MADE IN ENGLAND.

Of all that Japan has borrowed—and all of her equipment of civilization is copied direct from some nation—nothing has served her better in this war than the naval training and inspiration she received from Great Britain. No arm of her service, war or civil, has served her better than her fleet and, as a writer in a recent issue of the Fortnightly Review points out, the efficiency of both ships and men is an echo of British efficiency.

Admiral Togo received his early professional training in England, and served afloat in British men-of-war. He won his victories with men-of-war constructed almost exclusively in British shipyards, and using as weapons of offense guns and torpedoes similar to those employed by the British fleets and squadrons. His chief of staff, Captain Shimamura, like many of his colleagues, served in the British fleet, and he had the good fortune to be one of Rear-Admiral Percy Scott's pupils in gunnery. Years ago, when Japan was adopting Western methods, she was the pupil in naval matters of Admiral Sir Archibald Douglas, now commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, and recently in command of the North Atlantic squadron at Halifax, who was director of the Imperial Naval College at Yeddo, and had around him a devoted band of British naval officers and men. In later years,—in fact, almost down to the opening of the war with China,—Rear-Admiral John Ingles was lent by the admiralty to the Japanese government as naval adviser. While the Japanese authorities were shaping their systems of training and administration or British models, orders were despatched to British shipbuilding yards for men-of-war, and in every respect the young navy was given the hall-mark "Made in Great Britain."

OMINOUS REPORTS.

News comes from the west that not only has no construction work been done on the G. T. P. through that country but a large number of the surveying engineers whose work is by no means completed have been called in and are loafing. The company's officials decline to give any explanation of this state of affairs but reliable reports has it that the G. T. P. is negotiating a deal with Mackenzie & Mann for the purchase of the Canadian Northern, a line which runs south of the C. P. R. from Lake Superior to Winnipeg and crossing the C. P. R. there cuts northward across the wheat-belt toward the Pacific coast. If the road can be secured the G. T. P. will utilize it instead of building a new line. Of course this means a new deal with the government but the promoters have good reason to know how easily that will be accomplished.

These increasing reports concerning radical changes in the construction plans cannot be wholly without foundation and, considering the result of changes which have already been made in connection with their enterprise, are disquieting. Every alteration which has been made in the original contract has been enormously for the benefit of the company and has cost the country much money. The same government which allowed those alterations is still in power.

Meanwhile the crisis which Sir Wilfrid two years ago prayed heaven it might not be too late to avert has not yet been averted, unless the planting of a few stakes and the blazing of a few trees by wandering gangs of surveyors could do it, and there is no word, either from the government or the company as to the date when the actual construction of the transcontinental will be begun. It would not be surprising if the G. T. P. would be the main issue in another election.

The spectacle of a woman, bestially intoxicated, being hauled through the city streets on an open sledge followed by crowds of children is not a pleasant nor edifying one. Yet it may be seen almost daily in St. John. Where is that patrol wagon? The need for it is far greater than was the need of increased pay for the aldermen and the cost would be far less.

It is necessary that the water works

construction should be pushed forward with energy. There is no time to be lost. But the authorities entrusted with the enterprise must consider carefully any step that may involve the city in new and uncertain obligations. This city has had some unpleasant experiences in connection with construction works, and any variations that are now made in existing contracts may carry with them surprisingly large liabilities. It is no less important that the mayor and aldermen should guard themselves against panic than it is that they should urge along the work in hand.—Sun.

WANDERER'S SONG.

There will be, when I come home, through the hill-gap in the west, The friendly smile of the sun on the fields that I love best; The red-topped clover here, and the white-whorled daisy there, And the bloom of the wilding briar that attars the upland air; There will be a bird-mirth sweet—(melodious none may know)— The flute of the wild woodthrush, the call of the vireo; Pleasant gossip of the leaves, and from the dawn to the gloom The lyric laughter of brooks there will be when I come home.

There will be, when I come home, the kindness of the earth— Ah, how I love it all, bounteous breadth and girth! The very sod will say—tendril, fibre and root— "Here is our foster-child, he of the wandering foot, "Welcome, welcome!" And, lo! I shall pause at a gate ajar That the leaning lilies shade, where the honeysuckles are; I shall see the open door—O far over the foam, The ease of this hunger of heart there will be when I come home! —Clifton Scollard, in Outlook.

RELIGION FOR SUBURBANITES.

"As Methodists," Dr. Stephenson said, "we are evangelists in our tendencies. It is no trouble for us to go to church, and speak and preach." But he went to show that their weakness was that they did not study the Bible and assimilate and digest it enough. Hence the value of these summer schools.

Dr. Stephenson told of the splendid work being done by a number of the Epworth Leagues. The Toronto Epworth League last year had given $5,000 to missions.

