Why Stars Twinkle.

The twinkling of the stars is chiefly an effect produced in our atmosphere upon the waves of light. It is due to currents and strata of air of different densities intermingling and floating past each other, through which the light passes to the eye.

It is seen much more in warm weather, and near the horizon more than overhead. The same effect may be seen by looking out of a window over a hot radiator, or at a candle held on the other side of a hot stove, so that one must look through a body of high-heated air at the candle flame. The flame will be seen to waver and quiver. The various layers of air are at different densities, and in motion. Rapid twinkling of the stars is a sign of a change of weather.

Our present industrial organization is responsible for selfishness, suspicion, and hatred, and consequently inefficiency, with its resultant sequel of poverty and discontent.—Earl Grey.

A man and his wife were once staying at a hotel, when in the night they were aroused by the cry that the hotel was afire.

"Now, my dear," said the husband, "I will put into practice what I have preached. Put on all your indispensable apparel, and keep cool."

Then he slipped his watch into his vest pocket and walked with his wife out of the hotel. When the danger was past, he said, "Now, you see how necessary it was to keep cool."

The wife for the first time glanced at her husband.

"Yes, William," she said, "it is a grand thing, but if I were you, I would have put on my trousers."

The Washington Star reports the following conversation between two political lights: "Let me write the songs of a nation," said the ready-made philosopher, "and I care not who makes the laws."

"I won't go so far as that," replied Senator Sorghum; "but let me write the amendments, and I care not who draws up the Bills."
