

Woman's Part.

Who gave us Christ, God's only Son?
Who cradled Him, the Holy One?
Who nursed Him on her virgin breast
And through His childhood loved Him best?
A woman.
Who blessed Him for His great career
And followed Him in anxious fear?
A woman.
Who sought Him with a candid heart
And formed His hearers' greater part?
The woman.
Who welcomed Him at Bethany
And served His wants in Galilee?
The eager woman.
Who walked with him the bloody road
And lovingest compassion showed?
Jerusalem's good women.
Who soothed Him with word and tear
And wiped his face so mild and dear?
A gentle woman.
Who stood beneath the Savior's cross?
One man, two women.
Who watched His grave and mourned His loss?
God's angels and a woman.
Who first proclaimed Christ's victory?
Three holy women.
Who showed unwavering loyalty?
The faithful woman.
Who first pledged life and love for Christ
And first all earthly gain despised?
The woman.
Who has throughout the centuries
Served all in love's sweet ministries?
The woman.
Who lovingly still guards the shrine
Where captive dwells the Love Divine?
The woman.
To whom, then, is more honor due
Than womanhood devout and true?

—F. M. Lynk.

The Best Policy

Miss Caxton came up to the shallow steps that led to the open door of the old, red-brick house with its climbing roses peeping in at the many windows, with an appearance not in keeping with the popular conception of a girl, dowered with health and beauty, whose engagement to a satisfactory young man was only twenty-four hours old.

She laid her hat and gardening gloves on a table in the paneled hall, and passed into a small cheerful room, where the lady who had been her governess sat placidly waiting her coming. Miss Wilton laid down her knitting, and, after a quick glance at Barbara Caxton's sombre countenance, took her place at the table where luncheon was already laid.

"I have made good progress with my socks," Miss Wilton remarked. "I have reached the heel of the second one."

Barbara smiled absently. "Johnnie Bell will be glad to get them," she said, and relapsed into thought.

When the meal was ended Barbara said:

"Do you mind listening to me, Miss Wilton, for a little while?"

"Not at all," Miss Wilton gathered up her needles and wool and moved to a chair by the open window. "Take a comfortable chair, Barbara, my dear."

"Isn't it funny how a thought suddenly springs at you? And funnier still how you wish it hadn't?" Barbara began.

"I'm certain no ill thought would remain long in your mind my dear. Is it the unwanted thought that is troubling you?"

"Yes, I suppose so. Something old James said about honesty being the best policy set my mind active."

"Well, the gardener is right. Honesty is always good policy," Miss Wilton spoke briskly. "But I don't see how that might annoy you."

"Oh, I'm not dishonest—so far. I very easily might be."

The former governess looked perplexed.

Aching Joints

In the fingers, toes, arms, and other parts of the body, are joints that are inflamed and swollen by rheumatism—that acid condition of the blood which affects the muscles also.

Sufferers dread to move, especially after sitting or lying long, and their condition is commonly worse in wet weather.

"I suffered dreadfully from rheumatism but have been completely cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, for which I am deeply grateful," Miss Frances Sams, Prescott, Ont.

"I had an attack of the grip which left me weak and helpless and suffering from rheumatism. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and this medicine has entirely cured me. I have no hesitation in saying it saved my life." M. J. McDermott, Toronto, Ont.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Removes the cause of rheumatism—no outward application can. Take it.

"I'll tell you," Barbara said. "I have had a very sheltered, happy life under poor Grannie and you; and when John Osborne asked me to be his wife yesterday I thought I was the very happiest girl in the world."

Barbara's clear brown cheeks flushed, and tears shadowed her brown eyes. She waited to gain the mastery of her voice ere she spoke again:

"Miss Wilton, Grannie, dear Grannie, was not my grandmother."

"Not your grandmother! Miss Wilton's knitting fell unregarded to the floor."

"No. She told me so before her death."

"She was ill—delirious often. She would imagine strange things," Miss Wilton urged. "The dying often do."

"No. She told me some weeks before her illness. Though she was quite well, she seemed to have a premonition of her approaching death. Her son and his wife both died of consumption at an Italian village near Naples, to which they had gone for health."

Her son was the first to die, and Grannie—she was there—was feverishly anxious that her daughter-in-law and her baby girl should live. The child was delicate and died suddenly, but young Mrs. Caxton was kept in ignorance of her loss.

"Well?" Miss Wilton interrogated, as Barbara paused.

