It is announced by Premier Sifton that the government will have an ample and well defined policy of northern railway construction to present to the House when it meets. The Je tails of the policy will not be divulged till then, but the general scheme is to provide for the opening up by railroads, to the fullest extent possible at the present time, of the resources of the undeveloped north country. Northern development is one of the principal subjects which will be brought forward for consideration by the government at the approaching session of the legislative assembly. And there is no doubt but that the hinterland of Edmonton will receive its due.
