ZAM-BUK QUICKLY CURES

Chaps, Cold Sores and Rough Red Skin

It winds often make ladies' faces rough and blotchy. Apply a little Zam-Buk, and this will smooth the skin and cut the redness. It also takes away that coarse, red, rough look and "feel," which are so unpleasant. For more serious cases of chaps and cold sores apply Zam-Buk at night liberally.

Miss Hattie Bertrand, Galestow, says: "I am troubled every year with cracked, chapped hands and arms, and nothing ever seemed able to prevent this until I found Zam-Buk. It healed the chaps and cracked, and occasional swellings keep my hands and arms perfectly smooth."

Zam-Buk is not only a healer, but a skin food. Frequent use of it develops that soft, velvety skin which is so pleasant to see, and which is the expression of unique in containing no animal fat! For a balm this is peculiar, but just here lies her superiority. Made purely of the best herbs and natural juices, in a box. All drug stores or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Don't take any substitutes.

SCHOONER THROUGH A TERRIFIC TIME

With her hull almost completely covered with a heavy coating of ice, sails torn and deck badly shifted, giving the vessel a crippled appearance, the three-masted schooner Margaret May Riley, Captain Granville, was towed into port last night by the tug Neptune, Mildred and Lord Woleley. They had met her at the buoy trying to beat back to this port, which she left a day or two ago with a load of lumber shipped by Andre Cushing & Co. for New York. The big schooner was making good headway until Monday night's blow was met. Then with the thermometer falling rapidly and the spray flying from the huge combers, she began to ice up badly. Her mainmast was torn to ribbons and the deck tilted. Captain Granville decided to put back to St. John. All day yesterday the vessel worked her way up the coast and late in the afternoon fell in with the tug Neptune, which had another schooner, the Neptune took the Riley in tow. In the meantime news of the schooner's condition reached port, and G. S. Cushing ordered tug sent to her assistance. The Mildred and Lord Woleley started out and met the Neptune with her tow.

In the county court yesterday afternoon, before Judge Forbes, the case of Mary Rumbley, several witnesses were examined. E. S. Ritchie appeared for the defendant and C. H. Ferguson for the prosecution. His Honor suspended sentence and ordered the woman to be returned to her home in Nova Scotia.

Plans are now being made at Mr. Allison college for a notable musical event, the appearance of Corago, the baritone, and also for the opening of the Fawcett Memorial Hall, Rec. Dr. Borden principal of the college announces that the ladies' college is to soon receive $40,000 through the will of Maria Harri, of Halifax.

ed to Judith's developing slant with her slings. Not a few of the rabbits had abandoned their burrows to creep much farther down the gorge and dig anew.

Her slants and Ellen discovered this, and followed relentlessly. Judith became aware of another important fact. The rabbits that ran even out of the green boundaries and into the rock heaps below the oasis, where the two perpendicular walls formed a natural gap at its extremity, invariably backtracked and returned, as if unwilling to go far around or to remain for long away from cover.

The place, crudely finished but satisfactory, was found by Ghent on an early morning excursion down the gorge at the heads of a rabbit. The second morning he was followed by the rabbit, and he was surprised to find that the rabbit had followed him to the foot of the gorge, and he was surprised to find that the rabbit had followed him to the foot of the gorge.
