France and America Not Wholly Agreed

DIFFER ON IMPORTANT POINTS

PARIS, April 3.—President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando continued their discussion at President Wilson's residence to-day. Other peace conference organizations also met. All the conferences tended to unravel the tangled issues still standing in the way of peace. The meetings proceeded amid another through the conference over lack of tangible results after the council of four had labored continuously for ten days. This was accompanied by well-founded reports from those close in touch with the council of four showing that the situation, while not desperate, was at least serious because of radical differences on some fundamentals in the settlement of Germany's western, the Franco-German and the eastern Polish frontiers.

One of the American experts gives the following glimpse of what is going on behind the scenes:

"The situation is extremely difficult, particularly as regards the western frontier of Germany. President Wilson in a conciliatory spirit, has been willing to do most anything to assure French security short of mutilation of engagements made at the time of the armistice.

"The French have been assured of every military protection across the Rhine, even to the extent of considering that any military activity in that section shall be looked upon as a hostile act. But this is not considered enough and additional claims lead to the conviction that they are open to construction as meaning something more than military security and verging on territorial control.

"The president is not willing to go that far in creating more Alsace-Lorraine situations, and it is this stand against these claims which is causing the delays until some middle ground is found."

Concerning reparations, it was added that there were good prospects for an early agreement. This will not

MUSIC LOVERS HAD RARE TREAT

Re-Creation Demonstration a Revelation.

The music lovers of Kitchener who availed themselves of the invitation to attend the concert by Mr. Glen Ellison and Miss Pauline Lawrence at the Star Theatre last evening will never forget the experience.

From the moment when Mr. Ellison announced that he would sing in unison with a RE-CREATION of his own voice on the New Edison which stood upon the platform, we were skeptical. To attempt to match that lovely voice with a sound produced mechanically by a thing of steel and wood! It was preposterous.

When the first notes of the song came to the ears one was waiting breathlessly. And one continued breathless throughout the evening. At first Mr. Ellison's voice and the voice from the mahogany cabinet beside him came to us indistinguishably blended—the two voices so completely one that no ear could detect their duality. Suddenly we realized that Mr. Ellison's lips had ceased to move, though his voice went gloriously on. He sang again and again stopped only by watching his lips could we tell whether his voice came to us from his throat, or from the magic box at his side. It was his voice in both cases—there was no question of that from the start. No mere echo or "record" could make us doubt the evidence of our own eyes. His voice was there, whether he sang or was silent. Equal in tone, in clearness and in beauty, it filled the room, literally RE-CREATED by some magic power for our bewilderment.

After the cessation of the applause which he took with his arm thrown affectionately across the cover of his mahogany cabinet, Miss Lawrence stepped forward to the Helntzman & Co. piano to play a duet with herself—the other half of the duet being a RE-CREATION of the New Edison. The notes from the cabinet matched those of the piano as perfectly as they had those of Mr. Ellison's singing. Here again the instrument continued when the artist ceased and we hear no difference in tone. This piano selection was especially marvelous to those who are familiar with "talking machine" records of piano music, also an orchestral number in which the tones of the various instruments—strings, woodwind and brass—lost none of their individuality. Other vocal numbers were RE-CREATED with equal fidelity. Interspersed among these rare musical treats were delightful selections by Mr. Ellison and Miss Lawrence always accompanied by their identical performances upon the New Edison. And each time one witnessed the miracle the wonder grew—wonder at the wizard mind that could, with a man-made instrument, rival nature's production of music.

Features worthy of note which were deeply appreciated were a number of solo encores and three recitations. It should be added that the photograph used is owned by Mrs. Hartman Krug, who has been the possessor for four years, and who kindly donated it for the occasion.

Re-creation one has never believed in it before perhaps, it may have been considered merely a trade-mark—catch word. But for those who attended the tone-test, Re-creation is no longer a word—it is a reality. A wonderful new art presented to the world by the greatest of living inventors—Thomas A. Edison.

The recital was arranged by Mr. D. S. Cullen.

