On Another Tack.

With that childlike and bland simplicity which usually distinguishes all its arguments, the tortuous Advocate weaves another web of deceit in replying to the arguments of the Telegram touching the removal of the infamous Fish Regulations in 1921. Finding itself getting in difficulties on a discursive lee shore, it puts about and goes off on another tack. At the beginning it blamed this paper and the News for compelling the lifting and abrogation of the regulations. Now it places the responsibility on the shoulders of the exporters, and claims that it was at their behest that the Government—not Mr. Coaker this time, mind you—who ordered the repeal. And for this reason "they would have been termed autocrats, set out determined to defy the whole business interests of the country" if they had not done so. Was there nothing autocratic or Czarlike in their imposition in 1919, when without warrant or authority of the Legislature, Mr. Coaker insisted on their becoming operative? Was there nothing autocratic or despotic in the prohibition of new fish clearing from the South West Coast in June, July and August, 1920? Who at that time set himself up in defiance of the whole outside export trade of the colony? Was it not Mr. Coaker, the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and at the same time General Manager of the Union Trading and Export Company? His prohibitory instructions to Sub-Collectors in outports not to grant customs clearances to fish cargoes for export to any market, without a permit from his department, was the initial step toward the commercial ruin of the South West Coast. Can either he or the Advocate deny it?

The decision to regulate sales and prices for Newfoundland fish abroad might bear fruit, providing this colony held the monopoly of all markets. But can it be done in competition with other fish producing countries, which are not strangled in their operations by regulations? When the war was on, price regulation could have been effected. When peace was declared it was out of the question, and only a political idiot could have attempted it. Yet it was done, and the result is all but irreparable. The Fish Regulations compelled the South West Coast exporters to tread a rotten financial highway. All that has happened in that section since is the direct consequence of their baneful influence on trade. Who knows this better than the men who stared ruin in the face? Some met it; others only by indomitable perseverance pulled past it. And conditions as they are to-day can be traced in a straight line to the damnable regulations imposed at the instance and with the authority of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. He has been the bete noir of the South West Coast. As such he is known, as such he will be remembered and tagged. The Regulations were removed at the request of the exporters, according to the authority of the organ on Monday. A few days before that it was the Telegram and News that killed them. Who will it be next? Probably the Prime Minister. Let us examine. The principal exporters at that time were those known as the Big Six, with Hawes & Co. as European agents. There was an idea behind the regulations that would have done credit to the brain of a Machiavelli. When, however, it did not work to the satisfaction of all concerned, there was an outcry against them. But that would not have turned the trick. Had Mr. Coaker not quarrelled with Mr. Hawes it is just possible that the Regulations would not have been rescinded, and would have remained in full force and effect until this day. Therefore if the fishermen lost five million dollars on their catch in 1921, the man to blame is Mr. Coaker, who removed the regulations, not at the instance of the exporters, not because the Telegram and News fought them to a finish, but because there was a rift within the agreement lute. Think it over fishermen of the West and South and North. Regarding that other splendid (?) agreement negotiated by the man of multiplex talents for the sale of Newfoundland fish in European markets in 1921, why did that fall through? Was the promised rate of commission the stumbling block, the Ring did not care to surmount? To quote the immortal bard, slightly changed, "There are more things in heaven and earth, William, Than are dreamed of in your philosophy."

Spencer College Re-Opens.

PRIZE DISTRIBUTION YESTERDAY. Yesterday on the re-opening of Bishop Spencer College, the annual distribution of prizes took place. The prize books, which have been specially imported, but an unavoidable delay in their arrival prevented their distribution when the College closed at Christmas. Amongst those present at the re-opening were Rev. Canon Bolt, M.A., Chairman of the Directorate Spencer College Committee, Secretary, G. R. Williams; Messrs. E. A. Bowring, Leonard Outerbridge, and Revs. Jacob Brinton and H. Leslie Pike. Bishop Spencer College has 260 pupils on its roll and Miss Cherrington the principal, has some new plans for the advancement of her pupils during the coming year.

Rosalind in Port.

HAD STORMY PASSAGE. S.S. Rosalind, Capt. W. L. James, arrived from Halifax at 5 p.m. yesterday after a very stormy passage. Yesterday the ship encountered a head sea, which delayed her arrival somewhat. The Rosalind brought a full freight and the following passengers:—H. Payne, Miss Ida Simmonds, Miss Rhoda Nickalls, Jno. Keough, Fred Herman, Miss Besse Grimmer, Ernest Dickson and 15 second class. The Rosalind is expected to sail for Halifax and New York on Friday evening.

