman suffrage, is the political sensation of the hour.

The leading organs of the German press devote extended comments to it, generally criticizing the emperor's utterances, and there are indications that the discourse will have a deep political effect upon the country near-

Polity and Law. Justice MacLaren of Toronto, the next speaker, had been chairman of the committee of polity, and said he had weighed very carefully the whole situation. He was satisfied they had drawn up the best scheme of polity possible, "but," said he, "I have come to the conclusion that it is not such a one as I can vote for, nor recommend anyone also to vote for." mend anyone else to vote for."

He pointed out that, as many church properties were deeded to local trus-tees, who might withhold from the union and afterwards make claim for their shares of the connexional prop-erties, such as the book room, there would be grave trouble. Would be grave trouble.

He was followed by N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronte, who had been chairman of the committee on law. He went into the matter in a masterly manner, and could see no cause for alarm from a legal standpoint. Beore the union could be consummated, there must be an act of parliament sanctioning it. Here was where the trouble in Scotland, which had been referred to, arose. They had not had an act of parliament to start with. He did not believe there was any appreciable number of churches not held under a model deed, and what corresponded to the model deed in the Presbyterian church. There was nothing to prevent a church not so deeded from coming into the union. not think they had any legal claim against any connexional property because of the local nature of their Lesson From Edinburgh. Mr. Rowell had recently attended the World's Missionary Congress at Edinburgh. The representatives from foreign lands all had said: "Your denominational speeches do not interest us, and if you do not permit us to unite, we will unite in spite of you." At this point Dr. Patten asked if it was organic union or interdenomin-ational comity they referred to. Mr. Rowell answered that it was comity, because that was the nearest approach to what they wanted, but their ideal was organic union. Mr. Rowell quoted in conclusion John Wesley's views of the value of the opinions and the necessity for cultivating a spirit of chardeeds.

Regarding the comparative merits of the conflicting policies of free trade and protection there can be and is endless discussion.

On the free trade side the argucents adduced are largely based on theory. Its supporters have, indeed, no concrete instance to offer of the success of that doctrine except the case of the United Kingdom-its one great exemplar. Yet there free trade cannot with absolute truth be described as without cause of challenge.

Nearly half a century has passed since it achieved its final triumph under the chancellorship of the late William Ewart Gladstone. For the greater part of that period it reigned supreme - was elevated indeed into a position resembling nothing so closely as the eleventh commandment of the decalogue.