Ottawa Is Seeking Broad Tax Powers

GRADED SYSTEM OF REDUCTION ON BUILDINGS AUTHORIZED

TORONTO, April 3.—The Ontario Legislature gives promise of becoming radical. For years past various municipalities in the province have been making ineffectual efforts to secure them to assess buildings at a lower rate than land, but this morning the private bills committee upset all expectations by giving the City of Ottawa carte blanche to put land taxation alone into effect by a graded system of reductions on buildings. The city asked the right to drop 25 per cent. off buildings each year providing the ratepayers of the city so voted. At the outset there was a good deal of opposition, but several Conservative members with the habit of thinking for themselves came out flatly in favor of letting Ottawa try the experiment. If it failed then the province, which was interested would have something to go by. If it proved a success, then the members of the Legislature would have to recognize the fact and act accordingly. The section was carried unanimously, subject to a provision, that if the people were dissatisfied after a trial of two years or more, they might vote to go back to taxation of improvement.

TRAVELING SALESMAN Tells How He Regained Strength, Ambition and Vim.

Atlan ia, Iowa.—"I am a traveling salesman and was run-down, worn out, no appetite and no ambition my druggist told me Vinol was what I needed and within a few days after taking it I commenced to gain and it built up my health and strength so every spring and fall I take it to build me up and it keeps me in splendid condition."—W. The reason we guarantee Vinol is because it is a constitutional remedy containing beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates the most successful tonics known.

Only EDISON makes this TEST

Only Edison proves that his phonograph is reproduction-perfect by comparing his RE-CREATIONS with the original voice. Last Thursday night he sent Glen Ellison, noted baritone to Kitchener to make one of his famous tone tests, in which was subjected to the severest test possible for a sound-reproducing instrument. A RE-CREATION of Glen Ellison's voice was placed in position on the New Edison. Presently Mr. Ellison's rich baritone came forth from the instrument. Seeing his lips move, the audience became aware that Glen Ellison also was singing. Though the voice came from two sources but one voice was heard, proving that the New Edison's RE-CREATION of a voice does not vary in the slightest degree from the actual voice itself.

Did you notice the expressions of astonishment on the faces of the audience when they discovered that they could not distinguish Glen Ellison's voice from the New Edison's RE-CREATION of it? They were truly astounded that any sound-reproducing instrument could so completely baffle their musically cultured ears.

Perhaps you were not fortunate enough to be present. However, you may hear the New Edison any time at our store or in your own home. We will consider it a privilege to serve you.

HUNGARY AND THE HUNGARIANS

The area of Hungary is about equal to that of the State of New Mexico. Hungary is unusually rich in its mineral deposits. Its mines contain almost inexhaustible quantities of gold, silver, lead, copper, iron, coal and rock salt.

Hungary, like Austria, is inhabited by several distinct races, but since the ninth century, when the Magyars invaded the region from Asia and conquered it, they have controlled the government.

Self-government through parliament in Hungary is of ancient origin, being founded upon a charter called the Golden Bull, which dates back to 1222, and is thus almost contemporary with the Magna Charta of England.

Budapest, the capital city of Hungary, consists of the sister towns of Buda and Pest. Lying on either side of the Danube, just at that point where it definitely sets south, Pest spreads itself out over the flat lands plain on the left bank, while Buda occupies a series of small and steep hills on the right bank.

The central regions of Hungary are watered by the Danube and Theiss rivers, and from their valleys vast plains stretch away to the mountains in the north and east, furnishing an area particularly adapted to agriculture. The region is one of the best wheat-growing districts of Europe. Tobacco, flax, hemp and culinary vegetables grow in great quantity; choice fruits are produced in every part; its vineyards yield the most delicious grapes in so rich an abundance as to supply a larger amount of export wine than in any other portion of Europe.

The great national hero of Hungary was Louis Kossuth, whose memory is revered by Hungarians as that of Washington is revered by the people of the United States. Kossuth visited America in 1851, and it is a matter of history that no foreigner save Lafayette ever received at the hands of the American people such marks of esteem as were bestowed on the Hungarian exile.