Regarding the summer schools, Dr. Stephenson showed that their success depended on the intensity and magnitude of the work done more than in the numbers attending. The study of the Bible was the most important part of the work. Another subject for the summer school was "How best can we get at the multitudes?" He showed what sort of men were best qualified to work in the summer schools. Great intellectual qualities were not necessary but it needed men who could get a number of the students on a right down on a level with their pupils. As to the places of opening summer schools he suggested following up the people who left the city to spend the summer, and opening schools at the summer resorts. He pointed out several points in Ontario along the great lakes where very successful schools are now going on. They were being opened in school-houses, dancing halls and such places as could be obtained for the purpose.

Asked by Dr. Henderson how they managed to finance these schools, Dr. Stephenson explained different ways in which expenses were kept down. In one school of 50 or 60 students the expenses for the week only amounted to 50 cents each. They always endeavored to get a number of the students on a right down on a level with their pupils. As to the places of opening summer schools he suggested following up the people who left the city to spend the summer, and opening schools at the summer resorts. He pointed out several points in Ontario along the great lakes where very successful schools are now going on. They were being opened in school-houses, dancing halls and such places as could be obtained for the purpose.

Rev. E. C. Hennigar, B. D., then gave an address on young New Brunswickers. We had a great force of young people, he said, at the present day working for the cause of God. This continent there were 5,000,000 young people organized into Epworth Leagues, Baptist Young People, etc. He thought if this immense amount of work could be accomplished. If we could get the Epworth League to work a missionary policy we could almost evangelize the world in a few years. He pointed out that our Epworth League here in New Brunswick had only given 15 cents per head last year for the cause of missions. He showed that there had been a general falling off in the Epworth League in New Brunswick up till the present year. He was pleased to say that this falling off had been arrested. He had got a number of the leagues now working on a missionary basis with good results.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock, Dr. Scott of the University of New Brunswick read a paper on Home Missions, after which a free for all discussion took place on the question of Home Missions. In the evening, there will be a number of interesting addresses given.

MAKING A PREDICTION.

(From the Washington Star.)

"Do you think that our country will ever succeed in getting rid of grafters?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "There will be a time when grafters are unheard of. But it will be due to the change that is constantly going on in our vocabulary. There will be a new word that means the same thing."

Hair Vigor.

LOCAL NEWS.

The rate of stampage on the New Brunswick Railway Company's land will not be changed this year. This was decided at the annual meeting of the company held yesterday afternoon.

The following strangers here in connection with the "School of Missions" will occupy the pulpits as follows:

Rev. Jas. Henderson, D. D., will preach in Queen Square at 11 a. m., and in Portland at 7 p. m. Rev. A. Carman, D. D., will preach in Centenary at 11 a. m., and in Exmouth Street at 7 p. m. Rev. Principal Riddell, M. A., will preach in Carmarthen Street at 11 a. m., and in Fairville at 7 p. m. Dr. Stephenson will preach in Zion at 11 a. m., and in Carleton at 7 p. m. Rev. G. M. Young will preach in Queen Square at 7 p. m.

W. B. Farnham, who has been in the public service for thirty years, and has been deputy minister of trade and commerce for the past twelve years, is to be superannuated in the near future.

Frank O'Hara, a nephew of Sir Richard Cartwright, will succeed him.

Thomas Haffernon of the customs has been promoted to J. J. Mullin's place as tide waiter, with an increase of $50 in his salary, and Arthur Macgough has been appointed messenger in his place.

The statement in Monday's News that John Murry of St. John jumped from the third story of the Arnscoot House was an error. It was the Riverside House which M. Murry honored with his patronage—Bangor News.

H. B. Ames, M. P. of Montreal, returned to the city last evening and will leave today for Portland, Maine, to meet his mother. Mr. Ames said last night that his trip through the province had been one of value. Mr. Ames said he wished a lot of other representatives who could afford the time might be induced to have a look at the east and vice versa. Mr. Ames said the greatest plan he would like the Dominion government to extend an invitation to the British parliament to come and make a tour of the country.

Dr. Barr, M. P. for Dufferin, Ont., and Mrs. Barr, Dr. and Mrs. Digby of Brantford, and a number of other guests were entertained to a sail up river on the yacht Dream yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. Barr will go to Digby this morning, and will later take a trip through Northern Ontario.

ALL IT NEEDED.

There is more real oxygen in a liquid than in the "Solution of Ozone" (the coupon kind) than in any other preparation of a similar nature. As a prompt cure in the killing of all inside poisons of throat, lungs, stomach or bowels it has no equal when coupled with "Celery King," the famous laxative. That the stringent Ozone needs a tonic of this nature to procure the best results was so apparent that the Public Drug Co., of Bridgeburg, Ont., offer through your druggist a free package of "Celery King" with every fifty cent or one dollar bottle of "Solution of Ozone" (the coupon kind).

ALLEGED SURVIVOR OF WATER-LOO.

John Vaughan, who, it is asserted by a correspondent of the "Standard," was present at the battle of Waterloo as a bugler, is now living in comparative poverty in Wales. He is 84 years old, and ekes out a living by hawking boot-laces from door to door. In spite of the man's handicaps he has gone through both as a soldier and a civilian, he still retains his faculties. Vaughan, who was also through the Crimea and the Boer war, has been a life-long abstainer.
