Mr. Samuel Lewis, of London Township, told of a conversation with Mr. Kimball on the London market. The reeve had spoken of the bill of Dr. Ross, admitting that the council had agreed to give Dr. Ross $100 a week. Kimball deplored that the cases had run so long, witness declared. Witness backed up Dr. Ross in his claim, telling Kimball that the council must hold by the bargain.

Mr. McEvoy, for Dr. Ross, submitted that the four persons present at the board's meeting entered into contract with Dr. Ross to attend the patients at $100 a week. That, in his opinion, was the bargain made that day. He claimed the defendant's evidence showed that the offer had been accepted when the appointment was made. His lordship said that the question of remuneration was left open in the appointment.