The T. A. & B. S. Ladies' Auxiliary will hold a Card Party and Dance on next Tuesday night, January 16th, in the T. A. Hall. Tickets 50c., teas included. Bennett's Orchestra in attendance. Jan 10, 11, w, th, f, m, tu

Hockey Notes.

The Guards and St. Bon's teams showed up well in their practices at the rink last night, and the supporters of the respective clubs feel confident that the game will be a thriller when they clash for the honors on next Monday night. Alex Collins, son of Wm. Collins will very likely fill the gap of "Coke" Cahill on the St. Bon's team. "Alex" is a comer, and is showing up to advantage amongst the seniors. The Felldians and Terra Novas will take the loss this evening if the surface is in fit condition to play on. Another visit from Jack Frost would be appreciated.

Card Party and Dance.

EVENT AT HOYLESTOWN TONIGHT. The committee of St. Joseph's Parish, Hoylestown, have made great preparations for the card party and dance which takes place in the Parish Hall to-night. The songophones and Bennett's orchestra will furnish music and an enjoyable night is promised those who attend. The Ladies' Committee are ready with excellent teas to cater to the large gathering expected.

Week of Prayer.

A TOUCHING AND HEART SEARCHING SERVICE AT GEORGE STREET CHURCH. I. G. M.

From the first note of praise until the final Amen of last night's service the impressions of the hour were such as make men feel that they want to do better. The people were present in goodly numbers, and the pastor of the church, Rev. Mr. Fairbairn, had choice selections of songs, and the choir rendered an anthem, and the people caught the inspiration of the moment, and bowing in silent prayer, they felt that in spite of all the doubts of the age, and all the theories of men there is, after all, something in Religion. The subject of the evening thought for prayer and exposition was that of the Home; and to the Rev. Hammond Johnson, of Gower Street Church, fell the privilege of dealing with it. Mr. Johnson at once got the interest of the congregation and in words choice and touching he portrayed the scenes of home life, and made an eloquent plea for its protection and sanctity. The home was the first institution of the human family. Even before the days of citizenship, or before the days of Christianity, man practiced something of the home life; or rather they indulged in rites and implied the thought, and fore-shadowed the principles of the freemasonry and family life. Mankind, early learned the use of fire; and sitting around it, or maybe standing around it, they saw in the twinkling and ascending smoke the possibility of worship, and felt the desire of looking to that higher power which all men feel within themselves really exists. The hearthstone was the centre of home life. There the average home began. It may not be a castle, but it could be a home. There had begun the united career of two hearts that by the sanctity of marriage had become one. There came that most mysterious of all seals to the union of loving hearts—the seal of the family. Home is a lovely word; but mother is still more so. At the bedside sat and played the children. There bowed the family in prayer; and there with the mother's knee for an altar, and with her love as their heaven, the children had first learned that name which is above all names; and to repeat the prayer of all prayers, by saying "Our Father Who Art in Heaven."

The home life is the best and safest of society. If its interests are safeguarded there will not be any need of, nor room for, the divorce court. The best poetry was devoted, or rather dedicated, to the home. Such a song as "Home Sweet Home"; and such a composition as "The Cotter's Saturday Night" had immortalized these gems of poetic genius. The Anglo-Saxon race owed its greatness to the fact that the home had been ever the centre of interest, and the spot to which the individual heart turned and for which it longed. Therefore the home being of such importance, the church deemed it worthy of the prayer of the people, and for this purpose the second meeting of the Week of Prayer was considering the subject. Last night's meeting was helpful in every way; and it is certain that the services to be held will be helpful also. Tonight at St. Andrew's Church, the speaker will be Rev. J. G. Joyce, and his subject, "The Church."

Old Collegians.

MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR RE-UNION. The annual gathering of Old Collegians will be held next Tuesday night, 16th inst., in the College Hall. An excellent programme has been arranged for the occasion and included in the numbers will be solos, duets, etc., contributed by Old Collegians, while lantern slides, showing old boys, old groups, etc., will feature the entertainment. The pupils at the College are at present rehearsing the operetta "Lavender Town." The above programme of events will round out an excellent evening entertainment, and it is a fore-gone conclusion that a large number of Old Collegians will be in attendance. Any ex-pupils who have suitable photographs which could be shown at the gathering are asked to forward same to secretary Wm. White at his office 269 Duckworth Street.

