SUDDEN DEATH

OF W. TREMAINE GARD, JEWELER

The community was shocked this morning to learn of the sudden death of W. Tremaine Gard, which occurred at half past four o'clock this morning. He was in his usual health yesterday and worked until after ten o'clock last night.

He was taken suddenly ill during the night and passed away before medical aid could reach him.

Mr. Gard was born on June 12, 1843, in the old Diabrow house, the first brick house built in this city. He was a prominent jeweler and a well-known and respected citizen. He was a member of several societies including the Oddfellows, Knights of Pythias, St. George's Society, and Sons of England.

He was a noted singer, and had sung in the choir of Queen Square Methodist church, Portland Methodist church, St. Andrew's church and St. James' church.

Mr. Gard was married, two sons and one daughter. The sons are Louis Tremaine, who has been associated with his father in the jewelry business, and William A. Tremaine, who is also in the jewelry business.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence, 189 Princess street.

Mr. Gard had been in the jewelry business for fifty-one years, starting with his brother, Thomas D. Gard, in the early sixties in the Vernon building in German street. He was later with Page Brothers for two years, and then went to Boston and New York, where he perfected himself in his trade.

On his return to St. John he established himself in business as successor to John Rowe in German street. During the fire in 1877 he lost all his stock. He set up a temporary place in King street, and later moved to the present address.

He was known to the trade as a skillful goldsmith, was in his prime a noted athlete and gymnast. He was also an ardent musher and had much to do with the earlier mushing organizations of the city.

INVITE 11,000 TO CHURCH

Card Index of Neighborhood Used in "Follow-Up" System

Three thousand five hundred private homes, apartment and rooming houses were visited and 11,000 names were obtained by the Central Presbyterian church, in a house-to-house neighborhood canvass.

Never had such a thing been attempted by any denomination in this city. The success cannot be overestimated, according to members of the church.
