

We applaud the spirit of the address, that while each nation shall act like a gentleman, all Councils of the World should be controlled by the gentlemanlike nations. In this way, we can strike a newer, truer, deeper note of human brotherhood, which like Memnon's own statue, bursting into music with every rising sun, will proclaim a new era of peace, good will and of justice scrupulously exact.

I have the honor to present the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That the American Bar Association, appreciating the gracious spirit of the message of the King, joins most cordially in the hope that this occasion will serve not only to illustrate the esteem and good will of the United States, of Canada, of the United Kingdom and of France for each other, but to strengthen the ties which bind us to a common duty in advancing the best interests of mankind.

"Resolved, That the special thanks of the American Bar Association be tendered to the Rt. Honorable Richard Burdon Haldane, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, for his philosophical and inspiring address; and that we recognize with appreciation the distinguished service he has rendered in promoting an international comity of professional good fellowship."

The resolutions were generally seconded and adopted by a rising vote.

Lucien Hugh Alexander, of Pennsylvania:

On behalf of the Membership Committee, it is my privilege to announce that the Executive Committee, acting under and by virtue of the authority conferred upon it by the constitution and by-laws, has elected as an honorary member of the American Bar Association, the Right Honorable Viscount Haldane of Cloan, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain.

We have, my Lord Chancellor—your nation and ours—a joint birthright, a common heritage of blood, law, traditions, history, extending back through time immemorial. May we have, sir, a common future, as I believe we shall, as I believe we must, through the triumphs, the struggles and stresses of the oncoming centuries. And so, it is with very real pleasure that, on behalf of my brethren of the American Bar, I express to you our