Shipping.

S.S. Sachem is due to leave Liverpool to-day for this port. S.S. Sable I. leaves Halifax to-day for here with a full general cargo. S.S. Blydenryk has arrived at Halifax and S.S. Mercator at Sydney. Both ships wireless here for fuel supplies on their passage from the other side. S. S. Seal sails this evening for ports in Bonavista Bay. During yesterday evening truckmen were busy hauling freight to the ship. Boy's good quality Hockey Boots, sizes 10, 11, 12 and 13, are selling at BISHOPS for three dollars and forty cents a pair this week.

The Labrador Boundary

SIR PATRICK MCGRATH INTERVIEWED.

Sir Patrick McGrath, who has been abroad since last summer in connection with Labrador Boundary matters, returned home yesterday by express looking well after his sojourn abroad. Interviewed by the Telegram Sir Patrick said that since leaving here he has spent most of his time in London, has visited New York, Washington and Ottawa twice, gathering additional documentary material and maps. During the three months that he was in London he was engaged steadily, and only on one occasion, and that early in his visit, did he get an opportunity to spend a week end out of the city, when he visited Brighton, one of the principal English watering places; but much to Sir Patrick's regret he never had sufficient time at his disposal to visit France.

Sir Patrick worked at the High Commissioner's Office, at the Record Office, The Hudson Bay Company's Office, and the British Museum, collecting material, and he has brought back quite an array of evidence as a result of his labours. The Canadians have quite a corps of people doing the same work. Mr. Wm. Smith, Deputy Archivist, who some eighteen months ago visited here in connection with the case, for the purpose of collecting papers, etc., has spent some months in London and had several helpers. Mr. H. P. Biggar, who has charge of the Canadian Archives work in London and Paris, was also engaged, and has recently come to Ottawa to give the benefit of his knowledge on the matter. Dr. Donahy, the Archivist, is going to England this week for several months and to continue the search with the regular staff in London and Paris. These are working on documentary material, and in addition to that, Mr. James White, formerly Chief Geographer, Mr. Jos. Chalfour, the present Geographer, and the staff of the whole Geographical Bureau, are dealing with the map material considered to be necessary in the case. Mr. White has been giving exclusive attention to the case for the past three years, and has made visits to Paris and London during that time, and repeated visits to Washington, New York, Albany, Providence, R.I., and other noted repositories of ancient maps. In addition they have a large legal staff engaged. Mr. Stewart Moore, a leading authority on foreshore law, has been engaged to assist in preparing the case in England and has a couple of assistants. In Canada Mr. C. J. Doherty, former Minister of Justice, has been retained as advisory counsel, and Sir Allan Aylesworth, who figured in the Alaskan Boundary dispute, has been recently associated with him in the same capacity. Then, Premier Taschereau of Quebec, who is Attorney General of the Province, and Mr. Rene Lacomte, the Deputy Attorney General, are in it, while Mr. Alme Geoffrion, one of the ablest leaders of the French-Canadian Bar, is to be one of the senior counsels. To those must be added Sir L. Gouin, Minister of Justice in the Federal Government at Ottawa, Mr. E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister, Mr. B. F. Edwards, the Assistant Deputy Minister, and Mr. P. C. Plaxton of that Department, who are also engaged in preparing the Canadian case. Then it is understood a lawyer from Ontario of equal eminence as Mr. Geoffrion will be appointed when the case gets nearer the stage for argument, and that a prominent English counsel of the standing of Sir John Simon will be engaged as the chief counsel in the case. Both sides are preparing the printed Briefs, which under the Privy Council rules must be exchanged at a certain stage in the proceedings, and after these printed Briefs are considered, counter cases are exchanged in the same way; and after this the matter is set down for hearing.

Sir Patrick, speaking of conditions generally, said he had been in England all through the recent political convulsion, which resulted in the overthrow of Lloyd George and the election of Bonar Law, and he attended the session that followed. In the elections Sir Patrick spoke on a couple of platforms, and had opportunities through his newspaper connections, and otherwise to hear all the leading speakers, and to get some idea of how the contest was carried on. He was accorded the privilege of the social Clubs of each political party, and utilized the opportunity to see how the Parliamentary machinery was worked. The English people were greatly interested in the contest, and the crowds that assembled in the streets of London on the night the returns were coming in, were never seen since the Armistice. Some 75,000 people alone assembled in Trafalgar Square.