"There was a widowed lady living in a cottage near. Her husband had died in prison for appropriating large sums of money entrusted to him—he was a solicitor. The lady had an opportunity of marrying again, but the gentleman seeking her for a wife objected strongly to the child of the lawyer. Grannie took the child, and Mrs. Caxton died believing that I was her own daughter."

"Oh, your grandmother was wrong, very wrong to—"

"She did no actual wrong. Her son on his deathbed left this estate firstly to his daughter. He knew his poor young wife was doomed. Should the child die, the property was to become the absolute possession of his mother to dispose of as she pleased. He made adequate provision for other relations out of his money. He was very wealthy."

"But why did your grandmother keep up the deception after the death of her daughter-in-law?" Miss Wilton asked wildly.

"I don't know. She said she had become fond of me."

"I can't altogether wonder. You were an engaging child when I first saw you."

Barbara smiled faintly. "You were easily imposed on."

"What are you going to do?"

"Tell John and John's father."

"Oh! Not Mr. Osborne! He has queer fancies."

"John, I am certain, won't care whose daughter I am," Barbara said proudly. "nor how rich or poor I may be. But I couldn't make trouble between Mr. Osborne and his last and youngest son. He has had his share of sorrows."

"Yes, yes; his two brave boys shot in France in the same week! But they were good young men, and the Chaplain, Father Reilly, wrote to say they had both been to Confession and Holy Communion a day or two before they died."

"Yes, I suppose so. Something old James said about honesty being the best policy set my mind active."

"Well, the gardener is right. Honesty is always good policy," Miss Wilton spoke briskly. "But I don't see how that might annoy you."

"Oh, I'm not dishonest—so far. I very easily might be."

"CHOLERA INFANTUM"

THE SUMMER COMPLAINT OF INFANTS.

The trouble occurs mostly during the hot seasons, and is confined to infants between the ages of from four to twenty months, and generally happens about the time of the cutting of the first teeth.

Mothers should look well after their children at this stage and not experiment with any new and untried remedies, but procure one having stood the test of many years usage in thousands of families.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for 76 years and is acknowledged by all who have used it to be the very best remedy for Cholera Infantum, Diarrhoea, Colic, Dysentery and all Bowel Complaints whether in children or adults.

Mrs. S. R. Aloor, 2 Black St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—"My little girl was very bad with summer complaint caused from change of milk, and was also teething at the same time. I tried several remedies, but with no results until I was advised to try 'Dr. Fowler's.' I did so, and by the time one bottle was taken she was as well as ever. I cannot too highly recommend it for both children and adults."

Price, 50c. a bottle; put up only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Though Miss Wilton was genuinely sorry for Mr. Osborne, her chief concern was for Barbara.

"I shouldn't tell Mr. Osborne immediately, Barbara," she went on. "John is different. And perhaps Father Joselyn could give you—"

"No. I know what I ought to do, and I shall do it at once. I might be tempted to concealment after all."

"And Miss Burnham doesn't like you," Miss Wilton remarked, irrelevantly. "She can't contemplate losing her position in Osborne Hall. And she is, only a very distant cousin of the late Mrs. Osborne."

"Oh, well, what matter. Dislikes don't hurt much. Besides, I am not over-fond of Miss Burnham; she seems to be of a prying or inquisitive disposition. She can't help that, I suppose. Now, Miss Wilton, I am going to cycle over to Osborne Hall. Mr. Osborne is never from home, and John told me he had a lot of business affairs to tackle. I want to see them both."

"God bless you and direct you!" Miss Wilton prayed as she bent for her knitting.

What is it that throws sunshine into the habitations of the wretched? Your charity relieves but your civility revives them. The kindness of charity may hurt or may mortify its object; but the kindness of civility has no alloy. I maintain that the exercise of this virtue is more conducive to the happiness of society than the most liberal and expensive charities.

PALPITATION OF THE HEART SINKING SENSATIONS.

Palpitation of the heart is very often accompanied by sinking sensations and weak, faint and dizzy spells, and before you can rid yourself of the trouble it is of considerable importance that the heart should be strengthened and brought back to its regular beat.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS are just the remedy you require to do this.

Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes:—"I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exertion, such as going up stairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip hammer and at times I was dizzy headed and had a sinking sensation as if my time was near. A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now, although in my 60th year I feel like a young girl; no dizziness or heart thumping, and can walk miles without fatigue. At time of sickness I weighed 120 lbs., now I weigh 150."

January Carnival of Economy

FOR OUR

The old year took away, for ever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy.

The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store.

2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things.

Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Man agement and

THE MOST STIRRING JANUARY PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN.]

No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.