Sir Patrick at an overseas Parliamentarian was present in the House of Lords, for the formal opening by the King and Queen. Under the same circumstances he was present to hear the debates, and was one of a number of Colonial Legislators who lunched and were otherwise entertained.

Gift to Brigade.

TO celebrate his 89th birthday, Sir Joseph Outerbridge has presented a cheque for $250 to the C.I.B. Cadets. Sir Joseph was the first colonel of the Brigade. In announcing the gift at last night's parade, Lieut.-Col. R. F. Goodridge said that Sir Joseph had always been a firm friend of the Brigade which he had helped so much to build up, and his continued interest in the Battalion, as manifested by his munificent donation, was greatly appreciated. Three hearty cheers were given at the conclusion of the Colonel's address. It was also announced that Capt. Frank Miles, who has for many years been connected with the Brigade, has been compelled to resign his commission. Capt Miles joined up as a private and his valuable services were rewarded with the granting of a commission. His resignation is greatly regretted. Lieut. P. B. Rendell has been promoted to the rank of Captain and will replace Capt. Miles as O.C. of F. Company.

The Carpenter-Siki Fight.

RIGHTS SECURED BY MAJESTIC THEATRE. January 10th, 1923. Dear Sirs,—We are pleased to announce that we have secured the Newfoundland rights for the most talked of fight of the century. The Carpenter-Siki contest, held in Paris last October. This is without doubt the best fight picture you have ever witnessed. Photography is excellent, and every punch is seen as clearly as if you had a ring side seat. No fictitious contest of recent years has created such a controversy among sport followers. Typical points in dispute being:—

Was the verdict fair? Was Carpenter actually fouled? Did Siki trip the Idol of France? Did Carpenter butt and foul Siki?

Was Georges out of condition? Did Siki really pack a punch? What chance will he stand with Dempsey?

The only answer is see the picture and judge for yourself; slow motion photography gives the verdict with pitiless impartiality.

The picture had its first showing on this side of the Atlantic at Montreal, November 11th and it drew immense crowds. SEE IT, IT'S GREAT! Yours very truly, MAJESTIC THEATRE.

ENTERTAIN CHILDREN. The children's entertainment yesterday afternoon at the Synod Hall, under the auspices of National Chapter Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, was a very pleasing event. Some 270 children were present, and it was due to the liberality of Judge Morris, Colonel Rendell, Hon. S. Milley and Mr. William Campbell, of Campbell & Mackay, that success crowned the efforts of those who gave the entertainment, and the children appreciated the good things bestowed upon them to the utmost. The crowding interest, however, seemed to centre around the group from Government House, for Lady Allardyce accompanied by her step-daughter and Secretary had arrived, and not only so but our new "First Lady" very kindly addressed the gathering in a few brief but beautifully chosen and simple words, assuring them that the opportunity to speak to them gave her much pleasure, and that our own King George took a most intense interest in the children of his great empire, and it was very gratifying to find such warmth of patriotic feeling in the old dominion of Newfoundland. The children evinced most breathless interest in the lady speaker and expressed their entire satisfaction by a tremendous clapping of hands and shrill little cheers, and to judge by the beaming faces and childish laughter echoing on all sides, the evening's entertainment was an unqualified success.

"Mount Pearl Turnip Greens."

Since the canning of Food Products has been commercialized, it is a daily occurrence to eat fruits and vegetables grown 10,000 miles away from Newfoundland; now for the first time one of our local Newfoundland vegetables has been canned, and is offered for sale.

During the past summer about 10,000 lbs. of Turnip Greens were packed in the factory of the UNITED CAN MANUFACTURING CO., LTD., under expert workmen and thoroughly sanitary conditions. These Turnip Tops were purchased mostly from farmers in the Mount Pearl district and are now on the market under the name of "Mount Pearl Turnip Greens." It took 4 1/2 lbs. of fresh turnip greens to fill each can, and as the retail price is 5c., they come really cheaper than early spring greens. In addition to which they are already thoroughly cleaned and only have to be heated to be ready for the table.

Those who have already tried some speak very highly of them, and a brisk sale is expected by the following grocers who have them for sale:—
